Or if the ice pad is not constructed, the committee is asking the municipality to provide city owned land as a site for an "action centre."

Proposed by the committee is a pre-fabricated Butler-type building of regulation ice surface dimensions, artificial ice, washrooms, change rooms, mensamire area and seating for about 400 spectators.

Can Only Act Legally: PM

expanded their mortgage funding.

Figures for the first quarter of 1969 show new housing starts running well ahead of the 200,000 a year which the Hellyer inquiry report said was necessary.

Mr. Trudeau also announced that James Richardson, minister without portfolio, now is responsible for housing.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) said the Hellyer "task force" report had opened a public debate on housing but was undercut by the minister's determination that private industry could solve the problem.

He said an NDP government would set up a housing ministry, build 250,000 houses a year, fix interest rates at six per cent and put $1,500,000,000 into buying up land for future housing.

Walter Carter (PC—St. John's West) said the present concept of public housing throws people together into ghettos.

The system of raising rents as the tenants' incomes increased destroyed initiative.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said the Conservatives had stuck to the issue of housing, but he criticized the NDP for fighting on the question of the constitution.

He said the crux of the housing problem was the inability, on the federal level, to cut down the red tape and help the man in the street who does not care about the constitution.

On the question of housing, Mr. Mackasey said legislation will come before the House in a few weeks.

Before starting the emergency debate on housing, the Commons spent an hour in procedural debate on proposed amendments to the government's omnibus bill on the Criminal Code. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux then cut 30 proposed amendments on the abortion section down to 14.

Debate on the amendments resumes Monday.

BIRTHS

GERRITSE — Fritz and Cheryl (nee Fraser), of Orange, Caledonia announce the birth of their son, Robert Frederick, on Friday, April 18th, 1969, a grandson for Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Fraser, Belleville.

IN MEMORIAM

FITZGIBBON — In loving memory of our mother, Ethel Fitzgibbon who passed away April 26, 1954.

Sometimes passed, sometimes sad, But always remembered by mom, Dad and Sheryl.

Some day we'll be together — not so far away.
They say time heals with remembrance of you.
But I'm comforted by now Edward, Fergus, Goldie, Mildred and Hazen.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of Fred Thomas Bateman, of Wilton who was instantly killed on April 27, 1968.

Deep in the heart lies a picture,
Of one we loved dearly,
A face we remember,
Dear Dad, from I can't keep it,
Because he was one of the best,
Through hard or fair we were on our glasses,
And only there is now always sad.
There is never a night or a morning
But I think of the husband I had.
Not a day do I forget you,
A day never goes by you're always here,
For I love you and miss you,
Until the day I die.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly by wife, Vera Bateman.

BATEMAN — To our dear brother Wilfred Thomas Bateman who passed away suddenly on 27 April, 1968, we give love's greatest gift — remembrance.
As long as life and memory shall last,
We shall remember.
The memory never dims,
And we treasure it more as time grows,
Sweet and our silent tears.
—Sister Ethel and Sister Hazelgrove.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of a dear son, Wilfred Thomas Bateman who was killed suddenly on April 27, 1968.
One year has passed and time has not dimmed
When day I loved was called away,
My heart is broken and my head aches
To part with one I loved so dear.
He never said goodbye to me,
He never said he was going,
He left this world without warning,
To him I loved so well,
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mum.

CARD OF THANKS

Mere words are so inadequate to express our deepest appreciation to each and everyone of our friends and neighbours for their kindness and sympathy during our recent loss of our dear husband and father, E. Eurstis Spry, with beautiful floral tributes, expressions of sympathy and deeds of infinite kindness. Special thanks to Rev. Ross Hall, Dr. Gee and the MacKenzie Funeral Home staff for their kind and efficient service.

Carl and Vera Spry.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends, relatives and neighbors for the many floral tributes, expressions of sympathy and deeds of kindness extended to us during the recent bereavement of our dear mother Mrs. Florence Bateman. Special thanks to Rev. Ross Hall, Dr. Gee and the MacKenzie Funeral Home for his kind and efficient conduct and also John R. Bush for organ music.

Gerald and Roy Bateman and family.

C of C Plans Carnival For 1970 Winter

Belleville is slated to have a winter carnival early in 1970.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the event and a special committee under the chairmanship of Stanley Albert will be in charge.

The committee expects to begin planning for this carnival this June, the Chamber announced today.

The education committee, under directors F. H. Bellstedt and J. H. Monley, is working with the Canada Manpower Centre to assist students in obtaining summer employment. This committee will also organize a meeting to review courses provided by arts and technology.

The department of labor, through the Lake Ontario Development Association, asked the C of C to arrange the session to determine the requirements industries and commerce seek in community college graduates.

Most recent projects undertaken by the C of C are the erection of an informati o n signboard at the harbor to assist visiting yachtsmen, and a study of dockage requirements. Directors Robert Ioaty and Ronald Carter were in charge of the projects.

During the past week the Chamber has received comments and suggestions on the role it should play in the community. President Jack Ireland has called a special meeting of the board of directors for May 1 to review and discuss the suggestions.

The comments were solicited by the Chamber following a panel discussion at the April 22 meeting on means of improving the Chamber image.

DONALD FINKLE

ROLAND BELANGER

Improving dockage facilities and the improvement of tourist promotion service are the two projects that Chamber of Commerce director Donald Finkle feels should be concentrated on.

After being a chamber member for the past 12 years and a director for one Mr. Finkle has served on the retail committee and the old age tribunals.

Although he feels the chamber is doing a good job he also thinks that more publicity relations would help their image.

As for the committee study on the chamber's objectives and goals Mr. Finkle feels that "with the rapid changes in government and public attitude an analysis of our programs should be periodically conducted to ensure that we will continue to meet the needs of the community.

Besides his activity on the chamber of commerce Mr. Finkle is a past director of the Kiwanis club and a member of the Sales and Ad club.

"We cannot rest on our laurels," says chamber director Roloed Belanger who feels that the chamber should have three roles, being a unified voice representing business and commerce, guardian of the rights of the public and to promote and improve the community.

Mr. Belanger has been a director of the chamber for the past three years, a member for five and has served on the centennial committee, the membership committee and has been second vice - president for two years.

He also believes that the chamber "cannot truly fulfill its objectives until it has become a self sufficient organization.

"Every effort must be made to eliminate the necessity of receiving annual financial support from the city of Belleville," he stated.

More involvement in political matters, on all three levels of government would be a good thing according to Mr. Belanger.

Council Backed BySchool Head

PICTON (Staff) — Hutton Martin, chairman of Prince Edward County School Board agrees with county council's move not to collect school taxes.

County council voted unanimously Tuesday night not to levy education taxes unless some adjustments are made.

Education costs to the county have increased by 20 per cent.

Referring to council's stand Mr. Martin said: "I think that it is a realistic action, a step in the right direction."

The chairman feels that education is a responsibility of the province and that property taxes aren't enough to pay for the new school system.

Mr. Martin said schools in Prince Edward county "a re built no better than anywhere else."

Speaking on council's move in the face of grant shortages Mr. Martin commented: "Either the government comes up with something justified or pay the whole shot themselves."

Board members met with Department of Education officials Monday concerning the board's budget and the burden put on the taxpayers of Prince Edward County.

Mr. Martin said they were asked to wait one week for an answer.

Playground Clean-up Under Way

Preparations have begun for installation of about $8,000 worth of playground equipment at the Kinsmen swimming pool park on Dundas St. East. The Kinsmen Club will install the apparatus and the city parks board will fence the area.

Kinsmen Begin Work

Belleville Kinsmen have commenced work at the Dundas Street park at the corner of Newberry Street in preparation for installation of approximately $8,000 worth of playground equipment.

Installation of the equipment at the Kinsmen swimming pool park was approved some months ago by the city parks and recreation committee.

Equipment to be installed will be the latest in design and will consist of swings, rides of various kinds and other playground apparatus with appeal to the younger generation.

The Kinsmen club will do the complete installation, and the city parks board will fence the area as a protection for the youngsters.

The wading pool will remain although parks authorities are thinking in terms of redesign.

Installation by the Kinsmen of playground equipment at the Dundas Street park is the continuation of a service club project started some years ago with the construction of the Kinsmen swimming pool.

Church Walkathon Objective of $3,000 Obtained

DESERONTO — The 25-mile walkathon last week organized by the United Church, was a success in every way. Participants are only now collecting from their sponsors, and so receipts are not yet available. But it looks as though he objective, $3,000 has been obtained. The money will be used for decorating the sanctuary.

Every single one of those who started deserved equal credit, as each walked as far as he could. The two eleven-year-old girls, who limped in last at four o'clock deserve a great deal of credit as well as the two boys, 15 and 17, who came in first at 12.30.

In all, 86 walked the 20 miles. No one walked less than 10 miles and most of them were 10 years old or less.

In some cases whole families participated, with the father or mother patrolling or at a check point. Several grandparents finished, and several others who were long past teenage.

Members of the UCW were on hand with refreshments as soon as the walkers reached the church. Refreshments were also available at each check point, principally cold drinks.

Mayor James Sharpe was there with encouragement before the walkers started, and Chief of Police David Sargent with a talk on safety. Town police patrolled the route to the bridge and the Picton OPP kept up a constant patrol in Prince Edward.

Private cars also patrolled constantly to pick up those who were tired out.

Among those who completed the walk were Rev. William Hendry and Mrs. Hendry. Mr. Hendry was sponsored for close to $13. a mile.

Important is the sense of achievement which came alive in the town. But "the real spirit of Deseronto came to the fore, with everyone helping to make it a success," a spokesman for the committee asserted.

Bridge Still Shut

Closing of the Bay Bridge for two periods each day will be extended for at least part of next week.

The bridge will continue to be closed to traffic on week days from 9 to 11.45 a.m. and from 1 to 3.30 p.m.

The extension is necessary because of time lost when rainy weather held up welding. Because of the danger involved, welding could not continue during damp weather.

Whither Housing ?

One of the anomalies of the Canadian political scene is the fact that housing has been the responsibility of the Minister of Transport, Paul Hellyer.

Now Mr. Hellyer has resigned and one of his reasons, although not stated in so many words, is cabinet inaction on his recommendation that housing — perhaps the most pressing of the country's domestic problems — should be made the responsibility of a separate ministry.

Another key suggestion of Mr. Hellyer's following his recent cross-country survey of the housing situation was elimination of the 11 per cent tax on building materials, for long a factor that has held home development back.

Basically, however, Mr. Hellyer's resignation stems from the general mood of frustration in which he finds himself over the constitutional chains that hamper progress in housing. As one observer put it, "in the minister's view, the constitution cannot be allowed to stand in the way of action by the federal government when it sees the need — he could not let his housing policies be turned aside by the argument that housing and urban affairs are primarily provincial responsibilities."

In Belleville we have just been afforded an example — and an encouraging one at that — of provincial action on housing. The construction of 141 senior citizens and single housing units planned for the city by the Ontario Housing Corporation is expected to contribute toward a city house construction record this year. But Mr. Hellyer is clearly impatient of an overall administrative menage that fails to get things done. He said Canadians are tired of "buck-passing" in the housing field. . . "I would like to speak for the people who don't care which level of government does things as long as they are done. Call it functionalism if you like. I call it making government the servant of the people."

Mr. Hellyer shows courage. He is not a man to compromise on matters of principle. His tenure as Minister of Defence was typical, when he fought long and bitter political battle to achieve integration of the Canadian defence forces.

If there is anything to be learned from Mr. Hellyer's resignation it is that the needs of the people with regard to housing, as in other matters, must come first. The country needs action on housing, but there is little sign of it in Ottawa. Mr. Hellyer headed a task force that unveiled far and wide to seek solutions to the problems of housing. Must all his recommendations come to nothing?

We recall some words of Mr. Trudeau's two years ago on the subject of the constitution. They may seem appropriate in the light of events today, but they are not: true of Mr. Hellyer who is a man who faces issues squarely. Mr. Trudeau was then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson and he told a Montreal audience that politicians who spend their time and energy complaining about the constitution are simply trying to find excuses for not doing a good job.

The present constitution, Mr. Trudeau added, in no way restrains politicians from tackling "our real problems" such as housing shortages, cost of living and other social questions. "So I am not ashamed to say that I support the status quo of the constitution."

Be that as it may, Mr. Trudeau, in acknowledging two years ago that housing was one of Canada's real problems, must agree today that nothing has changed. As Mr. Hellyer suggests, people are not interested in political semantics but rather in measures that will provide the kind of housing they need at prices they can afford.

More in School

Statistics are dull enough, but sometimes they say something. Ontario's school enrolment for instance has reached 1,931,397. Of this total 1,021,676 are enrolled in public school, 500,807 are in secondary school, and 408,914 in the separate school system. They are taught by 84,790 teachers in 5,055 schools.

More students, it is encouraging to note, are staying in school. In 1955, according to these provincial government figures, 24 per cent of those enrolled in Grade 9 went through to Grade 13. In 1963, however, 32 per cent of those in Grade 9 went to Grade 13.

What about more recent times? The government bulletin does not say, but it is likely even more are remaining in school and thereby obtaining maximum benefit from their education.

Meantime, here is another interesting point: a one-room schools are still in use, but they are fast disappearing. Last year the number of one-room schools was reduced to 266 from 530 in 1957.

Ottawa Offbeat

P.M. and Stanfield Becoming Increasingly Touchy

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA: For a couple of supposedly low-key characters, Prime Minister Trudeau and Opposition Leader Stanfield have high irritation ratings.

Perhaps it was because they were regarded as such calm, quiet, cool cats that it comes all the more of a surprise to discover they are quick to burn up.

This - allowed, they can be easily needled.

In a politician, they seem to forget, an arrow-pierced hide, impervious to barbs, goads, prods and needles, should be standard equipment.

Both leaders seem to nurse resentments.

Subject to the slow burn, ever-sensitive to criticism, they are equally capable of sudden stack-blowing.

And out comes exactly the wrong word and the thing not to say.

Like "crummy" and "lousy French" and "why should we sell their wheat," and "don't Albertans care about foreign policy?" and "what's good for people to disappoint them sometimes."

But if the prime minister has sometimes blown his cool, Opposition Leader Stanfield too has had his flare-ups.

Let the prime minister take a sly dig, as he likes to do, at the Conservative policy hangup on the "deux nations" hook, and the opposition leader explodes. He doesn't explain, or rationalize, or defend it. He just gets mad.

He makes it painfully obvious to political friend and foe alike that this is a very sensitive Conservative policy nerve-end.

That's the obvious division, the continuing policy conflict inside the Conservative caucus.

Let the prime minister touch on that tender topic and the Conservative leader lashes back in ill-temper about the "splits in your own party," sounding like small boys who used to, when stuck for something better to fire back at a tormentor, yap "no's your old man!"

Finally, let anyone dare to say anything in even mild criticism of the Conservative performance in Parliament — and they have — and the opposition leader may storm "don't tell me how to run the party!"

Few of these flare-ups are unprovoked.

Nor are the prime minister's, which blaze out more frequently likely because he's under more pressure than the Conservative leader.

What sort of provocations? Well, they vary.

The one that fired up the prime minister to the point of reading out the press as "crummy" was particularly provocative.

As he came into his press conference, one of the radio reporters, working for a tag-pox-wow Toronto radio station, had his tape-recorder going full blast with a playback of an interview he had with the prime minister's luncheon guest, Yoko Ono Lennon. The interview was in crashingly bad taste, and must have made the prime minister's skin crawl when he heard it.

One of his press secretaries tried to kick the tape-recorder under a chair, hoping to shut it off. But he missed, and the prime minister settled down to the press conference with Eva providing background chatter.

But there have been others far less provocative.

The prime minister keeps mentioning in some resentment that phrase "two peoples" — which the opposition leader used to describe his London visit.

And the prime minister seems unable to forget that he loused up the Grey Cup kickoff. He refers, too, when annoyed, to "no medals" being awarded for Rosing to his speeches, and irritated reference to one of his less-good Toronto appearances.

Easily irritated, he lashed out recently in Calgary when asked why he hadn't said one word in his speech about oil. Didn't oilmen care about foreign policy, he snapped — and if they didn't it might do them good to be disappointed.

Then there were the wampish questions as to why the government should have to bother selling wheat and the "off his rocker" crack at Leader Premier Bertrand.

When a prime minister and an opposition leader speak in anger, they run the risk of speaking into a political echo chamber and hearing their ill-considered words coming back again and again and again.

Remember Prime Minister King and his "not five cents for a Tory government" and C. D. Howe's "who's to stop us!"

It could happen again.

Australia and Canada Seek Closer Relations

(R. L. Carthery in The Windsor Star)

Whether or not they approve of his impulsive approach to the duties of his high office or his authoritarian-philosophy of political liberalism, all Australians give Prime Minister John Gorton top marks for his visit to Mr. Trudeau.

Though it cannot be expected to have immediate results, a purposeful attempt to establish closer relations with Canada is long, long overdue. The two countries have much in common and a great deal to learn from each other, if they will. Both are Pacific powers. Both have federal constitutions, with all the vexing problems of relations between a powerful central government and the component states involve. Both have alliances with the United States — but with a vital distinction. Canada takes for on the protection of her powerful neighbor in all conceivable circumstances. Isolated Australia, on the other side of the vast Pacific, has no such comforting certainty. She must show American she merits protection by proving a dependable ally, hence her presence in Vietnam. As Minister for Defence Allan Fairhall put it the other day, it is an alliance full of difficulties and uncertainties.

However, there are important differences of current policy to be faced. Australia is not only heavily committed in Vietnam. She has undertaken that her troops will remain in Malaysia — Singapore when the British leave. Canada, while remaining in NATO, is to withdraw all her land troops from Europe. Australia willingly provides American bases on her territory. Canada has realistically decided to recognize China. Australia, though China is one of her best customers for wheat feels bound not to desert Taiwan, whose ambassador in Canberra is absurdly accredited as representing China.

William Miller, manager of the Swift Canadian Company in this city was elected president of the Belleville Bridge Club at the annual meeting. Other officers are H. N. Becker, vice president; W. B. Vandervoort, secretary treasurer, and W. N. Belair, Frank Domenico and L. E. McLean as the executive.

Terminating a most successful year of operation approximately 50 members of the Belleville-Sargent and Co. Ltd. bowling league were at their annual banquet at the Golden Acre Inn.

The Northern Electric Company Employees Association paid fitting tribute to a championship hockey team at a well-loyable dance held at the Club Commodore.

What about Victoria Park? For the past year there has been only a temporary bridge entrance, neither rustic nor artistic. No time should be lost in preparing plans for a permanent structure and fixing up the park generally as a recreation place for the public.

After the regular meeting of Court Moira I.O.F., a smoker was held and during the proceedings Bro. Charles Walters, financial secretary, and Bro. S. S. Finkle, recording secretary, were each presented with a handsome cane. Bro. Herzig, Court Deputy, made the presentation.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Ottawa was partially burned by a fire 60 years ago today—in 1909—that originated in Hull and destroyed two-thirds of the latter city. Fanned by strong winds, the fire leapt across the Ottawa River and burned the industrial sections of both cities. The blaze caused damage put at 15,000 homeless and damaged about $10,000,000 of property.

Status of Women

Is Equality Really Necessary?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I read with horrified amusement the Peterborough Examiner column which appeared on your editorial page: Judy Socks It To Them!

It seems that with each frustration, Miss Le Marsh becomes a little less lady-like. One shudders to think to what state she would be reduced by the office of Prime Minister.

Millions of the taxpayers' dollars are still being spent on the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, which panders to the inferiority complex of the woman who feels that she must compete. Would we not be wiser to soft-pedal lest one of the "enemy" should suggest how much our emancipation is contributing to divorce, poor health, juvenile delinquency, unemployment and the present state of the nation's economy?

Above all, do we wish to sacrifice our birthright for mere equality? That wonderful, whimsical writer Sir James Barrie was wise to us when he revealed that there is more than one way to skin a cat.

So back to the kitchen sink, our Macchiavellian schemes and vive la difference!

I have only contempt for those who use the pseudonym, but I must confess that I toyed with "Delilah" for this one.

Majority Government Makes for A Dull Commons

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — The crowds still line up for the daily question period in the Commons but there seems to be general agreement that, as a show, its rating is slipping.

It certainly isn't anything like the Diefenbaker-Pearson era when there would be thunderous questions, wagging forefingers, and angry denials. There were times when the front benches of both sides were starting into action before the first question was out.

By contrast, the daily question period now seems, to many observers, to be orderly, dull and long. Not even the Thursday resignation of Transport Minister Paul Hellyer caused many shafts to be thrown across the floor.

"The big difference is majority government," says Max Saltsman (NDP—Waterloo South). "Every day from 1962 to last year was a cliff-hanger. The government could have fallen at any time. This was, no doubt, an incentive for questioners."

There are other reasons, too, and Mr. Saltsman and many other members agree on most of them.

Opposition members say the government's system of alternating attendance by ministers has eliminated much of the cross-fire, because ministers now have more time to get briefed on a difficult subject.

"There's another important reason why question period might not seem as exciting," says Gerald W. Baldwin, Conservative House leader, "and that is because more people now are taking part."

In previous Parliaments, question period was often dominated by the Diefenbaker front benchers, and many backbenchers decided to sit it out.

"We've deliberately tried to widen the base of those asking questions," says Mr. Baldwin. "Now there seems to be more inclination to ask questions about specific issues rather than using them as a provocative, needling gesture."

Among other reasons offered by various MPs is:

The Speaker has tightened application of the rules in question period and dismisses many argumentative queries.

Neither Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield nor Prime Minister Trudeau is an infighter.

There have been no juicy issues, such as scandals, which rocked the previous Parliament.

"Then there is Trudeau himself," says Mr. Saltsman. "It's like punching a marshmallow because you don't get hard answers. He shrugs his shoulders."

Pope Paul's Worried Voice Contrasts With Pope John's

NEW YORK (AP) — When the late Pope John convened Roman Catholicism's historic Vatican Council in 1962, he urged the church to approach the world's modern climate of change with high confidence rather than with the gloomy fears and past condemnations of the "prophets of doom."

Four years after that vigorously transforming council ended, and with its effects still swelling through the church, a sharply contrasting note of foreboding was being sounded by the man who now occupies the papal chair.

Twice recently, in the midst of Christendom's celebrations of Easter, Pope Paul VI voiced dire anxieties at current church ferment, decrying "the scandal" of dissident clerics who "crucify the church" and saying the unrest has brought Catholicism to the brink of schism.

"Practically schismatic," he put it. Schism is an ancient ecclesiastical term derived from a Greek word used in the New Testament to describe differing views about Christ, but now defined in canon law as a split in the church, or break from its central authority.

It happened in the "great schism" of 1054 when Eastern Orthodoxy rejected papal supremacy, again in the 16th century Protestant departure from Roman Catholicism, and in 1870 when Old Catholics in Europe disowned the newly-fixed doctrine of papal infallibility.

Is it likely now?

Although Roman Catholic officials and scholars have widely recognized the sharp strains of readjustment now going on in the church, they generally have not noted any signs of an actual rupture, at this juncture.

"My feeling, from talking with church people in this country and also in Europe, is that there is not a sense of much alarm on that count," commented Rev. Donald R. Campion, editor of the Jesuit weekly, America.

Pope Paul only brought up the word "schism" in connection with a Scripture reading of the day referring to early Christian quarrels in Corinth, which resembled in some ways the current ferment in the church.

Certainly, however, Catholicism is in a time of transition, with its governing system being overhauled, its disciplines changed and challenged, and traditional interpretations of basic doctrines under questioning.

Hundreds of priests, including recently a member of the papal staff, and two Latin-American bishops, have left their religious offices to become laymen, but the overwhelming majority of them have remained loyal church members.

At the crux of many of the difficulties is the issue of church authority, which the Vatican Council defined in a new, more democratic way, as shared, collegial participation. But finding means to implement the new pattern often has produced sharp collisions with the old system of tightly centralized rule.

Despite the controversies and strains, however, many church scholars see the process as leading potentially to a revitalized church.

—Elimination in most cases of old insulating rules prohibiting home visits and attendance at public functions or other social occasions without special permission.

—Relaxation of the strict regulations in dress and other customs, modernizing traditional garb, often allowing a choice between habits and ordinary apparel, and also an option in use of religious or family names.

'New Nun' Is Surprise Of Reforms in Religion

NEW YORK (AP) — The "new nun" is the surprise package of religious initiative and reform.

While much of church officialdom still is grappling over how to handle new ideas, she is carrying them out.

"We're way ahead of the pendulum," says Sister Margaret Mary Bach, a teacher of philosophy.

"Once a woman gets an impression that something should be done—most! She does it. But a man sits and thinks about it."

In any case, the tide of changes and renovation has swept the Roman Catholic orders of women in the United States, transforming to varying degrees the rules and ways of their 176,000 members.

"It's bringing about an entirely new life style, a wider, freer interpretation of religious community," says Sister Margaret Mary. "The heart of it all is openness to the world and the divine presence in it."

That liberal outlook, reversing the previous emphasis on keeping nuns fenced off from the worldly arena, has produced far-ranging changes in the sisterhoods, including:

—Widespread easing of the formerly fixed, uniform patterns of worship and work, allowing leeway for individually planned schedules of activity.

—More democratic operational procedures, providing for member participation in electing or recommending superiors and in revising constitutions and bylaws.

URGES PRACTICE

EDMONTON CP — Rita Jones, a French teacher at an Edmonton separate school says children become eager to learn a foreign language when given a reason to speak it. So Mrs. Jones uses puppets to get the children to speak. "The youngsters think the puppets are talking and they forget to be self-conscious."

"We used to be taught to be afraid of involvement, to keep ourselves removed from the world—that it's dirty," Sister Margaret Mary, 35, said in an interview.

"But we're not afraid of involvement any more. We see the need to integrate the sacred and the secular, to bear witness to the religious dimension in life through intense involvement with people, as fully human beings in the world. We're very much at home in it."

Although the modification in most dress has been the most obvious indication of change, she said this is only the outward sign of "a whole new theological view," which she terms "incarnational theology."

It emphasizes that in Christ, God is revealed as "psychically and organically within the world process," as a transcendent yet imminent presence in the continuing work of creation.

New Zealand Cardinal Lives in Simple Style

WELLINGTON (CP) — New Zealand's first cardinal does not live in princely state; on the contrary, he observes a regime of monastic simplicity.

Archbishop P. T. B. McKeefry of Wellington is one of 35 new cardinals named by the Pope. No New Zealander has ever before held the rank.

Aged 69, he has the manner of a man far younger. When reporters went to talk to him about his new dignity, they had difficulty in finding his residence.

He lives in a nosecript, undistinguished house jammed in between a school playground and a jumble of tumbledown buildings. There is no gate and no front door. The main entrance is at the back.

The new cardinal has two simple rooms in the ancient wooden upper storey of the house. He wears a frayed black housecoat at home and buys a new suit about once in five years. He lives on frugal fare—an apple pie is a special treat.

One of the seven children of a policeman, he was educated in New Zealand. He has been an archbishop since 1954, but remains completely unaffected.

People of all faiths throughout New Zealand know him simply as Peter. He is known and respected by them one end of the country to the other, not as a prince of the church but as a man of complete integrity.

Second Glance - - - - by Viva Richmond Graham

A SPARKLING CITY BY THE SEA

"As long as there are clouds, there will be dreams." — Billie Noel, KRIS TV, NBC, Corpus Christi, Texas.

"Have a good trip - - - we'll read about it in Second Glance on your return - - - kind Belleville friends had said when we, (my husband and I,) left for some sun and sea air during March, at Corpus Christi, on the Texas Gulf of Mexico.

"Perhaps not this time - - -"

But — that was before - - -

We had flown by jet anywhere, and we with fellow passengers enjoyed appetizing meals, served by impersonal, solicitous, cerise mini-skirted, air hostesses and before we arrived at our Texas airport banked with fields of pink primroses, like a welcoming carpet of nodding flowers

Of morning walks along the sea shore and bay discovered by Alavres de Pineda in 1519 and the Feast Day of Corpus Christi, and so was named.

Then centuries passed before, in 1837, Col. H. L. Kenney (wealthy suitor of Daniel Webster's daughter, who refused him) came to Texas and charmed by this very bay established a one-cat town, until Gen. Zachary Taylor and his troops arrived in 1845.

Of strolls around downtown shops, a block or so away, white and clean looking that display only summer fashion, the year around.

Of the large lovely Spanish cathedral: the high-rise hotel, with priceless crystal chandeliers, and d o o r - k n o b s of mosaic abalone shell, built by a Texan heiress to faithful a whim who spent her last days in its 13 bath-room pent-house suite of rooms. Of tales of a remarkable million - acre King ranch (the l a r g e s t in U n i t e d States) some forty miles away.

We are captivated by the friendliness of people everywhere — courteous, kind, and thoughtful in this city of 200,000 or so; there is hospitality. We mingled and gossiped a bit: One resident said, "It always amuses us, when the northern wives of the men at the naval base come here to live. The first thing they do is wash their curtains. Now nobody washes window curtains that soon — it's done here."

Or, "some parts of the year the afternoons are often hot, so we play bridge in the mornings, from 9:30 to 12:00, with coffee and sandwiches on the buffet, and whoever is dummy just serve themselves."

On our last evening, just at dusk, as a fabulous string of lights as glittering as a diamond necklace along the entire seashore, we loaded one of the window again upon the cars, separated from our hotel by a double-lane boulevard of green grass and palm trees, and the broad sidewalk edged by the sea wall, with steps at its other side leading into the sea; Suddenly we were aware of the pleasing speaking voice of a local TV personality, Billie Noel, saying, in part, over the TV which is turned on:

"A few days ago, a wise man said to me he had never had time to be twenty. . .or any ago, really. How sad, I thought, . . and then I realized the same thing was happening to me. So . . .I decided to take an hour or two and find out what the "quiet world" is doing in my absence.

I visited the sea wall. Did you know: There are eleven steps on the seawall? . . Here is what I found on the eleven steps. No one hurries. unless they flee from the memories awakened there. . .

Are they lucky, the inhabitors of the eleven steps; free to roam the day, with the unpressed hours to patiently watch the water flow? To catch the silver glint of a meandering fish when he rises from his w a t e r y world to glimpse of the strange moving objects we call people? Free to dream, to plan, to waste the hours with the busy work of watching the world as it slowly turns?. . . .

To watch the solemn windwhispered waves flowing in orderly procession? To sit in quiet meditation with the rare warmth of the sun, the cool stroke of the water on the wall, the peace and tranquility of the eternalness of the tides, the joy they vicariously steal when a fisherman, yards away, lands one worthy of taking home?

Eleven steps down from the busy traffic lanes of shoreline drive it-es another world. Even on the sounds of the passing cars are muted. . . .Do the happy ever sit quietly on the eleven steps?

I used to, in the days when there was time. . . .

I saw three clouds, floating about the eleven steps. As long as there are clouds, there will be dreams. . . ."

Pile Rug Found in Russia Said Oldest in Existence

ARABIC NUMERALS

١٢٣٤٥٦٧٨٩٠

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 0

١٣٢٨ — 1328 = 1910 A.D.

In 1947 a Russian archeological expedition discovered a knotted pile rug frozen in the perpetual ice of the Pazzyk valley in Siberia. In design it appears to have originated in Persia, in construction it seems Turkish. It was made in the 5th century B.C. and apart from the animal and human figures it contains is not significantly different from present day "oriental" rugs.

The Russian find is by far the oldest oriental rug in existence. Antique originals can be said to be rugs made in the same hand-knotted, vegetable-dyed, hand washed method handed down from antiquity. Few antique orientals are older than the latter half of the 19th century and the majority are later.

In the 1920's demand overtook production. Many of the methods, aniline dyes and chemical washing were substituted for many of the age-old processes. Colors were adapted to the European market and new designs, with their names to the rug trade, notably Smyrna and Isharta. (westernized to Sparta, but n o t from Greece).

Chinese high-pile rugs were manufactured as long ago as the 1850's. In the 1920's the type of rug now known as Chinese was developed at Tientsin where it is still made and exported to the western world.

In 1883 an English firm, Zeigler and Co. set up an office in Sultanabad, Persia and began exporting carpet all over the world. They promoted one of the most popular and enduring styles this side of the . Atlantic, the Kirman, which is still being imported. They gave names to other rug styles, Saruk, Sultanabad, Mudjahad and Mahal, copied by the mile in domestic production in Canada. Ziegler went out of business before World War II but their quality of carpet is frequently listed for sale as "Ziegler-type" or "Zeigler-quality."

Quite a number of rugs were made originally for Mohammedan religious purposes and many have the date woven in the rug. Not all arabac characters are dates" however, many are quotations of poetry or prose.

If you find designs corresponding to the illustration, translate the arabic into numbers which will probably give an answer in the 12 or 13 hundreds. The year system is based on the lunar month. To correct, divide your total by 33. Subtract the answer from the arabic number. This gives you the number of years since Mohammed left Mecca — in 622 A.D. You must add 622 to your answer to give the year the rug was made.

The example in arabic translates to 1328 in numbers. 33 divides into 1328 forty times. 1324-40 equals 1288. This means the rug was made 1288 years after 622 A.D. or in 1910 A.D.

Going Steady Improves Disposition

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm the mother of a girl just turned 13. I think your stand against going steady is outmoded and ridiculous. Debbie has literally improved 1000% since she could go steady with Rick, a darling boy of 15. Her grades have gone up, she is much more co-operative around the house, and everyone has noticed an improvement in her disposition.

Before Debbie went steady she was a nervous wreck worrying about whether or not she'd have a date to this party or that school affair. It was pathetic to see that poor girl rush to the phone every time the link of disappointment when it wasn't for her.

Going steady these days means nothing more than having a boy to count on. So please, Ann, change your stand. It's considered a tragedy these days for a young girl to be dateless. — THOROUGHLY MODERN MOMMY.

* * *

DEAR MOMMY: And who made it a tragedy for a young girl to be dateless? Their addlebrained, socially ambitious mothers.

Girls who go steady at 13 are bored stiff at 16. There's nothing left to do but get married. At 18 they're fed up with marriage because it wasn't like the movies. So they get divorced. At 19 they're married and, ready for the glue factory. And their mothers write to Ann Landers and ask, "Where did I fail?".

* * *

DEAR ANN: My mother-in-law became a widow after 25 years of marriage. We knew the period of adjustment would be difficult, but we didn't think it would wreck our marriage.

After crying for months over all "the reminders in the big house," we succeeded moving Mother into an apartment. Now she says that she's afraid to stay alone. To punish us she sits in the dark and refuses to turn on the radio or TV. She won't cook for herself and goes for days without eating. Yesterday she took my husband aside and broached up her shirt waistband to show him how much weight she has lost.

My mother-in-law has succeeded in making her son feel so guilty he is no good as a husband. We have no social life, argue all the time, and are heading toward the divorce court. If anyone ever needed advice, I do. Can you help me? — GRAND ISLAND.

* * *

DEAR GRAND: The problem is not your mother-in-law, it's your husband. But don't you be the one to tell him. The last person who should talk to a man about his mama hang-up is his wife. Urge him to see a psychiatrist.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife has a cousin who loves to gossip. Millie has dinner at our home often (too often) and monopolizes the conversation with her juicy tidbits about who's doing what to whom.

I'm sick of this woman's big mouth and have told my wife it is not good for our children to listen to such tripe. My wife says Millie is interesting and her information is factual. Comment, please? — SHAKER HEIGHTS.

* * *

DEAR SHAKER: Tell your wife she can listen to the mud slinging during the afternoon if she wants to, but it is not good for the kids. Grab the conversational ball by asking one of the children a question — and let them run with it.

MISS DORIS BROWN

Toronto Contralto Guest Soloist

One of Toronto's outstanding contraltos Miss Doris Brown will be one of the guest soloists when Bridge Street United Church augumented choir presents "The Messiah" on Monday evening April 28 in Bridge Street Church.

Miss Brown who is at present soloist in Bloor West United Church, Toronto. Her extensive experience as an oratorio soloist included appearances with the Winnipeg Philharmonic Choir (Elijah), the Rennaissance Singers of Montreal (Messiah), Toronto Mendelssohn Choir (St. Matthew Passion), conducted by Sir Ernest MacMillan, and on several occasions with the Toronoj Mendelssohn Choir in their annual presentations of Messiah in Massey Hall.

An evening of fine music will be presented and tickets will be available at the door.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. Max Sloe with Mrs. Paul Zakos as cohostess.

Plans for the Black and Gold Ball are already under way and will be held once again at Club Cedars in Oct.

Prior to the meeting all members of Alpha Lambda Chapter met at the Hastings Historical Museum. Mrs. Ralph Plumpton gave an informative talk on the history of each room. Pictures were shown of Belleville from its early stage of growth to the present.

Mrs. Plumpton was thanked by everyone for an interesting evening.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Rendell, 139 Dufferin Avenue, Belleville announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Elizabeth, to Mr. David Alexander Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Clinton Murray, Martintown, RR 2. Marriage will take place on Saturday, May 21, 1960 at 7 p.m., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville.

PREFERS DOG

STANTONHILL, England (AP) — Jonah and Dora Wales had been married six months when she decided to call the whole thing off because he insisted on sleeping with his dog Rex. "If it's the dog or her, then I'll take the dog," said Jonah. He's 83, she's 81.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

SCOTT — RUSSELL — On Monday, April 18, 1960, Rev. Harold Snell officiated at the marriage ceremony in Riverside United Church, London, Ontario, when Dorothy Janet Russell of Exeter was united in marriage to Maxwell Robert Scott of Belleville. Attendants at the wedding were Mrs. Dorothy Thomson of Lucan, Ontario and John Armstrong of London, Ontario.

HEART NOT DAMAGED

The healthy heart is not damaged by strenuous exercise, says the federal health department in Ottawa.

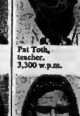
BAPTISMAL RITES

Last Sunday in Christ Church, Susan Kathleen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wright, 191 Wright Ave. was baptized by Canon DeBlois Wright. The baby wore the christening gown of her late grandfather, Philip Burton.

Godparents were Mrs. Carl Wright, 50 College St. East and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cooke, 186 Wright Ave.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon including an appropriate cake was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Wright was assisted at the luncheon by Mrs. Douglas Cooke, Mrs. Sidney Allcorn and Mrs. Carl Wright.



Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Tryon of Gananoque were among those present.

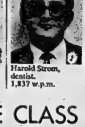
Cliff Uchimaru, student, 2,699 w.p.m.



Glenn Way, sales representative, 2,893 w.p.m.

R. D. Burgess, ironworker, 2,590 w.p.m.

And if past experience is any guide, the new class average will be at least the same. And probably better.

Because even 2,372 words a minute is nothing unusual. For as Evelyn Wood states,

True, it's about 7.4 times faster than the 322 words a minute they used to read.

And it only took them eight weeks.

But most of our classes do this well.

Many of them reach 2,500 and 2,600 words a minute averages.

Many individual students even go over the 3,000 mark. And almost everybody makes at least 1,500.

In fact, we feel that if we can't at least triple the reading speed you have now, with the same if not better comprehension, then we'll refund your money.

Readings Appropriate For Bridal Showers

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Here I am again — you have helped me before. Have you any ideas for a bridal shower — games, food, etc.? My ideas are stale in this community. Thank you. —Theresa D.

ANSWER: I have three cute readings which have been hilarious hits at the last couple of bridal showers we have had. See last Wednesday for a bridal shower menu, if you want something different rather than cookies and squares.

HOW TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND

Be careful in your selection. Do not choose too young, and take only such as have been reared in a good moral atmosphere. When once decided upon and selected, let that part remain forever and give your entire thought to preparation for domestic use. Some insist on keeping them in pickle while others are constantly getting them in hot water. This makes them sour, hard and sometimes bitter. Even poor varieties may be made sweet and tender, and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with smiles and flavored with kisses to taste. Then wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep them warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion, and serve with peaches and cream. When thus prepared they will keep for years. . .and yummy — they're good!

HOW TO COOK A HUSBAND

A good many husbands are entirely spoiled by mismanagement in cooking, and so are not tender and good. Some women keep them too constantly in hot water; others freeze them; others put them in a stew; others keep them constantly in pickle. It can not be supposed that any husband will be good and tender if managed in this way; but they are truly delicious if properly treated.

Don't keep him in the kettle by force, as he will stay there himself if proper care is taken. If he should spoil-don't fret, don't be anxious: some husbands do this. Add a little sugar, the variety that confectioners call "kisses", but on no account add vinegar or pepper. A little spice improves him, but it must be used with judgment.

Do not try him with something sharp to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently lest he be too long in the kettle and become flat and tasteless.

If you follow these directions, you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you, and he will keep as long as you want to have him.

HOW DID SHE DO IT? ....

One of our members has landed a man! How she succeeded she should tell if she can. For to live in a state of connubial bliss We would all much prefer to working like Dids.

Did you roll your eyes? Did you wear pretty clothes? Did you curl your hair? Did you powder your nose? Did you act sweet and coy? Or strong and motherly? And if that did not work, what did you otherby?

Did you use Blisterine? Did you duck B.O.? Was it Pepsum Salts that did it? They're good, you know. What else did you do to make him amorous? Did you wash your clothes in Dreft to keep you glamorous?

On the sea of matrimony we would like to sail our boat! If you have any good pointers, be sure of them to make a note. Perhaps a few food tokens will help fill your grip. And we've tucked in good wishes for a happy life-long trip.

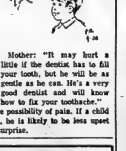
Increases Busts



LONDON (AP) — British doctors are testing a new way of producing bigger and better curves on the chests of underendowed women, the Sunday Times reported. The paper said a team of British surgeons at London's Hammersmith Hospital used a plastic sponge substance known as hydron to increase bustlines of nine women. Another 21 operations are planned before the success of the program will be judged, the paper said.

Points for Parents

Mother: "Of course, the dentist won't hurt you. You'll have fun there. He will let you sit in a chair that rises automatically when he pushes a button."

Mother: "It may hurt a little if the dentist has to fill your tooth, but he will be as gentle as he can. He's a very good dentist and will know how to fix your toothache."

Don't fool your child about the possibility of pain. If a child is prepared for unavoidable pain, he is likely to be less upset than if it comes as a complete surprise.

Dear Doris: I am the president of our church group. Our vice-president is an elderly lady who probably has been president 10 or 15 years ago; feels superior and doesn't hand the reins over to the present younger president.

I can't have any authority in anything; in planning our activities, or even in such a thing as opening a can of milk. I usually give in quickly. . . .

I want to avoid any conflict and yet I feel a pressure building up inside of me. Am I wrong to expect more authority than just presiding at a meeting? — President-by-Name.

Dear President: Good grief, no! But it is a chronic and incurable disease of some pastpresidents to never let go.

There are two approaches to emancipation, and I'd suggest you use both of them: (1) For important decisions, consult the entire executive and abide by a majority decision. As chairman you can draw out each person's ideas.

(2) When it comes to opening the mails, confront her. Point out that she has faithfully done her stint at these pal-

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

The annual meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held recently in the school auditorium. The annual minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Muriel Wood. The annual treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Grace Wallace.

A report was given by the nominating chairman, Mrs. Dorothy McCracken. Room count was held with the banners going to Mrs. Labourier, Mrs. Martin, and Mr. Marson.

Mr. Marson introduced the evening's program which opened with several selections by the school band. The class of 6E sang three spirituals, under the direction of Mrs. McPherson. This class won first prize in the Kiwanis Music Festival, which was held recently in the city.

The Drama Club, under the direction of Mrs. Martin, performed a one act play entitled, Dandy Halowed. The students participating were Mrs. Mimi Macauley, Heather Morrice, Jim Yeamans, Yvonne cochkan, Mark Nolan and Glen Sine.

A group consisting of four boys from the school band, Steve Conley on drums; Terry Merek and George Hymers on trumpet and Dale Jones on the clarinet and piano, entertained with several popular renditions.

Bill Zoochkas played two accordion selections, followed by Steve and Brenda Wilson from Prince Edward County, who played guitars and sang a duet. Miss Wilson also entertained with a vocal solo.

Two piano selections were rendered by Debbie Bailey.

The school choir, who were second prize winners in the Music Festival, sang two selections of choral music, under the direction of Mrs. McPherson. A trumpet quartet, consisting of George Hymers, Bob Graham, Terry Merek, and David Bird, played under the direction of Mr. Bevrin.

The participating students and teachers were thanked by Mrs. Dorothy McCracken.

Coffee was served by the refreshment committee, under the supervision of the social convener Mrs. Marg. Conway.

MOUNT PLEASANT RAWDON MESSENGERS

The Messenger group convened in the Church hall recently.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell was in charge of the study books and prayer and Mrs. Garth Joslin, Juniors.

Kenneth Sharp presided and Jill Muldoon was pianist for the hymns. Reports were given by Donnie Hubel and Linda Bisset.

The program included piano solos by Gail Merrick; Linda Hoard, and Sunets Morgan. Readings were given by Ian Hubel; Kathy Sharpe; Llyn Joslin and Fred Jeffs.

Bluenose Designer Still Captivated by Sailing at 90

HALIFAX (CP) The man who designed what is probably Canada's most famous ship, the championship racing schooner Bluenose, will celebrate his 90th birthday Sunday.

William J. (Bill) Roue of Dartmouth, N.S., still takes a keen interest in ships and the sea and especially in yachting, although his health prevents him from the activity he once knew.

A versatile naval architect and an ardent yachtsman since boyhood, Mr. Roue is a past vice-commodore of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron here and a life member since 1937 of the club which he joined 72 years ago. The club dates its founding to 1837, and Mr. Roue is the senior most living member of the oldest club in North America.

The Nova Scotia-built schooner Bluenose which with late Lunenburg skipper Captain Angus Walters at the helm won the North American fishing fleet racing championship from the United States in 1931—was only one of the many craft that emerged from Mr. Roue's drawing board.

The unbeaten champion, after her fishing days were over, was finally defeated by the sea. She met her end in 1946 on a reef in the West Indies but her memory lives on in the 50-cent stamp issue of 1929 and since 1937 on the Canadian dime. There is also a replica of the Bluenose made by the original builders for a Halifax brewery in 1963.

The list of vessels designed by Bill Roue is almost endless. The schooner yacht Malay, which placed first in her class in 1928, is another example of his ability to design high performance vessels.

A design submitted by Mr. Roue for an eight-metre yacht as a contender for the Canada's Cup race in 1930 won out over others submitted to the Royal Canadian Yacht Club (RCYC) by designers from across Canada.

The Norseman was built at the boatyard of the RCYC in Toronto. It did not become the challenger for the Canada's Cup, but it showed William Roue was in the top class with the best contemporary British yacht designers of the period. The Norseman proved that international class racing yachts could be designed and built in Canada.

Many Roue one-design class boats are still popular, notably the 34-foot Bluenose class which adapted well to being built of glass fibre and the popular Roue 30 in which there is a revival of interest in the Halifax-Dartmouth area.

Although occupied professionally as a naval architect designing commercial craft, Mr. Roue found pleasure in seeking perfection in yacht design.

His interest in sailing and yachts is undiminished and Sunday he will likely be on the quarterdeck of a Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron craft. It is a great source of satisfaction to him to see the upsurge of interest among young people in his favorite sport.

It was in the library of the old squadron building on downtown Hollis Street that as a boy he found the books that captivated his interest in yacht design.

Trout Said Plentiful

GUELPH (CP) — Fishermen who head for trout streams at season's opening today won't know that University of Guelph graduate students have been there before them.

The researchers have been counting, weighing and watching rainbow trout for 11 years to find information governments conservation agencies can use in managing the species.

"I can say that we have found that fishing pressure for the species could be substantially increased without adversely affecting the future welfare of the species," said Douglas Dodge, who leads the University's rainbow studies.

He and helpers count trout entering and leaving three streams tributary to Georgian Bay in the Owen Sound area.

Mr. Dodge says rainbow trout have established a self-sustaining population in the Great Lakes.

In one of the streams studied, the rainbows have an extended spawning season—from December to late spring—documented no place else in the world. The species normally spawns in mid-March.

Mr. Dodge's group plans to make experimental plantings soon of tagged young fish—called smolts—to learn about migration patterns, homing tendencies, survival rates and the number of fish caught.

Pitchers Make Breaks

It's baseball time again and pitchers have been practising their fastballs, curves and sliders. Not to mention slowballs, screwballs, forkballs and even the outlawed spitter. The slider, origin unknown, ranks right up there with the bread-and-butter fastball and curve these days.

Often derided as "a five-cent curve," it provides the hurler with the extra pitch that keeps the batter guessing. The slider approaches the plate much like a fastball. Then it veers—or slides—a few inches to one side or down.

The slider is easier on the pitcher's arm than the curve, which must be thrown with maximum wrist action to impart the spin which makes it break about 15 feet from the plate. The slider is thrown more like a fastball, with the wrist turned to the side.

It breaks only three or four feet from the batter, just enough to throw him off stride or miss the fat part of the bat.

That'll be one of the reasons for lower batting averages these days," says Whitey Ford, retired New York Yankee pitcher who didn't start using it until 1961 when he began to lose his speed.

THEY COULDN'T BUILD A FENCE

So farmers like Joseph Glidden of Illinois developed barbed wire in the 1870's to replace expensive fences of wood and stone. 'Cause it cost so little, the use of barbed wire spread rapidly and ended the open range system beloved by cowboys.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

IT'S AS EASY AS A.B.C.

to choose your home from the many we have available for your selection.

"A"
FOR APPEAL

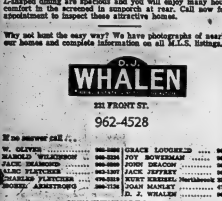
"B"
FOR BARGAIN

There is good value in every feet of this attractive 3 bedroom brick split level on large well landscaped west side lot. The family room in basement is beautifully finished and schools and shopping are close at hand. For added enjoyment there is a nice rose garden and cabana. Priced well below replacement value.

"C"
FOR COMFORT

Comfort and economy combine to make this east end 3 bedroom brick construction which is hard to beat. The living room and L-shaped dining are spacious and you will enjoy many hours of comfort in the screened in sunporch at rear. Call now for an appointment to inspect these attractive homes.



Why not hunt the easy way? We have photographs of nearly all our homes and complete information on all M.L.S. listings.

Law Professors at Queen's Program Computer for Retrieval

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — When a lawyer wants to look up a law decision, he must wade through a myriad of law books —a task which can often take days.

But an experiment in information retrieval at Queen's University opens up the possibility of lawyers having instant information on cases and decisions at their fingertips.

Computer scientists and law department members at Queen's are transferring 39 years of Supreme Court of Canada decisions into electrical impulses that can be read by a computer and stored on tapes one foot in diameter.

It will take 10 operators at 10 terminal keyboards and punches to store the information contained in the thick texts, but the experiment could provide an important tool for lawyers across Canada.

The terminals, equipped with high-speed printers, will be hooked into a central data bank stocked with information that can be retrieved in as little as 30 seconds.

If the problems of retrieval can be ironed out, says Prof. Keith E. Latta of Queen's law department, it could open the way for a judge's office to install a simple typewriter with a punch tape system that would allow transfer of court material to a data bank, as well as giving the judge instant information on precedents.

Prof. Latta is conducting the experiment with colleague Prof. H. J. Lawford, a fellow graduate of the University of Alberta.

The professors, both natives of Edmonton, think the experiment could lead computers into any field and might be useful to municipalities, government or local business.

The project, which also involves IBM in Ottawa, is called INDEPTH (Inquiry at Queen's University into Information Retrieval) and it has already captured the attention of the House of Commons plans to work with Queen's to hire a United States computer expert to look into the possibility of storing debates.

And lawyers in the Maritimes are interested because publishers can no longer afford the cost of sending them copies of court decisions.

Prof. Latta stressed that the system would not be a substitute for lawyers.

"It's just a research tool," he said. Added Prof. Lawford: "It's too early to suggest" that Queen's could provide a Canadian data bank. The problem would be the difficulty of processing and retrieving in two languages.

He said the University of Montreal was working on this problem, and the main concern was to develop the technology to allow the computer to search material stored in French or English.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For April 27

Your birthday today: Plan for a relatively quiet year of steady accumulation, further education. Marked results of your efforts will not arrive until later. Human relationships now deepen and become more meaningful, less turbulent. Today's natives have a remarkable drift to stubbornness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your thoughts settle a bit today and thus judgment is better. Try being slightly more conservative. The full day's effort may pile up a remarkable achievement. Relax and celebrate tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Social activities in your most desirable field of expression now. Get started early, put on your best, and make the most interesting new contacts are the natural procedure today.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You are not going to have your way about everything today, so prepare to compromise. The temptation is to overdo, and thus risk illness from fatigue.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your mood attracts people who are just as moody — simply keep a little distance between yourself and the rest of the world. Watching from the sidelines can be amusing.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your plans have to be properly in the public view. But avoid getting very close to anybody who seems over-anxious. This is not wear out your welcome, stay on the move.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): If you will keep your activities moderate and your comments mild, the Sunday can be a rather good, lively experience despite the upheavals all around you. Withstand temptation to: Keep confidential matters secret.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Stay away from crowds and confrontations. Use your energies to concentrate on studies. Summer plans could be considered today, for example. Meditation this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): The possibility is that it will fall to you to attend some inconvenient but necessary chore this morning in the community. Your own schedule suffers, but your reward makes it worth the bother.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your duties are clear and simple this morning. The afternoon and evening are best spent making solid friendships. Make an early evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Once you have cleared the morning situation in your mind, the rest of the day offers the experience of observing where others' convictions lie at the moment. Your own plans could then be reviewed intelligently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): The simple pursuits and interests are better than hectic, feddish activity. The demand for higher priced gadgets and status symbols overreach as far as you are concerned. Plan for a quiet evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The unexpected is the normal order for you. Personal relations are more important than almost anything else. Do nothing that tends to strain them further. The evening is a long one and well suited for serious reflection.

For April 28

Your birthday today: Your short term interests are far distant but the here-and-now. Many fortunate coincidences are favored in both vocation and home life. Excitement flutters in on every new activity. You become more precise from the experience of the year. Today's natives often develop competence as teachers or scientists. Most have great will power, possibly expressed in contrary directions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Decisions on partnerships, marriage, and the like are favored today. Resolve to disregard all comment whatever your decision may be. Competition can be rugged at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May. 20): There are no windfalls today, only chances to earn the hard way. Unexpected gifts may be surprising, but not apt to produce material benefits.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Join forces with your mate to improve your homestead. There are some things that take more than one person's effort. Back away from any squabble that may develop, as overstatement can unfortunately go further than normal.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Schedules are muddled, people impatient, you are moody, so hold the line until the tide turns in midday. Short trips can be a lot of fun this afternoon.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your business sense comes alive today. Use it to the utmost advantage, then take a complete break tonight. You may have something to celebrate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Pace your activities and requests so you do not spoil your situation with hasty moves. Certain chances offer improvement of your earnings. Open eyes will find them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your finances are under stress, not entirely of your own making, but someone is offering an opportunity for finding the balancing support. Group savings are favored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Come to terms with the realities of your enterprise. Then prepare to improve and stabilize your work. The evening holds a bit of comfort and shared ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Make peace where you can, and resolve not to upset your friends. Enter into group action in your favorite sports and pastimes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): If you can keep a poker face and listen well, you can learn incredibly valuable pieces of information today! The more firmly directed to goals, the better. Begin self - improvement courses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Early discussions resolve into general agreement. Take the group decision and go firmly ahead to apply it. Brief journeys are favored.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): There are so many gimmicks to look out for that you should take along some expert or experienced friend when making major purchases or signing any form of contract.

People's Revolutionary Army Lays Claim to Irish Sabotage

BELFAST (AP) — A group calling itself the People's Revolutionary Army said today it was responsible for Northern Ireland's wave of sabotage attacks and said it would strike again.

A message telephoned to Belfast newspapers by a man naming himself as McKenna said:

"The recent military offensives were carried out by personnel of the People's Revolutionary Army comprising Irish Republican Army veterans and members of republic and socialist movements.

"Further operations can be anticipated."

In the last week attacks on pipelines from reservoirs have reduced Belfast water supplies to less than half of normal.

Police made no immediate comment on the Revolutionary Army claims. But it would fit the known facts. Known paramilitary organizations on both sides of Northern Ireland's political-religious feuding have denied responsibility for the attacks.

The best known, the outlawed Irish Republican Army, insists that it does not deal in sabotage —and never has been slow to claim responsibility when it has been active.

Similar denials have come from the Ulster Defence Volunteers, the underground arm of the extreme Protestant royalists.

Many British troops were expected in Belfast today to reinforce detachments guarding water pipelines, power lines and other public utilities such as communications centres.

Air Canada Teams Still Negotiating Fringe Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiating teams for Air Canada and its striking ground workers met for seven hours Friday but failed to get past fringe benefits in the dispute that has grounded the airline since last Sunday.

Fourteen members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and six from Air Canada were to go to work again today at 10 a.m. EST.

Neither side would comment on the progress of negotiations. However, an informant said non-monetary issues were still being discussed.

Speculation was that the negotiations may go on beyond the weekend.

They are being held in the conference room of the federal labor department. Labor Minister Mackasey, whose office is two floors above, said the Ottawa facilities are "more conducive to meaningful negotiations" than Montreal hotel rooms.

Mr. Mackasey, who has otherwise stayed out of the dispute, gave this as the reason for shifting the negotiations here. They had been held in Montreal until Thursday.

Both the union and management bargaining teams met briefly with Mr. Mackasey after arriving from Montreal, then met together in the conference room.

Acting as mediators are Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy minister of labor, and William Kelly, director of federal conciliation services.

The 8,300 striking ground workers last week rejected by vote Air Canada's offer of a 23-per-cent wage increase over three years. The union has asked 20 per cent in a one-year contract.

The previous contract, which expired Dec. 31, gave a wage range of $2 to $3.97 an hour.

Lakes Pollution Said Worrisome

WASHINGTON (CP) — The International Joint Commission Friday concluded a four-day session at which it received a still-secret and "worrisome" report on pollution of Canadian-U.S. boundary waters. It also launched an "urgent investigation" into possible pollution dangers from oil drilling in the Great Lakes.

Chairman Arnold Heeney of the Canadian section of the commission said the panel of experts studying pollution in Lake Ontario, Lake Erie and the international section of the St. Lawrence Seaway for two years presented the "most comprehensive" report ever made.

The findings—to be made public later—were "worrisome" but not a cause for panic, he said. Lake Erie was in bad condition but "the process can be halted and even reversed" although the cost would be of "a very high magnitude."

The concern over pollution hit the headlines again recently with the revelation that 34,000 pounds of Lake Michigan Coho salmon seized by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration contained DDT concentrations ranging from 12 to 19 parts per million—considered a dangerous level. It is understood U.S. authorities are preparing standards which would limit the presence of the pesticide in fish to 5.5 parts per million.

Heeney said the publicity surrounding the DDT story caused considerable concern among commission members who noted that several states have acted to ban the sale of DDT. Sweden has imposed a two-year ban to test results.

Move recently the commission also has been instructed to delve into the problems of air pollution, particularly in the Windsor-Detroit areas, around Sarnia, Ont., and elsewhere.

Group of Seven Artist Dies at 83

KLEINBURG, Ont. (CP) — Arthur Lismer was buried here Friday in a plot of ground consecrated forever to the group of artists that a half-century ago changed the course of Canadian art.

Mr. Lismer, called by fellow painters the dean of Canada's artist-teachers, died March 23 in Montreal at the age of 83. Until two years ago he was principal of the Montreal Museum's School of Art and Design.

His body was brought here for burial in the Methodist Conservation Collection, 25 miles northwest of Toronto. It houses more than 400 works of prominent Canadian painters, among them those of the Group of Seven of which Mr. Lismer was an original member.

In a touching farewell to an old friend, A. Y. Jackson, 86 and dean of the Group of Seven, placed a bouquet of pine twigs and roses on the flag-draped coffin. The roses were for Mr. Lismer's native England and the pine for his adopted country where he sketched and painted the landscapes that brought him renown.

The little cemetery, a few hundred yards from the home of Robert and Signe McMichael which has been turned over to Ontario as public gallery, was established by permission of the provincial government. Over the grave—and of others that may be in it in future years—will be erected a headstone of Georgian Bay rock, prominent in many of the Group of Seven's paintings.

De Gaulle Goes Home

Ten Turbulent Years Have Altered France

New President

President of the French Senate, Alain Poher, right, is conducted through a Senate corridor by an official as the nation's citizens went to the polls and voted down a reform proposal. O'Neill Steps Down As Ulster Premier BELFAST (AP) — Terence O'Neill resigned today as prime minister of Northern Ireland, the government information office announced. He had been in office for seven years.

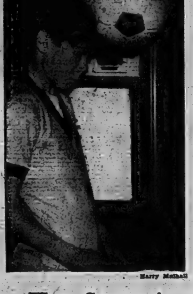
He resigned as leader of the ruling Unionist Party and said he would hand over the premiership once a successor was chosen.

O'Neill said he had quit to serve "the cause of reform."

The announcement of O'Neill's resignation came as Protestant and Roman Catholic groups pressed new demands on the prime minister, who has been trying to end political and religious strife in Northern Ireland.

O'Neill had been scheduled to go to London this week for conferences with Prime Minister Harold Wilson. Pressure from Wilson apparently was a major factor in O'Neill's decision to enlarge the Catholic vote.

Protestant militants led by Rev. Ian Paisley had said Sunday they would conduct a heavy program of anti-Roman Catholic and anti-government demonstrations.



In Dungannon, Roman Catholic civil rights leaders had said they were not satisfied with O'Neill's promise of universal adult suffrage in municipal elections. They called for the abolition of legislation giving special powers to the police and demanded more housing for Roman Catholics.

Rains Bypass Flooded Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

People who live along the Mississippi River in Illinois and Iowa breathed a sigh of relief when predicted heavy rains and high winds bypassed the area.

The light rain that dotted the flood-stricken communities Sunday produced little rise in the swollen Mississippi, but heavy downpours caused a sharp upward climb in the Missouri River.

The Missouri is expected to go above flood stage later this week.

New Monetary Crisis Feared

By Reuters

World leaders today were analysing the political and financial repercussions of the resignation of President de Gaulle of France, with fears centring on whether it will precipitate a new monetary crisis.

In London today, gold prices rose and the pound and French franc dropped on European markets today, but there was no sign of the major monetary crisis expected by some experts.

Trading was generally light, with most dealers waiting for someone else to make the first move. It appeared that the currency and bullion markets needed more time to digest the political news from France.

One exception to the early caution was the urich free gold market, the world's largest, where the opening price was $43.62 U.S. an ounce, up from $43.30 at Friday's close.

Buying was strong, and one dealer said: "It was like a hectic day."

The London morning gold fixing was $43.55 U.S. an ounce, up from $43.30 Friday, but there was little business.

Traders were also reluctant to commit themselves on the London foreign exchange market. The pound dropped to $2.3972 U.S. after the opening, compared with Friday's close at $2.3980, but market sources reported no significant dealing. During the morning the price improved to $2.3975.

For Other Stories, See Page 14.

In Paris, the Banque de France maintained the franc at 4.97 to the U.S. dollar. Most investors were awaiting further developments.

The Frankfurt money exchange opened mixed and there also without a trend. The West German Bundesbank was reported buying "hefty dollar amounts" to stabilize the market.

Monetary uncertainty spread to the other side of the world, and currency dealers in Hong Kong suspended trading in French francs. Foreign exchange banks in Tokyo decided to restrict or refuse dealings in three European currencies—the French franc, the pound and the West Germany mark.

De Gaulle's resignation raised new doubts about the future of the French franc since only the stubborn old President's determination had prevented devaluation during the French monetary crisis last November. However, monetary authorities in Paris said the strict exchange controls promulgated then should prevent a new flight of capital from France.

In Washington, Roy Jenkins, British chancellor of the exchequer, held talks with top United States officials on international monetary problems, with particular stress on the French franc.

American sources said the prospects of renewed political instability creating a new crisis for the franc and threatening other world currencies had to be taken into account.

But at least some American officials felt the franc was so well protected by international support arrangements it could withstand pressures against it.

Politically, officials said they could only wait and see whether de Gaulle's successor changes the French veto on British entry into the European Common Market or its Middle East policy, which was marked in the past year by friendly overtures to the Arabs and criticism of Israel.

Privately, U.S. officials expressed regret and concern at the resignation which came at a time when Washington and Paris were beginning to come closer after several years of sharp differences on important world issues.

Jacques Rueff, Auscalia, Jean-Luc Pepin, Canadian minister of industry, trade and commerce, said today he hoped the change of leadership in France would mean "better channels of communication" with his country.

Speaking at the National Press Club, he said France has

U.S. Unit Attacked Near Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Blazing away with flame throwers and hurling dynamite bombs, about 150 North Vietnamese troops attacked a United States armored column in the northwest corner of South Vietnam early Sunday.

The U.S. command said at least 34 North Vietnamese were killed by American artillery firing point-blank, 90-millimetre tank guns and heavy machine-guns mounted atop armored cars.

The American troops also captured 500 dynamite bombs, 200 anti-tank rockets and 15 rifles left on the battlefield.

U.S. headquarters said five Americans were killed and 34 wounded.

The fighting raged five miles from the Laotian border and two miles south of the abandoned marine combat base at Ca Lu.

The 5th Mechanized Infantry has been sweeping through the area for several days, trying to impede North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes from Laos.

20,000 Left Homeless By Da Nang Explosion

SAIGON (AP) — Two persons were killed, 68 wounded and 20,000 left homeless by a huge fire and explosions at a United States marine ammunition dump at Da Nang, military spokesman reported today.

The spokesman said one American marine and one South Vietnamese child were killed, and 50 South Vietnamese civilians, 16 U.S. servicemen and two South Vietnamese soldiers wounded.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said more than 2,000 tin- and wooden-roofed shanties were destroyed or damaged by fire or concussion from the exploding ammunition. Some of the huts were in camps for families of South Vietnamese soldiers stationed in the Da Nang area.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Pyle reported that hundreds of tons of bombs, artillery shells, TNT, rockets and small arms ammunition exploded, showering large chunks of burning shrapnel on homes, barracks and paddy fields in a one-mile radius from the dump.

The conflagration Sunday was touched off by sparks from a smouldering garbage dump across the road from the ammunition depot about three miles southwest of Da Nang. Marine spokesmen said wind blew burning papers from the garbage fire, touching off a gasoline fire that spread to the ammunition dump.

Air Canada Strike Unbroken

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Canada's 108-plane fleet, on the ground since a strike began eight days ago, will remain there indefinitely.

Talks aimed at settling the dispute fell apart here Sunday night despite efforts of federal mediators to bring the parties together.

Charles Eyre, chief negotiator for the Crown-owned airline, led the management team out of the night meeting which broke within 15 minutes of resumption. Asked whether the strike is likely to be a long one, he replied:

"I'm afraid so."

Militia Helps To Check Fire

IPPERWASH BEACH, Ont. (CP) — Two hundred militiamen, two area volunteer fire departments and lands and forestry officials prevented 100-acre Ipperwash Provincial Park from being destroyed by fire Sunday.

Fire was first reported in the heavily treed park and adjacent private parking shortly after 1 p.m. Before it was checked about three hours later, flames fed by tinder-dry underbrush blackened about 12 acres of land.

General Quits As President

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle stepped out of the French presidency today and retired once more to his home in eastern France, ending more than 10 turbulent years of power that profoundly altered the country's political outlook, economy and foreign policy.

De Gaulle's resignation became effective at noon. Senate President Alain Poher succeeded him as interim president, to serve until presidential elections are held. There was no ceremony of transfer, and de Gaulle was in seclusion at his home in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises.

France's 78-year-old leader had turned a referendum Sunday on comparatively minor constitutional changes into a vote of confidence, gambling that his threat to resign would once more swing the electorate behind him. When the voters rejected his proposals, he announced his retirement in two brief sentences: 🏳

"I am ceasing the exercise of my functions as president of the republic. This decision takes effect at noon today."

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville called his cabinet into session today, but the ranks were thinning. Justice Minister Rene Capitant resigned, saying he could not collaborate with Poher because the latter had fought de Gaulle's referendum proposals. Culture Minister Andre Malraux, one of those closest to de Gaulle, said he would also resign.

Poher must organize a presidential election within 20 to 35 days. He has been mentioned as a candidate, but former premier George Pompidou is considered the favorite.

Nothing forced de Gaulle to quit the job he had held since Jan. 1, 1959, except one of the general's famous ultimatums. Although his term of office did not expire until 1972, he said he would resign immediately if the French voters did not approve his government reform plan for administrative decentralization and removal of the Senate's few remaining powers.

The results of Sunday's referendum were 11,985,559 votes or 52.87 per cent opposed, 10,689,300 or 47.13 per cent in favor. The outcome was no great surprise. Several public opinion polls published last week showed the trend running against the general.

De Gaulle's television speech Friday night did not turn the tide.

Minutes after the Paris polls closed Sunday, private radio stations broadcast projections that he would lose. The first partial returns issued by the interior ministry showed the "Oui" vote with a small majority, but soon the "Non" ballots went ahead and stayed there.

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville was the first to concede defeat. He declared: "Beginning tomorrow, a new page in our history will be turned." He warned of "a difficult period, perhaps a period of trouble."

Shortly after he spoke, anti-Gaullist demonstrators turned out in the streets of Paris, marching through the Latin Quarter and chanting, "Adieu, de Gaulle."

Police reinforcements were hustled to the area and in several short, sharp clashes, five policemen were hurt and 50 demonstrators were injured. About 70 persons were picked up by police for identity checks.

De Gaulle is the last of the great leaders of the Second World War to step out. A First World War veteran, he was a colonel when the second war broke out and rose to general before the German occupation of France. He refused to recognize the collaborationist Vichy regime, fled to London, and from there rallied the Free French Forces.

A Pet Topic Draws Crowds

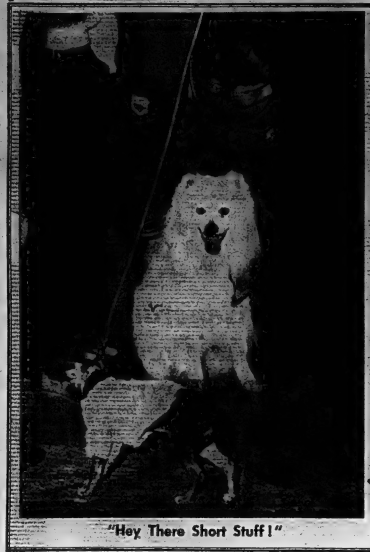
Monkeys, turtles, lizards, crows, cats besides dogs were included in the more than 600 pets crowning the gardens.



But, there were prizes for all.

There was a prize in the contest lists for everything — from the largest to the smallest dog. The cat with the longest hair and the one with the most colors were among awards taken by the top felines.

Quaker Oats Pet Food division in Trenton presented awards and much new toys to the pets was hungry throughout the day.

The show began early Saturday and saw a continuous line of pets walking into the arena. Once they were inside the job of judging began.

Meeting on Friday

DOH to Outline Highway 2 Proposal

Department of Highways proposal for reconstruction of Highway 2 between Trenton and Belleville which has sparked considerable recent controversy, will be explained to area residents this week.

Larry Forrester, regional planning engineer with the Highways Department will outline his department's proposals at a special meeting Friday evening at the Sidney township hall.

Residents along Highway 2, and on Dundas Street West, Belleville, as well as city and township officials have been invited to the meeting called by Quinte riding MPP Richard T. Potter. Sidney Reeve Jack M. Bush offered the township hall for the meeting.

Mr. Forrester will outline department plans for widening of Highway 2 to four lanes. After that, there will be a question period.

The meeting will give local residents their first opportunity to have plans for the highway reconstruction explained in detail.

The proposal to reconstruct the Belleville - to - Trenton stretch of highway to four lanes has met with considerable resistant on the part of area residents. They claim valued shade trees and entranceways to their property will disappear with the widening.

But opinions differ on the need for reconstruction of the 11 miles of highway.

The highway is four lanes now by the Trenton CFB base but questions are being raised whether Highway 2 would carry the traffic even if it were reconstructed.

Such questions as the inconvenience to residents, speed factors, preservation of beauty and cost of alternatives are also being asked.

Many residents point to the present scenic beauty of the Trent Road and ask whether it should be turned into a concrete speedway with strip commercial development.

One alternative suggested is that a complete new road be built between highway 2 and the four - lane 401 highway.

Muskrats Pose Threat To CFB Youngsters

TRENTON — Parents of children living in Middleton Park are keeping a close watch on their children as the muskrat annual season begins.

Individuals concerned fear children could be badly bitten by the animals if the youngsters mistake muskrats for household pets.

Recently, parents of a child who mistook a full-grown muskrat for a house pet, worried whether the animal was rabid until tests proved negative.

Another muskrat made its escape after it had bitten an inquisitive youngster.

One mother of children attending kindergarten said she couldn't understand why the muskrats prowl around houses in the subdivision since there appears to be none of their natural food growing in the park.

Youth Throngs City Conference

Approximately 275 young people entered Belleville Friday for a weekend of discussion and fun.

The event was the Quinte East HI-C Conference Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Tabernacle and Bridge Street United Churches.

The young people were delegates from Kingston, Trenton and as far away as Arnprior and Renfrew.

Activities included a folk concert, a swinging service of praise, a "groor-a-delic dance", discussions and guest speakers.

The speakers were also part of groups and debate sessions wherein their topics were discussed and argued.

Sport activities — such as bowling, basketball and swimming — were also included in the weekend conference.

The weekend culminated for the HI-C delegates with a church service in Tabernacle United Church Sunday morning.

Taste is unimportant. Children have swallowed lye, gasoline, ammonia, cat poison, bleach, lighter fuel, worm medicine, deodorants, shampoo, sleeping pills, fertilizer, plant foods, glass, cements and every type of medicine.

Understanding the risk is the real cause of child poisoning. Adults must protect them by keeping every danger safely out of their reach and accent, give the children a break. It is up to all adults to make it impossible for children to touch anything dangerous.

Drug Use One in 10 By Young

Some 10 per cent of all young people in Canada between the ages of seven and 25 use one or more addictive drugs.

Mike Mahoney, a researcher with the Alcoholic and Drug Addiction Centre in Kingston, spoke Saturday to delegates of the Quinte East Hi-C conference at Tabernacle and Bridge Street United Churches during the week-end.

The delegates were told that the drugs users amounted to approximately 450,000 persons.

Commenting on the seriousness of the situation, he warned "if don't think we're justified to bury our heads in the sand."

Mr. Mahoney spoke of American tobacco producers who were trying to push a bill through the channels of United States government which would legalize marijuana.

"They (tobacco producers) project $100,000,000 profit in the first year," he said.

He told delegates researchers didn't know enough yet about marijuana to say whether it is evil or not.

He added, though, that some isolated chemical components in marijuana were the same as those in the more lethal heroin.

"And yet, young people are proclaiming in a loud voice they have the right to use it if they want," he said.

"It is quite conceivable that the young people are being influenced by vested interests."

To explain the effects of drugs graphically, Mr. Mahoney described young people as chemical compositions. He suggested that drugs could change the balance of the chemical composition.

Mr. Mahoney noted a steady increase of young people seeking psychiatric help to stop nightmares that often recur after LSD.

"What is going to happen to these young people?" he queried.

Mr. Mahoney said that researchers estimate chromosome damage can extend from five to ten generations.

He added that this indicates that man has been given power to pass on pure hereditary traits.

"Young people claim to have the right to tamper with it," he said.

He warned youth in attendance that drug syndicates hook young people, not on marijuana, but the substance it is mixed with.

"It's not smart to experiment with drugs — you're a zero," he warned.

Mr. Mahoney told the delegates that there are 3,373 registered drug addicts in Canada and, every year, these addicts cost businessmen $731,000,000 in stolen merchandise. Adding such costs as police custodial care brought that figure to one billion dollars.

"They are living and breathing — but dead from the spiritual and productive point of view."

"Heroin is a substance that does nothing but condemn people to an early death."

"It's within the power of the young people to destroy this civilization or to assert themselves and take corrective measures. You have to have the facts, know your identity and make a moral decision."

No matter what you drive or where you live we can help you go farther.

At Shell, we've dedicated ourselves to one idea: we want you to get the best possible mileage from your car.

We sum it up with the phrase "mileage is our business".

And we back it up with our products, people and research.

Take our gasoline for example.

Every gallon of Super Shell is formulated with five mileage ingredients. Each one does a different, important job for you.

Platformate and four more

You have probably heard a good deal about the Platformate ingredient.

It has more energy per gallon than 100-octane aviation fuel. More energy means more mileage.

There's also TCP, Butane, a detergent and Mixed Pentanes to help your mileage.

Our people can help your mileage too. We expect every Shell dealer to be a mileage expert.

This means that when you drive in to a Shell station, a lot of good things can happen.

Spark plugs, tires and driving tips

The Shell man can check your spark plugs, air filter, tire pressure, battery, ignition system—even your driving habits. They all affect your mileage.

That's our promise: no matter what you drive or where you live, we can help you go farther.

Because mileage is our business.

Death Sentences

If capital punishment does not necessarily deter persons bent on committing murder, at least it is a punishment that fits the crime. Thus a Los Angeles jury has ruled that although Sirhan Sirhan's mind likely was impaired when he shot Senator Robert Kennedy it was not to a degree that would affect its verdict of death in the gas chamber.

One juror was asked what was the main consideration that made him vote the death penalty and he replied: "The gravity of the crime. The cold-blooded murder of an individual. A planned murder.

The juror and others on the panel agreed their decision probably would have been the same even if the victim had not been Kennedy, a candidate for president . . . "I think we would, as long as it was this cold-blooded heinous crime."

Too often the victim and the family that remains to mourn him are the forgotten people in such tragedies. If it does nothing else, capital punishment — or the threat of it — expresses a civilized society's view that such acts can not be tolerated.

Creditiste Stand

Creditiste leader Real Caouette expressed some admirable sentiments in the course of an otherwise dismal debate on amendments to the Criminal Code the other day.

Mr. Caouette said it was a sad spectacle to see the House debating such subjects as homosexuality. Instead of legalizing it the Government should introduce a bill creating a hospital for treatment of homosexuals. Even better, he said, would be passage of a bill to educate people on marriage. There were so many beautiful girls and good-looking men in Canada — Justice Minister Turner among them — that debate of topics as repugnant as homosexuality seemed out of place.

Another Creditiste, Rene Matte, said not a single individual or organization in his riding in Quebec had asked him to support the legalization of homosexuality.

We agree with Mr. Caouette and his fellow Creditistes that Canadians should have something more wholesome to talk about than this and other subjects under review in the Criminal Code. Men should be men and women should be women and their relationships should be as nature intended them to be.

Salmon for Lake ?

Fresh salmon is a rarity in this part of the world. Indeed it is one of those delicacies the exile from coastal regions of this country or the British Isles misses keenly.

It is interesting then to note the Prince Edward Liberal Association's brief dealing with the possibility of stocking the immediate area of Lake Ontario with Coho salmon.

This may be strange territory for a political body . . . fishing and all that. However, it seems the association is aware of the benefits that could accrue from the availability of salmon.

One obvious question comes to mind though. What about the dreary accumulation of dead shad fish that pollutes Lake Ontario beaches every summer? Answer: the salmon are also shallow water fish and could feed off the shad. Or so the experts say.

On the other hand, what is to prevent the salmon going the same way as the shad — an unfortunate fate for such aristocratic fish and a melancholy prospect for fishermen out to try their luck with this new (for these parts anyway) breed.

Wig Racket

Wigs are the latest "in" thing for the less scrupulous in the mail order business. A Brockville woman is reported to have sent $2.97 to a New Jersey firm in payment for a wig plus handling and shipping charges. In an accompanying letter the housewife requested a catalogue and color matching information so she could pick out the wig. Later she received another letter, requesting another $17 for which she would receive two wigs of her choice. The letter included a money back guarantee if she was not satisfied. At this point the housewife decided something was wrong and sent a letter calling off the deal and asking for her $2.97 back. She has not heard anything since, despite two further letters. At least she did not fall for the request for more money and her experience has served as a warning to others.

Restraint Essential

Is Free-spending Canada Heading for Bankruptcy?

The following letter has been addressed by Howard Wrong of Carrying Place to Prime Minister Trudeau.

* * *

I watched with interest the greater part of the recent conference of provincial Premiers chaired by yourself. But as I watched, it was with a degree of scepticism as to the success of the introduction of bilingualism.

Everyone should be bilingual. The main objection to bilingualism by the provincial Premiers appeared to be the cost. Where is the money coming from with taxation at the degree that it is? I must add my misgivings, saying that real estate cannot continue to carry the burden of education. In this letter I propose to discuss two subjects, education and our antiquated monetary concept.

First I propose that education should be nationalized; that we should have one national bilingual educational policy instead of ten provincial educational policies. I propose that in those areas predominantly English, and the second French. In those areas predominantly French, the reverse.

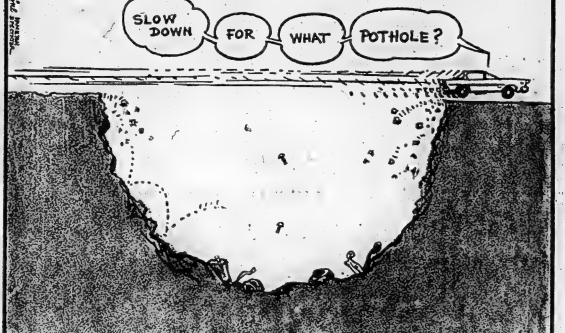
At the time of confederation, education was a badge of privilege reserved to the favored few, a symbol of equality. This symbol our grandparents and parents were determined to attain. Then the introduction of free public and secondary schools with the principal costs borne by real estate taxes. This system was adequate while it offered socially a rough form of equality, but it has ceased to be sufficient as education has become a form of investment. Who receives the returns or interest from this investment? The individual educated raises his social and economic standard. The corporation by whom the individual is employed, benefits as much or more than the individual. Our federal government has the power to tax this corporation to cover a part of the cost of this investment. Our federal government with its authority to collect the income tax, sales tax and inheritance tax must be placed first, as the one which benefits most from this investment, much more than our provincial or municipal governments. Why then, should not the financial responsibility of the investment be placed on that source of government which receives the greatest benefit?

The federal government should assume full responsibility for the cost of all tuition, and the construction of our schools and universities. To cover the cost of construction of our institutions of learning, the Bank of Canada should issue interest free money. This money would go into circulation as the institutions of learning are built and should be withdrawn from circulation on the same basis as the buildings are depreciated.

You may cry inflation at this proposal, but about three months ago Mr. Robarts, the Premier of Ontario, had need to borrow sixty million dollars, $6m say for arguments sake, for the construction of schools. He went to Germany and borrowed it from the International bankers at a high interest rate. This money went into circulation in Canada. Did anyone cry inflation? What would be the difference if the Bank of Canada issued it under the above plan or whether we borrowed it from the international bankers? The only difference would be that we Canadians wouldn't be breaking our back under the burden of taxation.

We are attempting to operate an aeroplane economy with a horse and buggy monetary policy. We have had advancement in medicine, in science and in technology, but our monetary policy is fifty years behind the times.

The Bank of Canada, which is a child of our own creation, is a failure under its present antiquated policy. Our money, since we went off the gold standard in 1940, is purely fiduciary. It depends solely on the confidence that we have in it. It is created or issued by the Bank of Canada, using as security the government guaranteed bonds of the Canadian National Railways, a bankrupt railway, without public support. Would our schools and universities not be as good an asset as the Canadian National Railways? We can do without the Canadian National Railway, but we can't do without our institutions of learning.



Mr. Prime Minister, where are we going taxation-wise under your Minister of Finance? In the past 50 years we have had the introduction of the income tax, the sales tax, the inheritance tax and the corporation tax and during this same period our national debt has increased by over thirty thousand million dollars; our annual interest payment is over a thousand million dollars. What does the next fifty years hold for us? Is it bankruptcy and catastrophe? Has Nero exchanged his violin for a pipe?

Might I suggest that possibly some of our senior civil servants on whose advice our federal government is administering the affairs of this country could be in a mental rut. On the one hand they cry control of inflation by antiquated theories, while on the other hand, they recommend and receive increases in their own salaries or anywhere from fifty to sixty percent. If these senior civil servants are entitled to this raise then at least the other citizens of this country entitled to receive a like increase. This could be accomplished as well with lowered taxes as with higher wages.

The concept of controlling inflation by monetary means is antiquated and ineffective in our present industrialized state. The only way that inflation can be controlled is to bring labor, industry and government, together at a round table with all parties realizing that they have an obligation to society that need some degree of restraint: failing this, then we need direct intervention.

Must we continue to bitch our happiness on General Motors' profits or to drown our sorrows in Seagrams'? The twentieth century is not over yet, and is still could be Canada's privilege, through the enlightenment that's a national bilingual system of education could bestow upon her citizens, to lead the world in adopting, and adapting to a sane philosophy of life.

HOWARD WEESE.

Hamilton-Burlington Rivalry

Hamilton Spectator

Emotion, quick and passionate, has loomed larger than logic in the Burlington phase of the Hamilton regional government debate. And the Steele Commission on Hamilton - Burlington - Wentworth local government has made it clear that emotion will be weighed as a factor in regional studies.

But the final recommendation and the ultimate decision by Queen's Park must put the feelings of the moment into long range perspective with facts and hard evidence, demonstrated so far, strongly favors union with Hamilton — not with Halton - Peel.

Many sincere, intelligent and articulate Burlington people are almost pathologically opposed to Hamilton union. So much so that they're opting for a merger with Oakville, Mississauga, Brampton, Orangeville, etc. not because there's a viable community bond to Halton - Peel but because there's no other regional alternative to Hamilton. Darkest fears notwithstanding, Burlington is part of Hamilton right now. Hamilton supplies the jobs, Burlington the bedrooms: Hamilton the factories, Burlington the houses and schools. Growth in Hamilton pushes growth into Burlington.

* * *

Letter to The Hamilton Spectator

We disagree with the article about the "Burlington belles." We feel we know enough about this matter to express our feelings. For one thing, one of us worked with Burlington girls at the Burlington Mall, and another thing, we go out with the beaus from Burlington. These boys we go out with say they like Hamilton and Stoney Creek girls because they don't like the choice in Burlington.

We are from Stoney Creek, and we don't think we are anything special, but we believe that article was unfair. The girls in Burlington have their heads swelled as it is and that article will make them worse.

It was stated that the girls were friendly. A wrong statement. We find them very unsociable and hard to get along with. They are hung up on their parents' position and therefore are conceited.

Yes, they do have nice clothes but this is because they have more money. From the pictures of the March 23 edition, they don't seem to be up with the latest fashions, though.

The guys in Stoney Creek and Hamilton prefer girls that are natural and uncomplicated. It seems, too, that very few of these boys go out with girls from Burlington.

Miss Jane Whitfield,

Has the Challenge Been Taken Out of Education?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The word most frequently used today is Education, for it has become vitally important in all its phases, to every citizen.

No one was particularly surprised when Education Minister Davis denied that the new school-board structure was responsible for the alarming rise in taxation. No doubt there are many reasons, but the salient question is, how are we to cope with the situation? It is obvious that we cannot continue to raise our taxes without grave repercussions.

We are convinced that M.P.P. Dr. Potter and other representatives will do their part, but it is difficult to see where they will begin.

We do not believe that rigid economy is being exercised by Ministers, by school boards or by anyone concerned with education. It has long been apparent that the merest whim is satisfied with alacrity. Expensive equipment and abundant supplies can be found in every school.

If the end justified the means there would not be room for adverse criticism, but the finished product leaves much to be desired and one cannot help wondering whether those involved have not defeated their own ends.

A recent visitor to a service club remarked that today's children are better educated than their parents. A commendable statement if ever I heard one! Undeniably they are exposed to more education, but this does not make an educated person any more than exposure to the arts makes a cultured one. It is the capacity to assimilate and appreciate which must be nurtured and this appears to be where educators are failing. Could it be that the harmonious decor, the comfort, the audio-visual aid and the expensive and advanced equipment have smothered the hunger and thirsting after knowledge? Have our children, whom we can no longer maintain in the manner to which they are accustomed, had that vital impetus and drive so essential to success?

Is it possible that all they need are a desk that is the right size, a light room at a reasonable temperature and a teacher who is as dedicated as a minister or a doctor and who will instill a little wholesome respect?

It is interesting to note the academic standing of students who have come to this country, with little knowledge of the language. In spite of the handicap they are almost invariably at the top of the class. This seems to indicate that it is the challenge which provides the impetus to succeed.

Perhaps it is time to take stock of the situation before we are called upon to provide more learning-labs and other tiled boxes which will finally serve all communication between student and teacher.

After hours of Public Affairs programs about student protest and revolt I must confess that I have not yet fathomed what they want. Perhaps it is a little less sophistication and a chance to think for themselves. If so we should be all for it and our financial problems will be over.

Poet Writes to Cadieux

Protests Armory Rent

Minister of defence, Leo Cadieux, is looking into rent-free use of Belleville armories for the annual Rotary Science Fair and Hobby Show.

That's the gist of a letter, received by Charles A. Tupper, Foxboro, from Mrs. Olga Maxwell, poetess, addressed to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

Mr. Tupper went "straight to the top" with a request to Mr. Trudeau regarding rental of the building for the non-profit fair.

"I most respectfully ask you to request your minister of national defence to reconsider his matter — to forego the rent in perpetuity to the Rotary Club of Belleville for this annual project," his letter read.

Some anxiety was expressed this year by fair organizers when they were charged for three full days' rent of the armory, instead of the usual two-and-one-half days. Organizers feared the higher total, $420 this year, would threaten the fiscal base of the fair if continued.

Mr. Tupper, painter, poet and regular exhibitor at the fair, followed letters to the press on the subject with a missive directed to the Prime Minister.

He mentioned in his letter "the good publicity ensuing a favorable reply —, to your government's image and to the department of national defence."

The Prime Minister's secretary, replying on his behalf, wrote: "We have taken note of your comments and, as requested, are bringing your representation to the attention of the Hon. Leo Cadieux, minister of national defence. You no doubt will be hearing from Mr. Cadieux's office shortly."

Mr. Tupper in his opening remarks in the letter wrote the Prime Minister, "at the risk of getting the old run-around and in an attempt to bypass red tape and bureaucracy."

He enclosed two copies of the Rotary Club's official program for the fair to bolster his argument. The letter was sent April 4 and the Ottawa reply was dated April 18.

Regiments Should Aim For Local Involvement

By BARRY GRILLS
(Staff Reporter)

A regiment can provide service to the community beyond its military role, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Officers Association was told Saturday night.

Speaking to the association at its banquet in the officers' mess was Maj. Gen. George Kitching.

He described a regiment in wartime as a "rallying point" in a community.

"This regiment is just straight, bloody infantry. That's fine in war, in an emergency. But what happens in peacetime?"

Gen. Kitching traced the history of regiments over the past 100 years as far as purpose and usefulness to the community were concerned.

He explained that about a 100 years ago the regiment was a community activity with almost all the citizens of a municipality participating. It participated in building beers and similar activities.

All that changed after the world wars and the regiment, to the citizens of the community, appeared to be "a place to go and drink."

"The regiment was no longer associated with community affairs. It became a military thing."

"I feel, that in future, the regiments such as yours, will have to get back to the spirit of 100 years ago," he said.

He said that service to the community will have to be given by the units.

"The mayor of the community should think of a regiment in the same grouping as the police and fire departments."

Gen. Kitching recommended the regiment post signs outside the city declaring "Welcome to Belleville — Home of the Hasty Pees."

He said the regiment should be organized for community service.

"Don't wait to be called out—go and do it. You will gain more officers if you do," he said.

He suggested that members of the unit make the name of the regiment known.

"You can be the ones who organize the minute men who help in the community."

Annual Inspection: Hasty Pees Parade

About 200 attended the annual regimental inspection at Belleville Armory.

The regiment was inspected by Brig. Gen. G. R. R. Coffin, Ontario Region Canadian Forces Recruiting Officer.

A number of soldiers demonstrated combat procedure, firing blanks and illustrating some facets of combat training.

The spectators also witnessed two drill

Following the demonstration, Lt.-Col. Moore, commanding officer of the regiment formed up the drill floor for a regimental birthday observance.

Members of the regiment then received awards and trophies. Maj. A. V. Blondin and WO C. J. Fisk were recipients of the Canadian Forces Decoration. The Col. Angus Duffy and Col. K. D. H. Willcocks trophies were also presented for best first-year soldier and sharp-shooter.

Music was supplied by the Vimy Band, Kingston, under the direction of Capt. Kenneth

School Taxes -- Still Waiting

Hastings County board of education officials are still waiting word from the Department of Education on subsidization of school taxes.

"All we have to go on are press reports," said L. A. Kells, superintendent of administrative services, this morning.

Mr. Kelle preparing the budget for board consideration, said no official report of grant structure amendments has come from the department.

However, the Hastings board will meet in caucus tonight to discuss budget revisions necessary under the new grant structure. The budget will be formally struck at the regular public meeting May 5.

P. B. Allore, superintendent of Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board is also awaiting details of the tax relief from Toronto. His board will attempt to bring down a tentative budget at a public meeting April 30.

During the Ontario Separate School Trustee's convention last week, Mr. Allore said, delegates gathered from press amendment, "appears to be a statistic jungle that will take some time to work through."

Spokesmen for both boards said last week they expected their 1969 budget increases to fall in line with the 15 per cent increase over 1968 on a per pupil basis set by Queen's Park for provincial aid.

Accidents Injure Two

TRENTON —A man and boy were injured in separate accidents here over the week-end.

Both are reported in satisfactory condition today in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Steve Petis, 16, a Windsor house painter working here, suffered two broken legs, a fractured pelvis and abrasions to his head when he was struck by a car while crossing Dundas St. East Saturday night, police said.

Driver of the car was William Hamilton, 20, of Trenton.

Sunday night David Stinson, 7, ish of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stinson of 181 Dundas St. East received a concussion and bruises and cuts when he ran into a car on his bicycle at Scott and Bay Streets.

County Welfare Is Up

General welfare assistance expenditures in Hastings county were 63.1 per cent higher in 1968 than for the year 1967.

The Ontario Department of Social and Family Services, in its statistical report, dated early this month, show expenditures for the county welfare department at $262,752 for 1968. This compared with $357,218 for the year previous. This is an increase of $225,538.

Prince Edward county also showed an increase in welfare expenditures with a 14.4 per cent increase over the year before. Expenditures totalled $148,538, as compared with $130,732.

For all Ontario, the increase in welfare expenditures was 34.2 per cent with a nine-per-cent increase in the number of persons receiving assistance.

In Hastings there were 1,394 persons receiving assistance in December 1968, a drop of 2.3 per cent from the 1,416 on welfare in December 1967.

In Prince Edward county, there were 353 receiving welfare assistance in December as compared with 507 in the same month in 1967.

Club Activities

WHITE CANE CLUB

A letter was read from Mayor Russell Scott congratulating the club for the successful 19th birthday dinner put on by the Kinette Club.

In the historian report of the CCB, the 1967 White Cane Week was an outstanding success and the theme and slogan for 1979 is "Blind people are people". The date is Feb. 4 to 9. Harper McElrath was appointed convener with Bob Gill assisting.

As a result of the drastic and costly changes in the postal rate structure as it pertains to second class mailing, the CCB Outlook no longer can qualify for this privilege. Therefore now all copies of the magazine will be mailed directly from the National office of the third class mailing rate.

A letter of thanks was read from Sara O'Shea for the gift and cards while in the hospital.

The program convener welcomed Mrs. Rhoda Mattis, a former associate member, back to the club. Mrs. Mattis accompanied her son Douglas who entertained with vocal solos with David Hotchkiss at the piano. David also played a piano solo.

The entertainers were thanked by George Zimmerle. Lunch was served by the Kinettes and appreciation expressed by Vi Waite.

U.C.W. Meetings

(COLLEGE HILL UCW)

The April meeting of the College Hill UCW was held in the social hall with president Marilyn Macintosh in charge.

The president welcomed the group and conducted a brief business session with various committee reports given. Also the report on the Wig Show in the latter part of March, which proved to be an outstanding success.

Devotions were led by Kay Soleshalter with Helen MacLaren, and Sue Moorcroft assisting. A duet was rendered by Alice West and Eileen Blakely.

Bruce Kerr of the Children's Aid Society was introduced to the group by Kay Soleshalter. Mr. Kerr outlined the work of the Children's Aid and told of this interesting and rewarding work in the city and vicinity. This was followed with a period of questioning by the group members and short discussion.

Sue Moorcroft expressed the thanks of the group for Mr. Kerr's talk.

Refreshments were served and a social period enjoyed before the closing of the meeting.

TABERNACLE UCW

The April meeting of Tabernacle United Church Women was held in the church, with the president, Mrs. Spaans presiding.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. Holmes of the Old Age Security and Canada Pension plan boards who is in the city every Thursday at the Federal building and will help those persons who have a pension problem.

"There are a number of elderly people who should have the whole amount of the Old Age Security, but who do, not apply for it in the proper way," he stated, and "In connection with the Canada Pension Plan there are three benefits: retirement, survivor and disability."

Sunday asked the group to support the "Tabernacle Sunday School Walkathon" on Saturday.

Miss Johns opened the devotional period which was based on the theme "Whispering Hope." The message was read by Mrs. Spafford.

A social hour was enjoyed.

HOLLOWAY ST. U.C.W.

Supply and Social Assistance was the theme for the general meeting of the Holloway St. U.C.W., Belleville held in the Christian Education Hall.

The president, Mrs. R. Parks presided and used the poem "Others" in her welcoming remarks.

Mrs. J. Burnett presented the "Tale of A Bale." She told the history of the bale from the time of packing in the local church, to the distribution centre. Mrs. Burnett concluded by saying, "Bales are international ambassadors and promote communication between countries."

Mrs. O. Bertrand, made a personal presentation of a life membership certificate and pin of the U.C.W. to Mrs. C. Holmes for which Mrs. Holmes expressed sincere thanks.

During the business period acknowledgment was made to the Energetic Club for the donation of a salad maker. The U.C.W. decided to assume the cost of repainting 200 steel stacking chairs.

A workshop "Thinking Night" was conducted by the president. In summation by the groups, it was felt the U.C.W. could and should give greater leadership in the church community, to fulfill the purpose for which it was organized.

Unit 5 convened by Mrs. A. McMillan served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Community Honors Couple

RIVER VALLEY — Recently, at the River Valley schoolhouse, Mr. and Mrs. John Kane and Miss Eleanor Bush were tendered a presentation party by the community, as they have now taken up residence in Stirling Village.

Ed Kane was master of ceremonies. Several musical selections were contributed by Mrs. Philip Conley; Norman Rosebush; Glen Morrow; Ernest Rosebush and Kenneth Morrow.

Selections were read by Mrs. Reg Coombes and Mrs. Ernest. Carr. The sing-song was conducted by Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh.

The honored couple were seated on the platform and Mrs. Kenneth Morrow read the address.

Gifts were presented by Philip Conley and Albert Bird. On behalf of the River Valley community and friends.

Mrs. G. Brooks read an address on behalf of the River Valley WI to Mrs. Kane, a life member and a gift was presented by Mrs. J. L. Donohoe.

The recipients voiced appreciative thanks to all their friends and relatives for the lovely gifts after which the committee in charge served refreshments.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Jimmy and Joey, were you playing inside that old freezer? How many times have I told you it's dangerous? The top could stick and you wouldn't be able to get out."

It's up to adults to do away with potential menaces to life and limb. It's not wise to depend on the good judgment of young children.

Remove the doors and lids from discarded freezers, refrigerators, even old chests and cabinets. Children may be told, but they forget or take what may be a fatal chance.

Mrs. J. H. Bateman pours a cup of tea for Manly MacDonald, while they discuss the painting, which he has donated to the University Women's Club for the draw at the annual Spring Fair, to be held this Saturday.

Women's Club Plans Spring Fair

On May 3, the anual Spring Fair, sponsored by the University Women's Club of Belleville and District, will be held at St. Michael's Academy Auditorium. This event will mark the 25th anniversary of the Manly MacDonald, R.C.A., exhibition and sale of paintings.

The purpose of the spring tea is to raise scholarship funds for young women of Belleville and District who are proceeding to University. Originally, one $50 scholarship was awarded. As the exhibition has become more widely known, the success of this project has enabled the scholarships to be increased. In 1969, the Club plans to award three scholarships of $250 each.

Manly MacDonald, who studied art in Canada, Europe and the United States, is especially well - loved in the Quinte district, since he is a native of Point Anne and has portrayed many local scenes on his canvases. One of Mr. MacDonald's paintings was presented to Queen Elizabeth by the Canadian government, and four of his works hang in the National Gallery in Ottawa.

A beautiful winter scene depicting the Don Valley, entitled 'The Don', has been donated to the Club by Mr. MacDonald for its scholarship funds. Tickets may be purchased from any Club member, and at the Fair. The draw will be made at the close of the tea. Mr. MacDonald will be present also at the Fair to discuss his paintings with visitors.

In conjunction with the exhibition, there will be a tea and bake sale; also handicrafts made by the Cape Croker Indians will be sold.

All are cordially invited to attend this interesting event.

Public Forums Project Outlined at Conference

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Formation of public forums on Canadian federalism was the planned project outlined to delegations to the annual conference of the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs here Saturday by Maude Bayley of Toronto, former Canadian federation BPW president.

"The forums on federalism will make it possible for the electorate to be better informed on what is and should take place in anada," Mrs. Bayley said.

She said the public forums will be non-partisan and that no elected member of federal provincial or municipal governments would be allowed to participate either in the preliminary study groups or the forums.

"This is a project sponsored by the B and P women for the people of Canada so that they may become better informed through impartial study and dialogue in the work of government."

The Ontario provincial group was asked to take on the pilot project as it has the largest number of BPW members and clubs in Canada.

Just Society Talk Given

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Just Society will never be implemented by legislation in the view of Margaret Ashdown, president of the Canadian Federation Business and Professional Women's Club.

"The so-called Just Society spoken of by politicians can't be achieved in government alone, but must be done by individuals," said Mrs. Ashdown, interviewed Saturday at the weekend conference of the 23rd annual Ontario conference of BPW here.

"Until we as Canadians show we are concerned about one another, there will be no Just Society."

Mrs. Ashdown of Toronto, spoke of the great need for women to hold higher positions in the labor force in Canada.

"It is shocking that less than four per cent of the working women in this country, hold executive posts. But I think the climate is slowly changing and the importance of recognizing the capabilities of women in business, industry and the professions is moving us into a new era."

Visit to Embalmers A Little Premature

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 12, get A's and B's on my report card and have never caused anybody any trouble. My problem is my parents.

ANN LANDERS

For the school science fair, I am doing a project on embalming. I've gone to the local funeral home to get books and information on the subject. The apprentice embalmer is a young fellow who explained many things. He has offered to take me to embalming school to meet his instructors and watch an embalming.

My parents say they don't want me to go there. I say it would help me in my project. I already know as much embalming I could probably do a job myself. But unless I actually see one, my science fair project will not be authentic. Please help me. — J.R.

DEAR J.R.: If your parents say no, respect their wishes. Wait until you are 16 and then, if you still are interested write again and I'll intervene in your behalf.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 15-year-old washout (female). People pretend to like me but I don't have any real friends. I was elected to a student government office in February because I had just broken my leg and everyone felt sorry for me.

I am a clumsy oaf and can't do anything gracefully. I'm a lousy tennis player, fell off a bicycle when I had the greatest bike date of all time, and I'm a rotten skier. (That's how I broke my leg.)

I say dumb things because silence embarrasses me. I always laugh at the wrong time. This is a very honest description of myself, Ann. Can you help me? — MISS UNDESIRABLE OF 1960.

DEAR MISS: The "loadequacies" of which you seem painfully aware are, I'm sure, magnified in your mind's eye. Nobody pays that much attention to what you say and do.

People who think too well of themselves are a bore. Your problem is the reverse, and equally unattractive. It's a drag to hear a person run himself into the ground constantly. Knock it off.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm not even married and already I have mother-in-law problems. My fiance is the apple of his mother's eye. No girl would have been good enough. But Brad's mother has let the whole world know she's very disappointed in her son's choice. I'm the wrong religion, I'm not pretty enough, I don't qualify intellectually, socially or financially. She has even said these things to my face, always being careful to add, "Nobody's perfect."

I dread having dinner at Brad's house. His mother has yet to call me by my name. The atmosphere is so heavy you could cut it with a knife. Brad knows all this and says he's sorry.

I've done everything under the sun to win her favor and I've failed. What should I do? — UPTIGHT.

DEAR UP: Stop trying to butter up the old battleax. Don't strain to be friendly. Behave in a natural manner and you'll feel less like a hypocrite.

Chitchat Encouraged at Meal Time

By DORIS CLARE

When I said mealtimes should be fun-times, my teacher-friend said that in many homes nobody is allowed to speak during a meal. Except to say "Pass the salt."

How on earth can parents have a hand in developing good conversationalists if they stifle talk at table? — The very best time, to my mind, for family chitchat.

If Joey stops eating entirely to deliver a monologue on the school play, the Presiding Parent can suggest a slight pause for refreshment, then allowing Patsy to take over about her new English teacher.

One mother I knew had her brood take turns in bringing to the table some item of news currently dominating the front page. All were expected to contribute comments to whatever topic was under fire. All became knowledgeable about what was going on in the world; a trait which went with them into adult life.

— Not to mention the breadth of interest, the poise and charm, the conversationability, that went with it.

* * *

Dear Doris: I met a man who works in a job that moves from place to place. I went out with him once and I really fell for him. He's about 25. He wanted me to go all the way with him but I never. He told me he admired me for it.

I want to see him again and often but how can I, him being in the work he is? Does he care about me? He was surprised that I was only 15 but thinks I act mature. I don't feel 15, more like 18 or 19. I don't know why.

I don't know why the teenage years are said to be the happiest years of one's life. For me it's been black all the way. (I wish you wouldn't have to tell me to forget this man. I love him.) — Muddled.

Dear Muddled: You are a lucky girl that your cradle-robbing Romeo resisted the impulse to insist on what he wanted. Was this before or after he learned that you were just 15?

Has it occurred to you that he is probably married, an excellent reason why he is quite content to see you only when his work brings him near? And how do you know how a girl 19 feels?

You don't love him. You have fallen for the glamor and polish of a grown-up man. Probably you already know what I am going to say — that you must give him up. It won't take long for you to realize how very grateful you are that you did. Do it!

* * *

Dear Doris: I am an 18-year-old boy and have been going steady with a 16-year-old girl. It seems I grew jealous and she has started going with someone else. I desperately want her back.

I said childish things to others about her, but in spite of this she still will talk to me. I have gone out with several girls recently, but none interests me. The boy she is going with now is working out of the province for the summer.

Should I try for her again or let well enough alone? She is the only one for me! — Sunk

Dear Sunk: No reason why you shouldn't put in your claim to her friendship. If you can get a hold on yourself. Jealousy, possessiveness, are just out, mind you.

And you are just one of her retinue of admirers. If you try to force yourself into a more secure position you'll lose out again. Let her grow up first.

Lightning Casseroles Are Also Economical

By MARY MOORE

Many readers of the early '60's will remember my Lightning Casseroles. Today's casserole lesson reminds me of them for it calls for a carbohydrate, a meat and vegetables. To add to its efficiency it is economical and it calls for pork or beef heart.

HEARTY CASSEROLE

1 lb. pork or beef heart cut into ¼" strips
Meat tenderizer
½ cup raw long grain rice
2 cups hot water
1 chicken Oxo cube
1 tsp. salt
½ cup instant chopped onion
1 can cream of vegetable soup
½ cup hot water (second amount)
About ¼ cup buttered crumbs

If frozen, thaw heart, trim off fat, cut into thin bite-sized pieces and sprinkle cut surfaces with meat tenderizer and let stand 15 min. Meanwhile measure into large baking dish the rice, 2 cups hot water, Oxo cube and salt and stir to mix and to soften Oxo cube. Sprinkle onion over and arrange tenderized meat in single layer. Mix together soup and second amount of water and pour evenly over top. Cover tightly and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 4 hrs. If desired during last 15 min., uncover and sprinkle top with buttered crumbs or crumbs mixed with grated cheese and bake until top is golden.

NOTES: 1) As any good cook can plainly see this method may be used for any type of beef that requires long cooking such as heart or stew or shank or shoulder.

2) This dish is ideal for those girls who have automatic ovens and want to go out after lunch and come home at dinnertime to the marvelous aroma of something ready to eat in the oven.

School Rooms Used at Night

By BARRY GRILLS

There's a movement afoot to get more use of public schools after actual school hours are finished, and it's Sir Mackenzie Bowell that has started it.

The school has offered grade seven and eight male students an extra opportunity to participate in athletics and to catch up on shop projects. Every Wednesday night the school opens its doors to the students who have taken the name, the Sir Mackenzie Bowell Knights, from seven until nine p.m.

The night offers the boys an opportunity to take part in sports such as floor hockey, basketball, pushball and boxing.

They also have a chance to work on shop project — leather work, plastics, woodwork and drafting.

There are also special features for the boys such as television programs, evaluation wherein the students are asked to watch a show and diagnose its good and bad qualities.

The project was the idea of Sir Mackenzie Bowell's principal, S. E. Palmateer, who started off eight weeks ago with a small group of boys whom he knew would appreciate the chance to utilize the facilities of the school.

Since then the group has grown to approximately 30 boys and three teachers, Lloyd Scott, James Burns, and Glen Smithurst, from King George Public School. Three secondary school students also come to the meetings to help out and take part.

The activities have three main purposes — to get more after hours use out of the public schools, to give the students an opportunity to make new friends and to let them know the teachers more informally.

"There's no behavior problem," says James Burns, one of the participating teachers. "There are not many rules at all."

"They get together with the teachers before night to decide what to do. It's very flexible."

The result of the first few weeks of the project has been good.

"They've changed their attitudes in school and toward the teacher," says Mr. Burns. "The teacher's a human being now."

He describes the philosophy as "something like outdoor education. They're in a different environment." The school teaches the fundamentals and the change of environment provides practical experience."

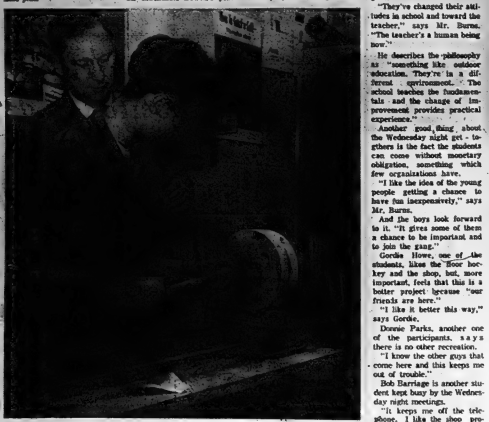
Another good thing about the Wednesday night get - togethers is the fact the students can come without monetary obligation, something which few organizations have.

"I like the idea of the young people getting a chance to have fun inexpensively," says Mr. Burns.

And the boys look forward to it. "It gives some of them a chance to be important and to join the gang."

Gordie Howe, one of the students, likes the floor hockey and the shop, but, more important, feels that this is a better project because "our friends are here."

"I like it better this way," says Gordie.



Donnie Parks, another one of the participants, says there is no other recreation.

"I know the other guys that come here and this keeps me out of trouble."

Bob Barriage is another student kept busy by the Wednesday night meetings.

"It keeps me off the telephone, I like the shop projects and the sports."

Special activities for the Special activities for the boys have been roche games and a smelt cook-in a little over a week ago. The boys have a track and field season to look forward to.

Supplementary Assistance

Lloyd Scott, one of the teachers helping to supervise the Sir Mackenzie Bowell Knights, offers a little assistance to Frank Hodge who is taking advantage of shop opportunities at the school.

Night Slugfest

Ron Baker and Donnie Parks learn that boxing is one way of utilizing excess energy. These two Sir Mackenzie Bowell students have found it gratifying to take advantage of the Wednesday night get-togethers.

RECEIVES CITATION

COLBY, Kan. (AP) — A school bus driver, Ron Counsil, has received the governor's citation for saving a Colby woman from possible serious injury when he pulled a car away that had pinned her against an embankment. Mrs. William Weishaar was pinned when she tried to stop her parked car from rolling down a hill. After freeing her, Counsil administered first aid.

De Gaulle Quits As President

two channels of communication with Canada—the federal channel and a provincial channel to Quebec.

"In the past the federal channel has been singularly neglected," Pepin said. "I hope they will see the need for a new approach through the federal channel."

Moscow radio reported the resignation and said the referendum reforms on which de Gaulle was defeated "were intended to extend the power of monopoly to strengthen a regime of personal rule."

In the first Soviet comment on de Gaulle's departure, the radio said in a domestic broadcast: "Paris political observers see the result of the referendum as a great victory for the left-wing forces in France, and in the first place for the Communist party.

"They see it as proof of their influence among the various sectors of the French population."

The East German radio, reporting a statement by French Premier Maurice Couve de Murville conceding referendum defeat, said: "The main issue had been to strengthen the regime of personal power in the service of the monopolies."

In London, the initial feeling was that the resignation would inevitably upset international markets until the policy of de Gaulle's successor is known.

But no violent fluctuations in the currency markets were expected immediately.

In the long term, observers believe de Gaulle's defeat could help Britain's trading prospects. They feel under almost any other French president there would be more hope for Britain being invited to join the European Common Market.

Nonetheless, the feeling in London was that his resignation will not necessarily mean British attempts to join the Common Market would automatically become easier.

President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy, in London on a state visit, and his foreign minister, Pietro Nenni, were having talks with Prime Minister Wilson and Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart. The whole French question was board to be discussed, observers said.

There was no immediate official reaction from France's Common Market partners. Officials expressed regret at de Gaulle's departure from the political scene but none was prepared to make predictions on future policy.

Communist leaders in Italy were jubilant.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Camp Sagonaska in Vanderwater Park is taking on a new look. The Belleville district council has two new cabins nearing completion. On Saturday a work party of leaders, committeemen and councillors undertook to complete the contractor's frame buildings. The roofs were shingled, dutch siding was partially nailed up and weatherproof paint was applied.

The existing recreation and storage building was painted on the north side and east side with a protective coat of rust color paint. When complete all structures will blend in well with the natural beauty of the site. A new well pump was also installed.

The contractor will finish the cabins and the camp will be operative by May 1. The whole project was supervised by acting president of district council, Bruce Thompson. Applications for camp use are being accepted by camp secretary, Oliver Owen or Commissioner Arnold Welsh.

The recent training session for scouters was a huge success. Leaders showed great enthusiasm for the addresses given by Dr. E. B. Conn and Col. Mel Bryan and lively discussions ensued at the St. Thomas Fellowship.

The cubaree will be held at Zwick's Island park on May 31 from 1.30 to 4.00 p.m. The cubs will compete in sixes only and events will be of an athletic nature. Refreshments will be served.

The ladies' auxiliaries will hold a pot luck supper on May 7 with scout executive John Pfeiffer as guest speaker.

Cadets Visit CFB Trenton

Navy League cadets and their officers toured CFB Trenton Saturday, part of a project to familiarize the cadets with area military installations.

The Navy League cadets are aged 10 to 14. Irain every Monday night at RCSSC headquarters Quinte. Their activities will continue throughout the spring and summer tours and, hopefully, cruises.

ANAF News

Another enjoyable evening was spent by a good sized crowd last Friday on the occasion of the Spring Festival dance. Again the entertainment committee came through with fine music and plenty of prizes.

Mrs. J. Semark won the door prize. The first spot dance winners were Frank High and Etta Bobinsh and the second, Gladys and Jack Fairweld. The grocery hamper draw was won by Hilda Mathews. It is hoped to have another dance later in May but the regular Friday evening socials are still going strong, drop in and spend a pleasant hour with your friends.

It was the biggest turnout on Saturday evening when competing Mr. and Mrs. Dart teams gathered for the big tournament for the Carling awards and after many a hard fought battle the following were the winners: Eileen and Oda Silly; runners-up, Jean Gagnon and Ted Newman; ladies' high three darts was a tie between Jean Gagnon and Sis Cooles at 100 so each received an award and men's high three darts was won by Duane Warren at 134. So ended another good season of Mr. and Mrs. Dart matches.

Odes in the Belleville General Hospital are Fred Armstrong, 2728, H. Boule, Ted Branton 2615. Hospitalized in Kingston are Odes. H. Dumphy and Don Andrews 2614.

The old Sgt. Major passed another milestone on April 28 and members rallied around to give him a cheer and good wishes. Thanks, pals.

Reserve Thursday, May 8 for an important general meeting.

Caucus Splits with Trudeau in Back-room Montreal Meeting

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said he thought the game was great, but he would have trouble finding any backers even in Montreal Canadiens' dressing room.

The prime minister was on hand for the Canadiens' 3-1 win over St. Louis Blues in the opening game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final Sunday.

However his assessment differed from that of Montreal captain Jean Beliveau.

"I don't think it was one of our better games," Beliveau said. "After the first 10 minutes we slowed right down to their pace."

Montreal coach Claude Ruel said the Blues had never been under pressure all season. They ended up 19 points from the Western Division in the regular schedule, then took the minimum eight games to defeat Philadelphia Flyers and Los Angeles Kings.

"We had to fight to the end to win the league championship, then fight New York (Rangers) and Boston (Bruins), so we were up for them," Ruel said.

"St. Louis goaltending is tough to beat and the Blues are smart enough to build their game around it."

The Montreal coach said he felt his team "let down" after it went ahead early in the game.

"After we went ahead 2-0 we let them carry the play too much."

Scotty Bowman, the Blues coach, said his club got off to a shaky start and had a good second period, but couldn't sustain the pace in the third.

"It was only the fifth game we'd played in three weeks and the inactivity probably didn't help us."

Bowman said, Canadiens' always play extremely well when they "get a jump on a team" but Bobby Rousseau's short-handed goal in the first period hurt his club. He said Rousseau scored because of a "bad play" on the part of St. Louis.

Bowman said Barclay Plager suffered damaged ribs late in the game when he pilled into the end boards attempting to check Montreal's Jacques Lemaire. He was taken to hospital for X-rays, Bowman said.

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

There were two televised amateur hours to choose from Sunday afternoon — Ted Mack's Gerbil session, and another one featuring a comedy act from St. Louis.

In the latter contest, judges gave a Montreal dancing troupe the top prize, with three votes to the St. Louis act's one.

Yes, Virginia, the opening game of the Stanley Cup finals was THAT bad.

Toe Blake's understatement of the week tells all: "The fans may have been spoiled by the Boston series."

Amen. And we can afford some more of that kind of spoiling, thank you.

What causes us no surprise, however, is the way in which all parties concerned are trying to build up the year's National Hockey League finals as a clash between two well matched clubs.

(This, you understand, is to keep the TV ratings up, the rinks filled, and the players' pension fund bulging.)

How can anyone take Claude Ruel seriously when he says he anticipates a rough series from the Blues? The Canadiens last week eliminated the best hockey team in the world and they know it.

Coun Smythe Trophy prospect Serge Savard was the only refreshingly honest voice to be heard over a chorus of: "Don't underestimate the Blues".

"Yes," was Savard's to-the-point reply when asked if he thought the Montreal-St. Louis series was anti-climactic after the titillating bout with the Bruins.

There's no need to catalogue the St. Louis shortcomings — the fact they have, for instance, perfected non-existent forechecking.

Suffice to say they are dreaming the impossible dream with no less than nine players who formerly were on the Habins skinny payroll.

That's not counting sidelined Doug Harvey and Scotty Bowman, who earned his coaching stripes with the Hull-Ottawa, Peterborough and Montreal teams that provide the junior base of the Canadiens' hockey dynasty.

So what we have are nine Montreal rejects trying to beat the lineup they couldn't crack.

They haven't succeeded in 15 meetings since NHL hockey settled in St. Louis, including four straight setbacks in last year's final.

To date this year, the Blues have managed to tie seven games with the Habs. That seems to provide the logic for Montreal bookies who will only put up a buck for every five bet on the Canadiens.

Unfortunately, the Habs, not pressed by their opposition, seemed to play down to the Blues' level in Sunday's opener, which made a bad game even worse to watch.

If Montreal had played that way against Boston, they could be renting the Forum to a circus this week.

There's one saving grace: we won't have to put up with an excess of the sniff. The Blues can count their blessings if the series endures five games.

Meanwhile, the CBC might consider asking sponsors to provide longer commercials, having prolonged periods of network difficulties, and interrupting the broadcasts for latest bulletins on the situation in Sumatra.

'Have a Hart' Esposito Told

BULLETIN

MONTREAL (CP) — Danny Grant, 23-year-old left winger with Minnesota North Stars, today was named the winner of the Calder Trophy as the outstanding rookie of the National Hockey League's 1968-69 season.

The other three awards were won by players in the league's East Division, but Grant's selection broke the complete stranglehold the East Division had maintained on the NHL's individual awards since the league expanded in the 1967-68 season.

Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins, who set a scoring record of 126 points and who the Art Ross Trophy as leading scorer, is the Hart Memorial Trophy winner as the league's most valuable player.

Bobby Orr, also of Boston, won the James Norris Memorial Trophy for the second straight season as the outstanding defenceman.

Calgre Alec Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings was awarded the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for the third time as the player judged to have best combined sportsmanship and a high standard of playing ability.

The announcement of the award winners was made at the NHL's annual Stanley Cup luncheon. The winners were picked by members of the National Hockey League Writers' Association in the 12 league cities.

Plante's Playoff Return Spoiled by Former Mates

MONTREAL (CP) — "The Canadiens don't need Jacques Plante to fire them up. They do it themselves every game."

The 40-year-old Plante sat in St. Louis Blues dressing room Sunday, answering questions about his first Stanley Cup appearance at the Forum since 1963 and his first meeting with his former team-mates this season.

But he offered no alibi for the Blues' 3-1 loss in the opening game of the best-of-seven final series.

"I've been misquoted too often about goals, so I'm not going to discuss them any more," said the usually-talkative Plante who won six Vezina trophies with Montreal.

"They always have something to come back with. If I say the puck hit a stick, they say: 'He's just making excuses.' So you're not going to hear anything from me."

The Canadiens scored two goals in 38 seconds on Plante in the first period and added another with less than 30 seconds to play after he was removed in favor of an extra forward.

Dick Duff opened the scoring at 3:20 of the first and Bobby Rousseau added a short-handed goal at 4:17 before the Blues got untracked.

The victory left Montreal with a 13-0-2 record against the Blues in regular season and playoff competition. St. Louis bowed four straight to the defending champions last year.

"It was only our fifth game in three weeks and the rest probably didn't help us," said Scotty Bowman, coach of the Blues.

"We were never in trouble, they got the goals."

Second game of the series will be here Tuesday night. The action shifts to St. Louis for games Thursday and Sunday afternoon.

The Blues got off to a shaky start, played a solid second period, but couldn't keep up with the Canadiens in the third.

Plager Gets Okay

MONTREAL — Barc Plager, St. Louis Blues defenceman, was released from hospital after examination Sunday night and will appear with the club in its next Stanley Cup game against Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night.

Plager, injured late in the third period during a mixup with Montreal's Jacques Lemaire along the boards behind the St. Louis net, suffered a muscle spasm in the lower back.

JACQUES PLANTE

Berenson, leading scorer in the Western Division of the National Hockey League this season with 35 goals and 82 points, was held in check all day by Ralph Backstrom and didn't get a shot on net.

Backstrom's linemates, Provost and Ferguson, limited Berenson's wingers to only one shot on goal each and the Canadiens' relentless forechecking kept the Blues bottled up in their own zone for the first half of the third period.

but said Rousseau's goal hurt.

Barclay Plager crashed into the boards late in the game after missing Jacques Lemaire behind the Montreal net and was taken off the ice on a stretcher.

He was later given x-rays for possible damaged ribs, but Bowman said he suffered only a muscle spasm and will dress Tuesday night.

Both Beliveau and coach Claude Ruel denied that the Canadiens had a hard time getting up for the series with the Blues after the tough semi-final with Boston Bruins.

"I don't think it was one of our better games," said Beliveau. "After the first 10 minutes, we slowed right down to their pace."

Two Swings—Six Runs

McCovey Wins Doubleheader for Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie McCovey's explosive hitting has won him the respect of his manager, but the towering San Francisco Giant slugger is content to play it down.

"I don't want to talk about it too much because I'll probably go into a slump," he said Sunday after clobbering Houston with two game-winning three-run homers as San Francisco swept the Astros 4-3 and 8-5.

But Clyde King, manager of the Giants, has done plenty of talking, praising the 6-foot-3 first baseman as the top slugger in the National League.

"I had an awesome fear of McCovey as a "rival," King added, "and now I have tremendous respect for him as a slugger and hitter."

McCovey leads the league with eight homers and 21 runs batted in.

His bat carried the Giants into a tie for first place with Los Angeles in the NL Western Division after the Dodgers dropped Atlanta out of a share of the lead by routing the Braves 10-0 behind Don Sutton's four-hitter.

Cleon Jones raised his league-leading average to .443 with five hits for six RBIs, including a three-run homer in the ninth inning that salvaged a 3-0 victory for New York Mets over Chicago after the Cubs had won the opener 8-6.

In other games, Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 on Jerry Johnson's four-hitter, Montreal Expos rapped Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 and San Diego Padres swept Cincinnati Reds 8-3 and 10-9 in 13 innings.

In Saturday's games, Pittsburgh edged Montreal 4-3, Chicago whipped New York 9-3, San Diego beat Cincinnati 5-2, San Francisco defeated Houston 3-1, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 10-4 and Atlanta beat Los Angeles 6-4.

McCovey, 31, hit his 10th big-league season, capped a four-run seventh inning in the opener with his first shot, breaking a 3-3 deadlock.

Houston had taken a 4-0 lead in that one on Hector Torres' grand slam, but the Giants tied 4-4 on Jack Hiatt's three-run homer before a homer by Joe Morgan put the Astros in front again.

In the nightcap with the Yankees holding a 4-1 fifth-inning lead, Robinson belted a three-run homer. Relief pitcher Dick Hall singled home the go-ahead run and Robinson poked another RBI single in the sixth.

Sutton, 3-2, had it easy against Atlanta as Andy Kosco extended his hitting streak to 11 games with a single and double for three runs and Bill Grabarkewitz added three more with a double and triple and stole home for another marker.

Jones' double and two singles in the opener helped the Mets build a 6-3 lead, but two errors in the ninth inning set up four unearned Chicago runs, the last two on Randy Hundley's homer.

But after Billy Williams' error and an intentional walk, Jones unloaded in the nightcap for only the fourth hit off starter Rich Nye.

Montreal's Rusty Staub and Coco Laboy, who increased his average to .420 with 3-for-3, rapped tie-breaking homers in the sixth inning—Staub's with a man on—to beat Dick Ellis and Pittsburgh. Larry Jaster, who singled in the Expos' first run, scattered six hits in going the distance for the first time this season for his first victory.

Ollie Brown got San Diego started with two doubles and infield out that drove in three runs and set up another in the opener as rookies Clay Kirby, Gary Ross and Frank Reberger held off the Reds.

Ross won the nightcap with five innings of shutout relief before Ed Spiezio singled in an unearned run in the 13th with two out off Wayne Granger.

The Padres tied the game in the eighth on rookie Jerry DeVanon's run-scoring double after Pete Rose's three-run homer and Alex Johnson's two-run shot put Cincinnati ahead 9-7 in the top of the inning.

Robinson Rebounds To Paste Yankee Pitchers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sal Bando of Oakland Athletics, hitless in two previous games at Seattle, drove in seven runs Sunday with two homers and a single as the Athletics blitzed the expansion Pilots 13-5.

And at Baltimore, Frank Robinson, 1-for-10 in a pair of losses to the Yankees Friday and Saturday, broke loose with two homers, four singles and eight RBIs to lead the Orioles to a 5-0, 10-5 doubleheader sweep of the Yankees.

Bando went on the biggest run-producing spree of his pro career in Seattle's Sicks' Stadium, which he had visited regularly as a Pacific Coast League standout before moving to the majors.

"I played here in 1967 with Vancouver," said the Oakland third baseman a no "but those fences are closer now."

In other AL Sunday action, Washington, Senators extended Cleveland's losing streak to 10 games with a 6-5 victory over the Indians, Detroit Tigers slugged Boston Red Sox 7-4; Minnesota Twins edged Chicago White Sox 4-3 in a game shortened to 8½ innings by rain and California Angels topped Kansas City Royals 6-2.

In games Saturday, Washington downed Cleveland 8-1, Minnesota walloped Chicago 13-1, Boston defeated Detroit 7-4, New York nipped Baltimore 6-5 and Seattle beat Oakland 6-3. The California at Kansas City game was postponed because of rain.

Bando sent the Athletics ahead to stay in the first inning with a two-run homer, slammed a three-run homer in the sixth and singled two more runs across in the eighth, helping rookie right-hander Rollie Fingers nailed his second victory without a loss.

Frank Robinson delivered four runs in each game as the Orioles surged to a 3½-game lead over runner-up Boston in the Eastern Division. He cracked a two-run homer and two run-scoring singles in the opener, backing the six-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar.

In the nightcap with the Yankees holding a 4-1 fifth-inning lead, Robinson belted a three-run homer. Relief pitcher Dick Hall singled home the go-ahead run and Robinson poked another RBI single in the sixth.

Nancy Holds Forth On Outdated Ideals

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP) — Nancy Greene said Sunday that Avery Brundage, 81, president of the International Olympic Committee, is "trying to preserve ideals it is very hard to hold in the modern world of sport."

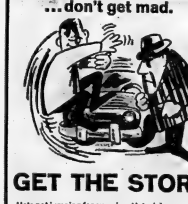
That was the way she summed up Brundage's request that the International Ski Federation (FIS) narrow the return of medals — including Nancy's — won at the 1968 Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France.

Brundage alleged the ski events were invalidated by intrusive commercialism and other irregularities.

Nancy, who was interviewed at her mother's home here when she returned from her honeymoon trip with Al Raines, coach of Canada's national ski team, said she spoke with Brundage by telephone and "he was quite nice."

"He does not want any medals specifically as his committee does not deal with individuals. He said, however, that his committee was not very happy with the way the FIS managed the last winter Olympics."

In Chicago last week, Brundage said he had written to the FIS asking "when the medals will be returned." He said it was obvious that Alpine skiing had not been properly controlled.



As for preserving amateur status, which Brundage seeks to do, Nancy said the concept should be "mostly forgotten about.

"After all, amateur status is an English concept and I am sure there is no parallel expression in the Russian language."

"Even Brundage himself sounds uncertain at times — in one breath he is against subsidized athletics and in the next is saying that athletes are entitled to living expenses. But what are reasonable living expenses?"

She said the matter could quickly be resolved by rewriting the rules to secure the ultimate in competition.

Babe Ruth Gets Home Run No. 715

NEW YORK (AP) — The Times says Babe Ruth's lifetime home run record, which has withstood the assault of every modern-day slugger, will be a bit further out of reach in 1970.

Ruth's all-time mark will jump to 715 from 714 when the next official record book appears this fall, says The Times.

Researchers for a new computerized baseball encyclopedia discovered that the Babe was deprived of a 1918 homer by an antiquated rule and a special baseball records committee has authorized the change, the story says.

Ruth, a pitcher-outfielder for Boston Red Sox that year, broke a scoreless 10th-inning tie against Cleveland on July 8 by [illegible] Stanley Covaleskie pitch into the bleachers at Fenway Park, but he was not credited with a home run because there was a runner on first base when he unloaded.

Under the rule in force before 1920, the game was considered over, with the score 1-0, when the preceding runner crossed the plate. Ruth's wallop went into the books as a triple. Had the runner been on third base, Ruth would have been credited with a single.

EDMONTON (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers won the Western Canada Hockey League final Saturday night with a convincing 5-1 win over Edmonton Oil Kings before 5,200 fans. The Bombers had lost the first two games in the best-of-seven series but won the next four. Flin Flon now plays St. Thomas, Ont., Barons for the Canadian Hockey Association championship opening Wednesday in St. Thomas.

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association Sunday elected Clarence Schmalz, a 51-year-old hotel owner from Walkerton, as president. He succeeds Jack Devine of Belleville. The 375 delegates endorsed an amendment to the constitution calling for a game misconduct for a player using foul or abusive language.

Hornets One Up

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Coach Roy Kelly was almost as hot as the weather Sunday night after his Calgary Stampeders were beaten 7-2 by Galt Hornets in the opening game of the Canadian senior hockey championship series for the Allan Cup.

Warm weather caused problems with the ice-plant and the game was played with a strip of slush extending nearly the entire 185-foot ice surface.

The Hornets, who meet the Western Canada champions again Tuesday in the second game of the best-of-seven series, increased their playoff record to 19 wins against five defeats.

Big Splash At First Meet

"Unbelievable" was coach Bill Rushlow's word for it when 10-year-old John Gren won an Ontario Age-Group Diving title here Saturday night in his first competition ever.

The Belleville youngster's six dive-performance was judged better than those of 11 others participating in the 13 and under class at the Centennial Pool meet.

Rushlow had other reasons for enthusiasm about Saturday's meet. Ten-year-old Maggie McDougall came in second in girls of her age group in the competitions that drew over 100 youngsters from Ontario, Quebec, and the United States.

The third member of the Belleville contingent — none of whom had ever been entered in competition before — was 14-year-old Charles Gren. Charles was placing third in his group when he took a wrong twist on a dive suffered minor injuries, and was withdrawn from further competition.

The Belleville youngsters get their instruction at the Family "Y" pool, and only rarely get the opportunity to practise on the Olympic-regulation board they competed on Saturday.

KEEPING HIS HEAD — Steve Middleton "heads" ball to Ian Strathy as a diversion during Saturday's registration of Belleville Minor Soccer Association prospective players. An overwhelming turnout of some 280 youngsters — up by 100 over last year — prompted league organizers to extend the registration through to Friday at the Recreation Centre, and to make plans for increasing the number of teams from 10 to about 20.

GOOD AS GOLD — Netminder Doreen Cook kisses the battle-worn but valuable stick with which she registered a trio of shutouts during the Mel Barriage Landscapers' weekend march to the Dominion Women's Hockey Championship. Team sponsor Mel Barriage has a firm hand on the lucky stick as he displays the Dominion Championship trophy which the Landscapers successfully defended in Toronto on the weekend.

Gun Execs Picked

The officers for 1969 are President, Bert Burgess, vice-president, Bob McKenzie, secretary - treasurer, Doug Johnston, board of directors, Gord Bates, Bill Poole, Duke Pringle, Al Smith.

It was also decided at Sunday's meeting that the Wallbridge Road shooting range will be open Wednesday evenings at 6 p.m. and Sundays from 10 a.m.

Another Dominion Title For Barriage Hockey Girls

STAFF — All good things must come to an end and Saturday they did for the Picton Macfarlands, much to the delight of Belleville's Mel Barriage Landscapers.

Defence was the means to the end for the Landscapers who defeated Picton 4-0 Sunday in the Class "C" championship game at the Canadian Women's Hockey Championships at Toronto's Double Rink.

The victory was the first this season for the local women over the powerful Picton aggregation capping the Landscapers season with their second consecutive Dominion Class "C" title.

Picton, which had little trouble beating Belleville all season and won the Quinte District Women's Hockey League crown with a perfect season's record of 12 wins and no defeats, had advanced to the "C" finals by shutting out Ont 1-0 in the first round, thrashing Warsaw 5-0 in the second round and bombing Campbellford 10-1 in the semi-finals.

The title game was a close-checking affair with neither team being able to score in the first two periods.

Marjorie Reid broke the ice for Barriages early in the third period and shortly afterward netminder Doreen Cook passed the puck to Jeneen Gerow who skated through the Picton squad to give the Landscapers a 2-0 lead.

Reid and Gerow each added a second goal later in the final stanza to give Belleville their 4-0 margin.

Netminder Doreen Cook, the wife of coach Bob Cook was a standout in the Barriage nets registering three shutouts and allowing only one goal in four games as Belleville swept through the tournament undefeated for the second year in a row.

Nancy McCallam's second period goal gave the Landscapers a 1-0 win over Richmond Hill in the opening round of the tournament Saturday and five players divided up the goals in Saturday's 10-1 second round win over Lakefield.

Marjorie Reid notched four goals and an assist, Susan Morton three goals and two assists, while Sandra Claus, Judy Rapsel and Nancy McCallam added single goals in the romp.

A 4-0 shutout win over Thornhill in the semi-finals Sunday morning preceded the title game victory early in the evening.

Marjorie Reid sparked the Landscapers four game survey with eight goals, Susan Morton tallied four times, Nancy McCallam three times and Jeneen Gerow twice. Sandra Claus and Judy Rapsel rounded out Belleville's 19-goal total with singletons.

"I'm proud of the girls," Barriage's coach Bob Cook said, "they worked hard every bit of the way and excelled at positional play. It was a real solid team effort."

Celtics Top Scots

Manchester City Gleans FA Cup

LONDON (CP) — Manchester City and Glasgow Celtic emerged Saturday as the cup soccer kings of Britain after winning two matches watched by nearly 250,000 fans.

Manchester won the English Football Association Cup for the fourth time with a 1-0 victory over Leicester City before 100,000 fans who paid a record £128,000 (about $342,000) to see the same.

The game was followed by rioting and demonstrations.

A 23rd-minute goal by Neil Young brought favorites Manchester their expected victory over Leicester, who fought tenaciously and created several scoring chances but could not match their opponents' smooth passing.

Leicester became the only club to have played in four finals—1949, 1961, 1963 and this year—without winning one.

The team now must battle for survival in the English League First Division. They still have five league matches to play and need seven points to avoid relegation.

Manchester, league champions last year, will represent England in the European Cup Winners Cup next year.

Lacrosse Here!

STAFF — Tonight is initiation night for local sports fans.

Lacrosse initiation night that is, for Belleville's new Senior lacrosse club the Belleville Merchants, will hold a practice and inter-squad game tonight at the Memorial Arena.

The public is invited to attend the session which will start at 7:30 p.m. when the Senior "A" players will be on hand to give instruction and tips to local youngsters.

The practice will follow the instruction period, and then the Merchants will play an inter-squad game with their farm team, the Peterborough Junior "A" TeePees.

Club director Ray Mortimore said this morning that a full lineup of players is expected to night with the exception of defenseman Greg Marchese, who is working in Peterborough.

Goaltender Wayne Platt, a Junior "A" all-star last season and a standout netminder for the Peterborough TeePees for the past couple of seasons, will be on hand tonight to instruct local youngsters and thwart the scoring attempts of his former Junior "A" teammates.

Club director Ray Mortimore said that final word was expected by tonight on team rosters and sponsorship arrangements, and added that the revised league schedule will also be revealed shortly.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

Jim Patterson

ARE YOU A MISINFORMED DRIVER?

"Old wives tales" are an undeserving slight on the reputation of old wives, some of whom are very knowledgeable ladies concerning cars and other things that life's experience has taught them.

But there are a lot of widely-accepted myths concerning cars that young wives and an equal percentage of husband still cling to. Here are a few:

Lower tire pressure on wet roads does NOT increase traction as many think. Neither does adding weight to your car. Increased tire pressure will help to a limited extent.

Driving with your parking lights on in a fog is less safe than driving with your headlights on despite the fact that many motorists use them for this purpose. Parking lights are for parking only and are deceptive on the highway.

Will the police always give you the benefit of the doubt up to ten miles over the limit? Don't count on it. The practice comes from the days of inaccurate speed measuring devices when the courts would not convict unless the violation was clear-cut.

Though many motorists race their engines before shutting it off with the idea that this will make starting much easier, the practice is a waste of time. It is a hangover from the days it did work due to older model carburetors.

One of the rules that never changes but which still fools a lot of people is that price is only one measure of a bargain. If it buys poor quality or inferior service it is no bargain.

Quebec Education Minister Seeks Leadership

ST. LIBOIRE, Que. (CP) — Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal announced Sunday he will contest the leadership of the Union Nationale party and said he would leave the party open to Quebecers of all constitutional opinions, including separatism.

Mr. Cardinal, speaking at a news conference in his own riding of Bagot, said he could offer leadership characterized by firmness, authority and stability.

His announcement was marred by two differences from the position of Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, the other leading contender for the leadership:

—Mr. Cardinal called on all Quebecers, including separatists, to join the party, while Mr. Bertrand opened his leadership campaign in March by saying separatists do not belong in the Union Nationale.

—Mr. Cardinal, 44, contrasted his own age and good health with that of the 59-year-old premier who suffered a mild heart attack last December.

Mr. Cardinal announced his candidacy in the presence of about 300 supporters, including a busload of enthusiasts from Chicoutimi riding, represented by Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay. St. Liboire is about 40 miles southeast of Montreal.

The education minister, former dean of law at the University of Montreal, said the Union Nationale is a strictly-Quebec party, the party of all Quebecers, whatever their ideology or ethnic origin.

"In the Union Nationale," he said, "there is room for separatists (des souverainistes), for nationalists, for federalists. In short, there is room for all those who want to build a strong and identifiable society."

Mr. Cardinal represents the riding previously held by premier Daniel Johnson, whose death last September precipitated the leadership convention scheduled for June 19-21. Premier Bertrand was chosen interim leader after Mr. Johnson died.

Mr. Cardinal said Mr. Bertrand was "very sick and very tired" last year, but said he himself is in "perfect health."

Mr. Cardinal told reporters he has not made up his mind about what is the best constitutional option for Quebec, but "we have to find this option as soon as possible."

"Personally, I don't reject any option, even if certain among them are unrealistic and only represent theories."

He said later the constitutional option of Rene Levesque's separatist Parti Quebecois was an example of a choice that is only a theory."

Premier Bertrand has called for "renewed federalism," an option he said in March is defended "by the immense majority of the partisans of the Union Nationale."

Mr. Cardinal said he will develop the following themes in his leadership campaign:

—A fundamental reorganization of the government system, including revision of the system of representation in the national assembly.

—The drafting of an internal constitution for Quebec "as soon as possible" and "restoration of legislative power and authority over the governmental apparatus."

—Adaptation of the Quebec economy to meet "the rapid transformations of society" and industrialization of farming in an agricultural reform that would leave no arable land "unplowed" in Quebec.

He would not elaborate on these themes under questioning.

Vacuum Gauge Can Show Engine Inefficiency

A reader writes:

"Do you think a dashboard-mounted vacuum gauge which is supposed to indicate degree of fuel economy would be a good investment? Would it also provide any real gas savings? Does it really warn when a tune-up is needed, or is it just another of those useless gadgets?" — Mr. L. C., Dr., Toronto

This is one accessory that can prove itself useful provided you study the instructions and learn how to interpret its various readings. As an engine idles a strong vacuum is formed inside the intake manifold and the purpose of a vacuum gauge is to measure the exact amount of this vacuum. The dial of the vacuum gauge is calibrated in inches of vacuum and usually reads from zero to 25 inches. A needle, much like the needle on a speedometer, is actuated by the force of vacuum from the manifold. The higher the reading, the healthier the engine and the lower the reading the sicker the engine.

For example, a reading of 18" or higher on the idle indicates that the engine is operating at maximum efficiency. Defects such as blown head gaskets, broken valve springs, burned intake and exhaust valves, faulty ignition timing or carburetor adjustment will result in readings down as low as 1" of vacuum.

Certain malfunctions will cause the needle to fluctuate wildly between high and low readings, and the average gas mileage would find it difficult if not impossible to pin-point the exact defect. That is the main advantage of a dash-mounted vacuum gauge is that the instrument the reading shows less than 18 inches, you can head for your service department and find out why. This type of preventive maintenance, as well as minimizing fuel consumption, could readily prevent a minor mechanical problem from developing into a major overhaul.

I have seen some tricky, cleverly worded advertisements that imply that to install one of these vacuum gauges would immediately improve gas mileage and cure any existing ills in the engine. This is not true.

Keep in mind that the vacuum gauge itself has no bearing one way or the other on fuel economy — the fact that it is attached to the engine does not increase its function. Its only useful purpose is to let the driver know when all is not well with the engine's function.

A reader writes:

"In recent years the car manufacturers have simplified new car breaking-in procedures and according to the owner's manual, driving within the legal highway speed limits after just a hundred miles or so will not harm the engine.

I am about to take delivery of a new V8 hardtop and am wondering what your feelings are regarding the breaking-in period." — Mrs. V. J., Toronto, Ont.

Most piston rings are coated with chrome or softer materials to facilitate wear and it sometimes takes several thousand miles of operation before they fully seat into the cylinder walls. The fact that many new engines burn a few extra quarts of oil during this period proves this point.

Regardless of precision factory tolerances, there will be miniscule variations on the mating surfaces of the rings and cylinder walls (and other engine components) which have to seat in. To drive at open throttle, or close to it, during this critical breaking-in period could result in scuffing, or in extreme cases, seizure of certain close fitting components.

In my opinion, a little extra care during the first few thousand miles can determine how the power plant will perform for the rest of its life. Many a good engine has become an oil burner at an early age because of savage break-in practices.

At the same time it must be remembered that driving too slowly can prove harmful — don't baby the engine. The owner's manual provides the proper breaking-in procedure and if this advice is followed there should be no problem.

A young lad who is privileged to drive Dad's new car may be tempted to hold it to the highway, floor the pedal and push the speedometer needle right up to the top — just to see what she'll do. If you are not dead certain that you can convince him that such a practice could prove disastrous — in more ways than one, don't hand him the keys.

Above all, for the first thousand miles or so, each time you hop-gas, check engine oil and radiator levels. If there is any sign of fluid leaking beneath the car, have it checked immediately. Remember, the car has just rolled off an assembly line and the slightest imperfection that may have been missed during inspection could result in a drained crank case, cooling system, transmission, hydraulic brake system or rear axle assembly.

NOTE: Letters from readers with hard to pin - point car problems are most welcome, but please include: year and model, number of cylinders, mileage, standard or automatic transmission, power equipment brief outline of previous repairs and a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Canadian Fishing Boat Sinks In Collision Off Newfoundland

PORT AUX BASQUES, Nfld. (CP) — The search for survivors from a Canadian herring seiner ended in two near here Sunday by an Israeli freighter has been called off with five men missing and presumed drowned.

Two survivors, David Gogill and Paul Morse, both of Grand-Manan Island, N.B., were taken from the bridge of Cabot straight after the 102-foot Melisa Jane II and the Eskkol collided early Sunday.

The body of one man, Gordon Locke of Grand Manan Island, has been recovered.

Missing are Captain Glandon Outhouse, in his mid 40s, Clifford Newman, in his early 50s and Larry Decarie, in his 20s, all of Grand Mann; and Don Carle, 22, and Terry Osmond, 17, both of Port aux Basques.

Three fishing vessels, the CN ferry William Carson, the 8,000-ton Eskkol and a Canadian Forces plane from Summerside, P.E.I., took part in the search.

An armed forces spokesman said little wreckage was sighted in the 33-degree water.

The Eskkol was bound for for Montreal and the Melissa Jane was headed for Isle aux Morts, eight miles east of here, when the collision occurred.

Keith Raymond of Sandy Cove, N.S., owner of the Melissa Jane, said the vessel was equipped with two radars besides depth sounding and other electronic gear for spotting schools of fish.

New Leader Is Selected By Alberta's Liberals

EDMONTON (CP) — Jack Lowery, who favors reorganization of provincial departments, was chosen as leader of the Alberta Liberal party Saturday when he edged Dr. Don Branigan of Peace River by 15 votes on the third ballot.

Mr. Lowery, 39, a Calgary public relations man and a United Church minister, polled 356 votes after more than 3½ hours of voting to decide a successor of Mike Maccagno, who resigned as run unsuccessfully in the June 25 federal general election last year.

During a panel discussion by the four candidates, Mr. Lowery said he favored a capital gains tax provided capital losses could be written off.

He favors reorganization of provincial departments because "they are not using money in the best way and there is administrative inefficiency."

Dr. Branigan, 35, was the only candidate to present a challenge, but until the final ballot was unable to get closer than the 90 votes which separated them on the first ballot.

Bob Russell, 38, a St. Alberta alderman, was dropped after the second ballot, when he polled 186 votes, 19 short of Dr. Branigan's 207 and far short of 317 for Mr. Lowery.

After the first ballot, Trevor Midgley, 26, a University of Alberta sociology student and a last-minute candidate, was dropped from the ballot when he polled 77 votes.

Of the 726 delegates registered to vote, 726 cast ballots on the first round, 712 on the second and 697 on the final ballot.

Present standing in the 65-seat Alberta legislature is 55 Social Credit, seven Conservatives, two Liberals and one independent.

Married and the father of four daughters, Mr. Lowery said he will be a full-time leader and has left the job he held for 9½ years with Atco Industries Ltd., an industrial trailer manufacturer.

House Returns Today To Criminal Code Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons returns to debate on the omnibus Criminal Code bill today and to 14 proposed amendments to the sections of the bill dealing with abortions.

The Commons has spent about 11 days on the bill, at the report stage of consideration now—the stage preceding third and final reading.

Sections dealing with gross indecency and lotteries were disposed of last week with the government voting down all opposition amendments.

The bill proposes changing the law to permit abortions when a hospital committee rules that the life or health of a mother is endangered. The abortion changes probably are the most controversial in the bill and have been bitterly attacked by some MPs, particularly Creditistes.

When the abortion amendments are disposed of, the House will face only three other amendments to the bill, all dealing with sections on penal reform.

The code debate had to make way for a day-long discussion of housing problems Friday, prompted by the resignation from cabinet of Paul Hellyer, the minister for housing.

Martin Denies Canada Faces Housing Crisis

CALGARY (CP) — Sen. Paul Martin said Saturday that Canada does not have a housing crisis.

The government leader in the Senate said at an airport news conference that there is a housing problem, which the government is taking steps to alleviate, but he pointed out that housing starts have been increasing every year, and that Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. loans had been increased last week.

Mr. Martin said Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, the federal minister in charge of housing, should not have resigned last week.

"He should have waited," he said, predicting that many of Mr. Hellyer's recommendations to improve the housing situation will be implemented in the near future.

Drama in St. Clair

Two Cubans Saved When Rowboat Sinks

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Two Cubans with an urge to get to Miami are back on Canadian soil after their rowboat sank in the St. Clair River near Marine City, Mich.

The Cubans, Gorge Sablon de Herrera, 26 and his brother Tomas, 25, both of Havana, were turned over to Canadian immigration officials by United States border patrolmen.

The brothers, both members of Castro's mercantile marine, were fished out of 40-degree water when their 12-foot dinghy leaked and sank Saturday night.

They told an interpreter in Sarnia they came to Canada aboard the freighter Santiago, out of Havana. Gorge was the ship's cook and Tomas was a stowaway. They jumped ship in Saint John, N.B.

Gorge said they had been trying for four years to get out of Cuba. A previous attempt to escape in a small boat was foiled by lack of gasoline.

They said they hoped to cross the Canadian border to join brother Manuel, 26, who lives in Decatur, Ga. From there they planned to go to Miami, where they had heard immigration officials were lenient to Cuban refugees.

The brothers were granted political asylum in Halifax and they applied for a visa to the U.S. But they were too impatient to wait for it to be processed.

Manuel came to Windsor, Ont., Saturday to meet his brothers, who were staying at a motel. He tried to take them back in his car, but they were refused entry at the border. Manuel took them back to Windsor and drove home to Georgia alone.

Back in Windsor, the brothers hired a taxi and drove to Sombra, Ont., where they found a boat and set out for Marine City. Their boat went down in mid-stream and they spent about 30 minutes in the water, shouting for help, before the ferry from Sombra to Marine City picked them up.

Now the brothers are being looked after at an inter-denominational hostel for immigrants in Sarnia.

They said Sunday they hoped their visa to the United States —and Miami—will soon be processed. In the meantime, they're looking for a job.

Presbyterian Church in U.S. Admits Evolution Possible

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The 1969 General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. concluded Saturday that the Bible and the theory of evolution are not contradictory—but only after fiery fundamentalists had their say.

A heated debate broke out as soon as the Permanent Theological Committee submitted a report on Evolution and the Bible.

The report asked that the 1,600,000-member predominantly Southern church change its traditional interpretation of the biblical doctrine of creation to include the possibility of evolution.

It recommended that the church drop its stated position, that "man was created body and soul by immediate acts of Almighty Power without any natural animal parentage of any kind, out of matter previously created out of nothing" in favor of a more liberal interpretation of the scriptures.

Two substitute motions were defeated before the original committee report was adopted.

Rev. Carl Wilson of Fayetteville, Ga., offered one of the substitutes, calling Charles Darwin "part of the creed of godless communism throughout the world."

Darwin, a 19th century scientist, popularized the theory of evolution.

Another substitute motion was offered by Rev. R. D. Linsteen of Atlanta, whose motion said in part:

"God made Adam, the head of the human race in His own image, with intelligence and a conscience and with dominion over all creatures." The majority of the scientists in the world are not Christian, the minister said.

Sacred College Approves Choice By Pope of 33 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul created 33 new cardinals today, giving younger men and seven more countries a place in the highest council of the Roman Catholic church.

The Pope had named the 33 prelates March 28. Twenty-five members of the Sacred College of Cardinals met in secret consistory with the Pope and gave their approval to his choices.

The meeting in the consistorial hall of the Apostolic Palace, first of three consistories this week, lasted only 15 minutes. It expanded the Sacred College to 134 members, the largest number in history, and increased the number of countries represented to 49 from 29.

Immediately after Pope Paul announced the 33 names and received the vote of approval, three cardinals set out as papal messengers to notify the new cardinals waiting in three buildings near the Vatican.

The cardinals included Most Rev. George Bernard Flahiff, archbishop of Winnipeg.

The new cardinals included four Americans, eight Italians, three Frenchmen, two Spaniards, two Brazilians, a Mexican and the first cardinals to be named for Korea, Guatemala, Madagascar and New Zealand.

The Pope's choices also continued the internationalization of the church's top rank by reducing the Italian proportion of cardinals to 30.5 per cent from 32.8 per cent. The new men also bring the average age of the cardinals down to 68 years from 71.

The new selections also increase the power and prestige of diocesan bishops around the world and give developing countries a greater place in the highest council of Roman Catholicism. Only four of the new cardinals are members of the Vatican Curia, the central government of the church. Four have been nuncios, the Vatican's ambassadors abroad. Six are archbishops or bishops and one is a Jesuit theologian.

In announcing his nominations on March 28, Pope Paul said he was also designating two other cardinals but was reserving their names "in pectore," in his heart. This is a procedure employed when a prelate is in a Communist country in which his promotion could increase his problems with the government, or when the prelate is in a key Vatican post from which his elevation would remove him. Still Pope Paul announces the identities of the two men, they will not become cardinals and he may not ever do this.

The new cardinals gather publicly for the first time in their bright scarlet robes on Wednesday evening for the second, semi-public consistory. Pope Paul will then give them their square red hats, or biretas.

At the final consistory, to be held in St. Peter's Basilica on Thursday, the Pope gives each cardinal his ring of office and concelebrates mass with them.

Piao Fears War

TOKYO (AP) — Lin Piao, Red China's defence minister and No. 2 leader, says there is danger of the United States and the Soviet Union declaring war on the Chinese at an early date and "we must be prepared."

In a 24,000-word report to the Communist party's Ninth Congress that wound up last Thursday, Lin warned Peking must "on no account ignore the danger of U.S. imperialism and Soviet revisionism launching a large-scale nuclear war of aggression."

The official New China News Agency began broadcasting Lin's report Sunday night. Until then it had not been made public.

Lin, however, quoted Chairman Mao Tse-tung as saying: "We will not attack unless we are attacked: if we are attacked, we will certainly counter-attack."

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boniface, of Buffalo, N.Y. and who have their summer residence on Marinaw Lake, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spencer, this week, friends of some 35 years, and they are staying for a few days at the West Wind Motel, on No. 7 Highway while vacationing in Canada.

Miss Nancy Lawrence is home from the Belleville General Hospital after undergoing an appendectomy.

Mrs. Winnie Kellar of Plevna, is in the Perth Hospital for minor surgery.

Drunkenness May Eventually Not Be Considered A Crime

TORONTO (CP) — Some day, public drunkenness may no longer be a crime in Ontario if findings of the Addiction Research Foundation are confirmed.

How soon? Ten years.

David Archibald, executive director of the provincially-sponsored foundation, says he would like to see "a complete transition" in treatment of drunkenness 10 years from now. He says it would be dangerous to scrap the present system of court appearances and jail sentences until alternatives have been set up.

In an interview, he said there is a need for a 140-bed detoxication centre in Toronto to handle the 25,000 public drunks now jailed yearly and for a chain of detoxication centres in every major Ontario city.

Since last June the foundation has compiled 900 case histories from arrested drunks.

On the basis of that information and other reports, Mr. Archibald says at least 65 per cent of offenders under public drunkenness laws can respond to the right kind of program.

Poor Not to Blame

HAMILTON (CP) — Poor families should not be condemned for having more children than they can properly support when society denies them knowledge of family planning, the federal minister of health and welfare said Saturday.

John Munro told the Family Planning Federation of Canada at its annual dinner "there are many now trapped in poverty who would like to know, who need to know, who have the right to know" about such matters.

The minister said federal legislation banning the sale of contraceptives or spread of conceptive information has been a "dead letter" for years. Amendments now before Parliament would remove those restrictions.

Mr. Munro said the change will make such information available to everyone, rich or poor, rural or urban, but "does not seek to force family planning on anyone."

Negro Civil Rights Man Hits Student Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — A Negro civil rights strategist, Bayard Rustin, urged college officials Sunday to "stop capitulating to the stupid demands of Negro students . . . and see that they get the remedial training that they need."

Rustin, organizer of the 1963 March on Washington, said Negro students are "suffering from the shock of integration" and are looking for "an easy way out of their problems" by demanding separate dormitories and study programs.

"What the hell are soul courses worth in the real world?" Rustin asked. "In the real world, no one gives a damn if you've taken soul courses. They want to know if you can do mathematics and write a correct sentence."

Rustin spoke with reporters before addressing a luncheon of the American Jewish Committee.

Rustin said he favors bringing Negro and Puerto Rican youths into the nation's colleges and universities, "if it is done with the understanding that you're going to do remedial work for them."

Pepin Says Canada Turns to Pacific

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Sunday Canada will tone down its involvement in Europe and strengthen its economic and political ties with Australia and Southeast Asia.

Pepin told reporters: "Australia and Canada, as middle-sized powers, have a great deal to offer each other. We are going to give more and more of our attention to the Pacific region."

Explaining Canada's renewed interest in the Pacific and Asia, Pepin said: "For 20 years we have concentrated on European involvement. But the Western European countries are much better equipped to defend themselves now."

Canadian trade with Europe was not growing as quickly as trade with Asia.

"Everyone recognizes that the Pacific market is growing and we want to have a greater part in it."

Wheat Sales Would Cure West's Worry

EDMONTON (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. (Bud) Olson said Saturday that a large wheat sale would do more to improve any feeling of alienation in the West than many in-depth psychological studies.

He said talk of alienation had a habit of escalating, especially in areas where there were economic problems.

Mr. Olson and Postmaster-General Eric Kierans were speaking at a news conference during the Alberta Liberal party's leadership convention at the weekend.

Mr. Kierans said he sympathizes with feelings in the West where some people felt Ottawa is not concerned enough with marketing problems.

"We are really concerned but I don't think the people believe us."

De Gaulle Disciple Likely Successor But Changes Certain

PARIS (CP) Calls for sweeping changes in national policies already are being raised throughout France with today's pre-ending resignation of the presidency by Charles de Gaulle.

His triumphant opponents, revelling in his referendum defeat Sunday of de Gaulle's program for regional and Senate reform, are demanding an end to what they term his wasteful spending policies and a shift in France's external alliances.

The last announcement of the vote count, with the 53-percent majority it gave the "No" cause, was barely on the air when first moves towards the impending presidential elections were disclosed.

They involved expressions of support among some local Gaullists for a shrewd disciple of the now-beaten general who may have survived the referendum debacle, Georges Pompidou.

Shrugged off and left to pasture by his chief after leading the Gaullists to their 1968 election victory, Pompidou stuck to pledging loyalty to the general and through the referendum campaign without becoming too closely identified with the reform proposals.

But ex-premier Pompidou will face a formidable opponent if France's new interim president, Alain Poher, decides to run for a regular seven-year term in the Elysee Palace.

Poher, 60, comparatively little-known before the referendum campaign, flashed to national prominence through his searing April 2 attack, as Senate president, on de Gaulle's proposals for governmental "renovation," especially as they affected the senate.

But observers predict that, if elected chief of state in the voting now due in the next weeks, Poher might order sweeping changes in government personnel and policy.

The sheer strangeness of being suddenly in the post-de Gaulle era still has many Frenchmen feeling stunned and, in some cases, elated.

It seemed impossible in the first hours after the vote count to judge how de Gaulle's departure would affect such policies as reduced aid to Quebec and French-speaking Maritimers, and France's attitude towards Ottawa.

In his presidential heyday, the remark often was heard in Paris that in the final analysis only one man was responsible for the Canadian policies and that was the general.

How true this was and how much any future clampdown on expenditure would affect Gaullist aid to French-speaking communities overseas were in the main questions being asked by Canadians here.

They remembered the statement last Friday by Acadin leader Euclide Daigle that "reasonable men" would not want to change the Canada-France ties now existing between France and French - speaking Canada, no matter what the result of the referendum.

One opinion voiced in diplomatic circles here has been that a change in French policy towards Canada might come in a post de Gaulle era, and even under Pompidou, but that shift possibly would take time.

Poher helped tip the referendum result by his attacks on de Gaulle's characteristic - prediction chaos would follow the general fulfilled his threat and resigned in the event of a defeat Sunday.

The interim president joined with politicians on all sides in calling for post-referendum calm Sunday night.

The 78-year-old de Gaulle personified the republic—France's fifth — which he established on returning from the political wilderness in 1958.

Gaullist party personalities were questioning the sense of holding the referendum at all.

They seemed to agree with opposition charges that the projected reforms should have been considered by parliament instead of being put immediately to the people.

General Began His Role As 1940 Political Unknown

PARIS (AP) — For nearly 30 years, often against seemingly insurmountable odds, Charles de Gaulle waged a crusade to restore the glory of France.

He was a virtual unknown when he flew to London in 1940 after refusing to recognize the collaborationist Vichy regime. When he made an appeal over the BBC on June 18, 1940, to the French to carry on the fight against the Germans, the relative handful of French who heard him were more mystified than inspired.

"I was starting from scratch," he wrote in his memoirs. "Not the shadow of a force or an organization at my side."

He France, no following and no reputation. Abroad, neither credit nor standing. But this very difficulties showed my line of conduct. . . . In short, limited and alone though I was and precisely because I was so, I had to climb to the heights and never then t come down."

During that climb, de Gaulle suffered snubs from Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt while maneuvering among rival French factions to emerge as leader of the provisional government of France when the country was liberated in 1944.

The return of peace brought French politicians out of the underground and their traditional varieties and de Gaulle saw that his role as undisputed leader was threatened. In a gamble that was to pay off 12 years later, he left the political scene in 1946 after setting up the country home at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises to watch from the sidelines.

From there he led a political party, the Reassemblement du Peuple Francais, which had as many as 30 deputies in the National Assembly in 1952. De Gaulle later dismissed his party when it was split by internal quarrels.

The French government's inability to put down the nationalist rebellion in Algeria led to a revolt by the army and French settlers there and provided de Gaulle with the chance he needed to return to the helm of France. With France threatened by revolution, the general announced in May, 1958, that he was available, and the frightened National Assembly voted him into office.

Back in power, de Gaulle wasted no time. He re-wrote the constitution to set up the Fifth Republic with a strong presidency and reduced authority for the National Assembly. He submitted the constitution to a referendum and it won a 78.5-percent majority. Among its supporters were the French settlers in Algeria who expected de Gaulle to take a stronger line against the drive for independence that would have realized colonial empires were on the way out. With subtle shifts in position de Gaulle gradually convinced the public in France that Algeria must get independence.

Right-wing assassins tried and failed three times to kill de Gaulle and terrorist plots and assassinations were arrested on several other occasions. But the French public gave him a 90.7-per-cent majority in the referendum on the Algerian independence agreements signed April 8, 1962.

With this major obstacle out of the way, de Gaulle began concentrating on his major mission—restoring the independence and grandeur of France and making it Western Europe's first nation.

Justice Minister Quits

PARIS (Reuters) — Justice Minister Rene Capitant resigned today, becoming the first member of the cabinet to do so since President de Gaulle conceded defeat in a political reform referendum early today.

Capitant, who became justice minister in May, 1968, did not attend a cabinet meeting today.

Quebec Continues to Expect Red Carpet From France

MONTREAL (CP) — President de Gaulle's departure may pull the political red carpet from under France-Quebec relations.

France-Canada relations could return to their relatively happy state prior to the general's "vive le Quebec libre" here in July, 1967.

But, at Quebec City, no immediate change was foreseen at the practical level in booming France-Canada relations.

One authority said:

"Do not forget that the agreements are between France and Quebec, not between de Gaulle and a Quebec premier.

"There are firm engagements, as far as the content and operation of the agreements are concerned, for several years to come."

If the practical aspect of France-Quebec co-operation is ensured by international agreement, the political aspect is less certain.

The French president's cry of "vive le Quebec libre" was unacceptable to Ottawa and, to many, an indication he supported Quebec separatism.

During this controversy, all of the province's political parties expressed the desire to expand France-Quebec relations.

But the unanimity covers cultural, educational, technical and commercial relations, not political relations.

On the political level, France-Quebec relations remain a delicate issue.

At one point even such "Quebec libre" advocates as Parti Quebecois Leader Rene Levesque felt the general was getting a bit too pushy.

This statement was interpreted by some observers as government officials as meaning that Quebec is independent of French political interference.

However, it remained that Quebec walked across France's political red carpet into the international scene.

Quebec premiers, including Jean Lesage and the late Mr. Johnson were received at the Elysee as chiefs of state.

In February, 1968, Quebec attended an international education conference of French-speaking countries in Gabon. Canada suspended diplomatic relations with the French-speaking republic, one of France's former African colonies.

Now, with Gen. de Gaulle out of the president's office, a Quebec authority says it is possible no red carpet will be rolled out for Ottawa.

However, even if France-Canada relations improve, this official said, France-Quebec relations are likely to continue to blossom.

He said:

"Even if there are good relations with all of Canada, don't forget that 90 per cent of France's relations here will be with Quebec."

Like France's Quebec's political scene is in a period of uncertainty, open to rapid change.

In the present context, Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand is described by close associates as somewhat cool to France-Quebec relations.

An agreement between the Quebec and Canadian government was reached on participation at international conferences.

Autocratic Charles de Gaulle Most Powerful Since Napoleon

PARIS (Reuters) — Charles de Gaulle, who linked his future as president with a constitutional referendum few other Frenchmen considered so important, has been France's most powerful head of state since Napoleon III.

De Gaulle, who resigned Sunday after his referendum gamble failed, was the symbol of Free French forces that refused to accept a surrender to Germany in the Second World War. He came out of retirement in 1958 to avert the threat of civil war, restore his country's international prestige and create the Fifth Republic with a constitution tailor-made to fit his own commanding role.

A wave of student unrest and industrial strikes that swept France in May and June last year presented the country with its first most serious crisis since de Gaulle came to power.

But the president became determined that his own special brand of reform of the French power structure was needed and forced on his reluctant party a plan to strip the French Senate of its powers and give some authority to 21 provincial councils throughout the country.

A towering figure in the modern world, de Gaulle speaks, always in classical French, of the glory of France much as French royal rulers did in bygone centuries.

Winston Churchill addressed him in 1940 as "the man of destiny" and that is the role in which he has always seen himself.

The six foot, six inch general, with his long nose and grandiloquent style, is an endless subject of controversy and has sometimes been the object of bitter attacks from those who had once rallied to him.

Autocratic and independent, he irritated both President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Churchill during the war and in the present decade made himself unpopular in many countries by vetoing British entry into the European Common Market.

De Gaulle also antagonized the United States by his increasing disengagement from the NATO military structure and his open disagreement with U.S. policy in Vietnam.

But he and the late West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer were joint architects of a friendship treaty which ended a century of hostility between France and Germany.

De Gaulle antagonized the Canadian people in 1967 when, in an emotional speech from a balcony at Montreal's city hall, he openly cried for a trying-cry of Quebec separatists: "Vive le Quebec Libre (Long live free Quebec)."

He cut short his state visit to Canada after the federal government rejected him for his words.

Since then, there have been additional disagreements, mainly over France's apparent inclination to treat Quebec like an independent country.

Relations between France and the ruling Union Nationale party of Quebec improved, however, and they signed agreements on a number of cultural and educational projects.

De Gaulle cut short a state visit to Romania May 18 last year to deal with the French student disorders and strikes. Six days later, after his government had narrowly survived a censure motion in the National Assembly, he appeared on television to announce a program of reforms. He said he would resign if the proposals were rejected.

But the crisis became worse, the referendum was cancelled, and with much of the country paralyzed de Gaulle went on air May 30 to issue a tough direct challenge to the striking workers and left-wing politicians trying to bring down his government.

His dramatic five-minute broadcast brought pro-Gaullist demonstrators into the streets of Paris in a demonstration of popular backing for the general. He dissolved the National Assembly, ordered a general election, and announced tough measures to deal with troublemakers.

In the elections, the Gaullists won a landslide victory and for the first time became capable of governing on their own, without allies or supporters in the 487-member National Assembly.

In November, de Gaulle refused to bow to international pressure to devalue the franc, during a financial crisis, and announced instead severe austerity measures.

De Gaulle was born in Lille on Nov. 22, 1890, son of a professor of philosophy. His mother was the daughter of an old family of manufacturers. Educated at a Jesuit college in Paris, He once thought of becoming a Roman Catholic missionary.

A brilliant soldier in the first World War and, ironically, regarded by the French military as fare theories so effectively used by the German "blitzkrieg" of Poland in the second World War II—de Gaulle was promoted to general in the field of battle in 1940.

When several weeks later Marshall Petain announced the surrender of France, de Gaulle escaped to Britain. After his famous broadcast declaring that "France has lost a battle, but has not lost the war," he formed the Free French movement to continue the fight against Hitler.

After allied armies landed in France in June, 1944, de Gaulle induced them to leave the government of France to him. He headed an all-party cabinet as prime minister until January, 1946 when he withdrew in the face of party leaders' refusal to modernize the machinery of state on the lines he desired.

During his 12 years in the political wilderness in his modest country home 100 miles east of Paris, de Gaulle wrote his memoirs and watched 22 coalition governments come and go one another.

In May, 1958, the most important phase of his career as statesman was launched by an appeal to him from a reluctant National Assembly to take power.

Sovereign in face of the growing spirit of rebellion inside the French army in Algeria, the assembly agreed on June 1 to accept de Gaulle as the premier with the right to reform the constitution.

The Fifth Republic was born on Sept. 30, 1958, and de Gaulle was elected its president on Dec. 28.

Since 1958 de Gaulle has revolutionized French political institutions.

He put an end to the war in Algeria and led the Algerians to independence. He mastered two serious revolts in his own country leader by against his peace policy for Algeria, and long campaign of violence and rebellion by the outlawed Secret Army Organization. Members of the organization made at least three attempts on his life, in France.

De Gaulle succeeded in giving France's former possessions in Africa independence, while maintaining and developing close and friendly relations with them.

He insisted on France having its independent nuclear armament industry and refused to sign the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

He withdrew from all military integration inside NATO and vetoed Russia to stimulate a growing rapprochement between the East and the West of Europe.

De Gaulle was elected for a second seven-year term as president in 1965.

Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 to 3,000 words per minute with comprehension as high or higher

Equal or Better Comprehension — With the Reading Dynamics' method, you read a paper in the pages a minute. You learn a technique, skill, that permits you to read faster with equal or better understanding than the average reader. Our average graduate reads 4.7 times faster without sacrificing comprehension. Mrs. Wood says: "My students do not read 5 times faster by reading every key word, but my reading 5 times as many words in the same length of time."

The Time Magazine Says — "Mrs. Wood's method of reading is Reading Dynamics' impact on our nation's legislators said, "Washington has seen nothing like it since the days when Teddy Roosevelt read three books a day and ran the country at the same time."

Senate Leaders Praise Method — Senator Talmadge, Georgia "... the greatest single step we could take in educational progress."

Achievement Warranty

The Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute will refund your tuition if you do not at least triple your reading index (reading rate multiplied by comprehension percentage) during the course as measured by our standardized testing program. This policy is valid when you have attended each classroom session and completed the minimum daily assigned home drill at the level specified by your instructor.

Negro Actors Now in Demand

The time is certainly right for Negro actors in the film market. Never before have black actors been in such demand for every kind of role.

Until recently, Godfrey Cambridge would have been cast strictly in comedy roles, for the simple reason that he weighed 300 pounds. Now his main image is gone, along with 150 excess pounds. That's what he means by "the right look."

And the ball game is indeed open for him. He soon starts his first starring role in a film, for Sanford Productions. "Coton Comes to Harlem," which Cambridge helped to prepare for two years.

"People ask if it's a social documentary," he mused. "Hell, no. It's fun, drama and garden in Harlem."

Cambridge's detective partner will be Raymond St. Jacques. Onde Davis, who also helped in preparing the film, will make his directorial debut.

Cambridge has a film at Columbia to follow, and he expects more to be offered, especially since his attendance at the Academy awards.

"It was wild," he remarked. "One person after another stopped me and said, 'Wow, what happened to you, Godfrey?' Some of them didn't even recognize me at first. They're looking at me in a whole new light, and that can translate into more jobs."

How did the transformation come about?

"It started two years ago when my agent showed me a letter from Paul Bogart, the director," said Cambridge. "Bogart wrote that he couldn't use me for a certain part because I weighed 300 pounds.

"Now Paul is a personal friend, and if he said that, it was pretty serious.

"Then I saw a photograph of myself arriving at the premiere of The Bible. It was like three chins, man. Well, I pasted both the letter and the photograph on the refrigerator, and that was it."

The comedian removed the pounds with the high-protein diet most doctors recommend. All his weight continues down ward, the job offers increase.

Feliciano Was Very Special

In Feliciano—Very Special on NBC, the star sang, played guitar and switched briefly to other instruments. Since Jose has been blind since birth, there were certain problems with mobility and those casual cued exchanges of banter between members. The former was solved magnificently by permitting him to remain seated through most of the show, surrounded by such attractive talent as Andy Williams, Dionne Warwick and Glen Campbell. A similar duet with Campbell was a highlight of the hour. The latter problem was handled even better—they just didn't have those painful exchanges.

It was beautifully produced and a visual treat that should have been seen in color.

Sunday was a day for music. Leonard Bernstein's Young People's Concert—in spite of its horrendous title, Bach Transmogrified—was one of the liveliest and most gratifying musical outings of the season.

The CBS hour may have been made especially for children, but there were adult satisfactions in listening to the New York Philharmonic Orchestra play Bach in the traditional way, followed by contemporary, and often outlandish, interpretations of the 200-year old music.

An electronic device called a moog synthesizer, all blinking lights and turning reels, which created strange and interesting sounds, gave one interpretation of Bach's Little Fugue. Leopold Stokowski conducted the orchestra in his version and a young organist presented his. Bach came off well in all three.

Wildest of all, however, was the amusing and irreverent treatment given the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 by New York rock 'n' roll ensemble. It followed a playing of the concerto by Bernstein at the piano with two instrumentalists from the orchestra.

Majestic Prince Derby Pick

NEW YORK (CP) — Majestic Prince, the 6-to-5 choice to win the Kentucky Derby on May 3 for owner Frank McMahon of Vancouver, trainer Johny Longden and jockey Bill Hartack, breezed to an eight-length in the Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., Saturday.

The three-year-old colt, most top-heavy favorite in years to win racing's triple crown, went the mile and a quarter in 2:01 flat Ration that only two owners dared challenge him. So the race was turned into a belles exhibition.

Majestic Prince, who as a yearling cost oilman-industrialist Bill McMahon $250,000, breezed the official seven furlongs of the race in 1:21 3-5, only one-fifth second off the track record. He worked an additional furlong for a mile time of 1:35, and was pulled up at the 1¼-mile Derby distance in 2:05.

Tuesday's Derby Trial remains as the only major testing ground for hopefuls for the 90th running of the $125,000-added Derby on May 3.

In the race before the Stepping Stone, Diane Crump became the first girl rider on the Kentucky race track when she finished fourth aboard Somebody's Devil, a 14-to-1 shot. The race was the $15,000-added La Troienne, won by Double Delta.

Captain Action took the lead in the final furlong and,finished the 1¼-mile test in 1:59 2-5, one second off the track record. The three-year-old earned $21,222 and returned $9.20, $4.60 and $3.

Stiff Upper Lip finished second, beating favored Mister Dis by a neck. Stiff Upper Lip paid $4.80 and $3.20, and Mister Dis $2.40.

At Inglewood, Calif., Kentucky-bred Tell won the $32,570 Will Rogers Stakes for three-year-olds at Hollywood Park.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker on Tell overhauled the pace-making Fleet Kirsch down and won by four lengths over Modern Spirit, with Greek Static third in the field of six.

The race was contested for the first time on the turf and the time for the mile was 1:35 1-5.

Tell, carrying 115 pounds, paid $3.40, $2.60 and $2.40. Modern Spirit returned $4.20 and $3.20 and Greek Static $3.

Terrible Tiger smashed the track record for a mile and a quarter in the eight-length victory in the $30,000 Chicagoan Handicap before 23,503 at Sportsman's Park.

Top-weighted at 123 pounds, Terrible Tiger was timed in 1:36 to slice three-fifths of a second off the track record set by Francis U. in 1966.

Terrible Tiger earned $16,500 and paid $3.20, $2.80 and $2.40. Cool School paid $5 and $4.20. Posey's Special returned $6.40.

Bobby Ussery sent the winner, the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5 for first money of $18,472 and a payoff of $6.60, $4.20 and $3.80.

Master Bold, 112, returned $13.80 and $6.80, and Sub Call, 116, was $6.80 for show.

Celtics Storm Back

BOSTON (CP) — Boston Celtics blew a 17-point lead in the third period but stormed back behind John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried for a 111-105 victory over Los Angeles Sunday and their first triumph over the Lakers in the third game of the best-of-seven series for the National Basketball Association championship.

Havlicek scored 34 points and Siegfried 28 as the former Ohio State star led the charge to give Boston's defending champions a chance to tie the series on the same court Tuesday night.

Ask Uncle Ed

DEAR UNCLE ED:
On my last trip to Europe, I couldn't decide on whether to buy a Picasso or a Rembrandt. What would you have bought?
Yours truly,
WORLD TRAVELLER

Dear Traveller:
Well, I'm not too hot on these imports. I think it's hard to beat an old fashioned Cadillac.
Yours tenderly,
UNCLE ED

If you have a real question to ask, send it to Uncle Ed's Take Out.

THE JOB

With further development of new mines and the enlargement of our surface plants (Mill, Smelter and Refinery) the opportunity for advancement is excellent.

LOCATION

Thompson is one of Canada's most modern and fastest growing towns, located in the heart of Northern Manitoba. Paved streets, bus transportation, schools, hospital, modern shopping plazas, modern homes and apartments all add to Thompson's enjoyable community life. Our population is now approaching 20,000.

RECREATION

We enjoy all popular organized competitive sports, including baseball, hockey, curling, bowling, billiards, tennis and golf. Car-rallying and snowmobile clubs are available. For the outdoors-man we also enjoy some of the world's finest fishing and boating. In addition, both live and closed circuit TV, radio, theatres, drive-in movies, and art club are active, as are church organizations of all major denominations.

BENEFITS

We offer permanent employment plus liberal employee benefits including Pension Plan, Group Insurance, Savings Plan, etc. In addition, the Company pays ¾ of the employee premium for Medicare, Drug Prescription Plan, Group Life and Accident and Sickness Insurance.

THE MAN

The successful applicant should — —Have a minimum of 2 years industrial experience or the equivalent technical training.

THEY COULDN'T BUILD A FENCE

So farmers like Joseph Glidden of Illinois developed barbed wire in the 1870's to replace expensive fences of wood and stone. 'Cause it costs little, to use of barbed wire spread rapidly and ended the open range system behind the cowboys.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was active at steady prices for all classes and grades of slaughter cattle at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Slaughter cattle 936: Choice steers 31-32 with sales to 33.10; good 30-31; as ordinary 27-29.50; commons 22-26; choice heifers 29-30 with sales to 31.30; good 28-29; medium 25-27; common 22-25; cows 22.50-23.50; cutters mediums 21.50-22.50; canners and cutters 15-21; good heavy bologna bulls 25-26; commons and mediums 22-25.

Replacement cattle 256: Good light, good and medium feeder steers 29-32; good stock steer calves 36-38; good stock heifer calves 30-32; good stock bull, medium stockers and feeders 34-38.

Hogs 2371: Base price at Toronto 32.35-32.65, currently at Toronto 32.65; stags and boars live weights 15-16 heavy sows 24-26.

Sheep and lambs 72: Spring lambs 45-48.50 according to weight; sheep 5-15.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds soared in mid-morning trading today as the Toronto stock market declined fractionally in the face on world monetary pressure. Volume was light.

Many issues are predicting devaluation of the French franc following French President Charles de Gaulle's resignation today and with that possible pressure on the pound and dollar.

London gold jumped 30 cents to $43.60.

In Toronto, Dome Mines rose 4¼ to 83, Campbell Red Lake ½ to 36¼ and Giant Yellowknife ½ to 16¼.

Ford of Canada jumped 17 to 237 after a brief opening trading halt but only 35 shares traded.

Ford said it plans a 5-for-1 stock split subject to shareholder approval. Ford also declared a quarterly of 1.25 to $2.50 paid quarterly on its present stock.

Home Oil A was up 1¼ to 25¾, Great Lakes Power 1 to 22½, Donlee Manufacturing 5¼ to 18¼, Revenue ½ to 17¼ and Perma 9 cents to 22.52.

Falconbridge was up 2½ to 70½, Victoria Mosaic 2¼ to 20¼, Jefferson Lake ¼ to 24¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 11¼.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Ralph Heath, and her daughter, Mrs. Lynn Mason of Scarborough, were co-hostesses for a shower, on Saturday evening, in honor of Mrs. Ross Fitchett of Toronto. The shower was held at the home of Mrs. Heath.

Mrs. Ernie Reid and brothers Richard and William Reid, son Sr., were guests of their nephew Jack Reid and Mrs. Reid, at Springbrook, on Saturday evening when they entertained Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reid. Mrs. Reid was celebrating his 75th birthday.

Mrs. Eldon Anderson attended the "All Night Sing" in Massey Hall in Toronto, on Saturday evening.

Rylstone Women's Institute will hold their May meeting in the Institute Hall, on Thursday, May 1st, owing to the North Hastings District annual meeting falling on their regular date.

$6,600,000 Recalls So Far

Detroit: 1969 Year of Massive Fault-finding

DETROIT (AP) — Never before in history have auto-makers alerted motorists to so many potential safety faults in cars as in 1969.

And, ironically, never before in the 66 years of automotive mass production have the North American auto corporations invested such huge amounts of men and machines in their battle to achieve perfect quality control.

In the first three months of this year alone, the industry in the United States announced nearly 5,600,000 recalls of cars and trucks. This was 179,000 per cent of the total of 3,400,000 for the entire, preceding 28-month period which began with the passage of the U.S. National Highway Safety Act in September, 1966.

The magnitude of the situation is illustrated by the fact that there has been one recall for every three vehicles rolling out of U.S. assembly lines since the 1966 passage of the safety act.

Of the 11,000,000 recalls since the law went on the books, U.S. auto companies estimate that actual faults were found in 4½ per cent of the vehicles or nearly 500,000.

In the 50 years before then, dating back to the first recorded recall in 1916 when some Buicks were losing gasoline tanks on bumpy roads—an estimated 8,700,000 vehicles were called back to dealers or factories for inspection of possible defects.

Why were so many being recalled now?

Ralph Nader, the American auto safety critic credited with sparking passage of the safety act, puts a major share of blame on design and engineering practices of the auto firms.

Auto company spokesmen say there are almost as many reasons as recalls.

An inspector at Ford Motor Co. said: "Where the auto companies fall down is in-assembly. They push the guys on the assembly lines too fast."

Some industry people, however, say privately that many workers are sloppy.

Modern trouble hunters include space-age computers, electronic eyes, a microscope that can "see" 200,000 times more than a human, sound waves that can "hear" defects in axles, special teams of engineers and additional plain, old-fashioned checking of parts and materials.

There even has been a recall of a recall. General Motors has urged that 4,000 school buses previously called in for replacement of potentially defective brake parts, be taken out of service immediately. The firm blamed a faulty seal in two brake installed earlier.

General Motors now is spending an estimated $50,000,000 to recall 4,900,000 vehicles to correct problems—a plastic carburator cam which shows signs of deteriorating. Chevrolets built in 1965 through 1968 also the firm found that under certain conditions exhaust fumes could enter the cars through cracks in welded quarter-panel seams.

Whispering Greeting

Mrs. Roland Michener, wife of the governor-general, leans over to listen to whispered greeting by an Eskimo woman during an unscheduled stop at Cape Dyer, a joint-U.S.-Canadian defence base, last week. The governor-general is touring the Arctic till May 2. (CP Wirephoto)

Arrives on Ellesmere Island

Below Zero, Michener Gets Warm Welcome

ALERT, N.W.T. (CP) — Roland Michener arrived at this desolate defence and weather base on tip of the globe Sunday and became the first Governor-General of Canada to visit the world's most northerly inhabited settlement.

The security-conscious community of some 200 men on the northern tip of Ellesmere Island — except for penguins — a warm welcome and a dinner featuring a cuisine as fine as any found in Southern Canada.

The temperature was seven degrees below zero as Mr. Michener was greeted by Major D. W. Edmunds of the Canadian Armed Forces, commanding officer of the base 3,100 miles north of Edmonton and 2,180 north of Ottawa. At that, the weather was considered somewhat above the normal for this area at this time of year.

One television photographer was allowed to accompany the armed forces that he could film one side of the road, but not the other.

To a layman, there was no discernable difference between the orange buildings lining both sides of the street.

The Canadian forces operate the defence aspect of the base and the weather operation is a joint effort between Canadians and Americans.

Asked about the extent of security arrangements at the base, Major Edmunds hesitated then replied: "We relaxed restrictions by having you here at all."

The major evaded other questions regarding the base's job, but said the work involved "investigating problems of communications."

Commenting on how the men spend their time at the remote base, Major Edmunds said: "Life is normal except there is no female companionship."

He listed the "amenities" offered the troops to help them enjoy their leisure time.

The base has a library and ping pong, music and film facilities, but the men probably enjoy most the outstanding ham-radio operation through which they can communicate with their families in Southern Canada.

Most of the personnel, however, look forward to the end of their hitch in Alert and many off the days remaining in their posting in as ingenious manner as possible when celebrating his 9,000 mile, 11-day tour of Canada's eastern Arctic and Keewatin districts. The flight Sunday was delayed five five hours by starter trouble on the Herald.

During the delay, the Governor-General exercised on the base outside his quarters where he did knee bends, high kicks and 31 push-ups.

Mr. and Mrs. Michener were then taken to the Anglican chapel at Resolute Bay, five miles away, where he addressed Eskimo services and played hymns on the organ. The service at the Barnabas Church was conducted by John Ekaluk, who gave a sermon in Eskimo.

On the way back to Resolute from Alert, the Governor-General was flown over Baffin Bay to see Humbolt glacier, the world's largest, on the western coast of Greenland.

The party, which has passed the halfway mark of its tour today will switch to three DC-3 Dakota aircraft to visit Grise fiord, on the southern shore of Ellesmere Island.

Poor Posture May Be Factor In Persistent Headaches

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "How To Live Doctor Leads All Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a school teacher and am getting so irritable I'm beginning to take it out on the kids in the classroom. The reason? Tension headaches. At least my doctor thinks there is no other reason for them.

Am sort of moonlighting, typing at night for a while, I'm only 28, married and otherwise in good health except for neck pain. Isn't there anything else except aspirin? — Mrs. G.

Comment: I can only assume that your headaches are due to tension. If so, it follows that the first thing to try to do is to cut down on tension by cutting corners in your daily work.

By not rushing against the clock; by not taking on too much; by not worrying over every little thing. (Easier said than done; but essential).

I believe that poor posture may enter into it. You say you type a lot after teaching. Check on your posture. How do you hold your head? Forward too much? How about the height of your chair and desk? You may be straining unnecessarily. A small adjustment may make the difference.

But let's suppose it is mostly due to tension. The neck muscles squeeze the nerves and blood vessels which go to the skull and produce the pain in the neck and the headache.

How to overcome it by physical means in addition to lessening the tension in which you live? Try this simple exercise. Once or twice a day place the palms of your hands on your forehead and push your head forward against your hands. Do this for about six seconds. Likewise, press your right hand and right side of your head against each other for six or ten seconds. Repeat on the left side. (Once or twice daily.)

After a week or two you may find that the neck tension and pain have lessened or disappeared. And you will find less need to take aspirin because your tension headaches have not been as frequent or intense.

By strengthening your neck muscles you have made them more flexible and less tense, and better able to do the job of carrying your head around.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Do you know of any medication or drug that will help cure edema and swelling of the ankles and feet? Why don't they do some research on this disease? — Mrs. L.

Comment: Edema is another name for swelling, so you are talking about the same thing. As for research, I think you should know that edema is not a disease in itself: it is a symptom of disease. In other words, any patient who has ankle and foot swelling requires an examination.

The most common causes of such swelling are heart disease and kidney disease.

There are other reasons for it: anemia, vitamin deficiency pregnancy, liver disease, insufficient diet, varicose veins. Sometimes there is no disease present at all. Just standing for a long while (especially in hot weather) sometimes causes swelling of the ankles.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Mrs. L., why a complete physical check up is so necessary. Dr. agrees this is important but when can prescribe medicines to relieve the edema.

Ans.

For Mrs. M.: The new drug which shows so much promise in Parkinson's disease is Ldopa. But it is still under study by the U.S. National Institutes of Health, to determine effectiveness and side effects.

Bolivian President Is Killed When His Helicopter Crashes

However, the man with whom Barrientos shared the reins of government for a time after the military coup in 1964, Gen. Alfredo Ovando, was not consulted. Ovando, the chief of staff, was in Washington on a visit. What effect his return will have on Siles-Salinas's tenure was not certain.

Ovando is the only announced candidate as far for president in the 1970 elections. The constitution barred Barrientos from another term.

The 46-year-old president was visiting farming communities in this land-locked South American country when his helicopter got tangled in high-tension wires and crashed Sunday. An aide and the helicopter pilot also were killed.

Barrientos fell he had a special rapport with the peasants. Before he left on his tour, he told associates his political strength was in the fields and the cities. The rural population provided strong support when he won 61 per cent of the vote and was elected president in 1966.

A measure of that support was evident in 1967 when Ernesto (Che) Guevara came to Bolivia and tried to get support in the countryside for a Red guerrilla movement. The peasants did not respond, and Guevara was trapped and killed.

Barrientos, who was chief of the air force until the 1964 coup, survived several assassination attempts during his political career, including a bomb that went off under his bed when he was not home.

As his running mate in the 1966 elections, Barrientos chose Siles-Salinas, 45, son of the founders of the Social Democratic party but more of a university professor than a politician.

In recent months the two had been at odds over whether Congress should be called for another session. When Barrientos decided against it, Siles-Salinas denounced him.

When the news of the helicopter crash was announced, Siles-Salinas went to the presidential palace to confer with the military leaders.

Later about 100 members of the pro-Barrientos Christian Popular Movement tried to storm the palace to protest Siles-Salinas's elevation. Police turned them back with tear gas.

After the meeting Gen. David LaFlenda, chief of the army, stressed the backing the armed forces were giving to the new president and said: "The armed forces are alert and ready to defend the public order."

Siles-Salinas promised he would "serve his people" and said he would continue the work of Barrientos.

Officials announced Barrientos' body would lie in state at the Cathedral in La Paz until Thursday night. Funeral and burial will be Friday.

Barrientos is survived by his widow and seven children.

Canadian MP Declines To Mix in U.S. Politics

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A $10-a-ticket reception was held Saturday for an ingurgent city council candidate but Canada's only Negro member of Parliament, whose invitation to speak at the function inspired a brief party hassle, was not there.

Lincoln Alexander, Conservative member for Hamilton West, bowed out of the appearance Thursday after initially accepting it, saying he did not intend to become embroiled in local political affairs in Buffalo.

State Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve, an Arthur supporter, and Erie county Democratic Chairman, Joseph F. Crangle, have been at the centre of the hassle. Arthur, Black and Eve are Negroes.

Eve charged that Crangle spoke with officials in Prime Minister Trudeau's office in an attempt to forestall Alexander's appearance. He also said that Crangle had called Alexander directly and had asked him to stay away from the reception, saying the Canadian MP would be meddling in inter-party affairs.

Crangle denied the charges and said Alexander had telephoned him inquiring from Ottawa "for the political background of the situation."

Canada's Oldest Pilot Flies His Biplane at 84

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Thomas Cody Williams flew again Saturday.

Mr. Williams, at 84 Canada's oldest licensed pilot, soared over this city in a 1937 Fleet M-2 biplane to commemorate 50 years of powered flight in Canada.

A resident of Woodstock and former First War flying ace, Mr. Williams took the old biplane over a local park and dropped a carton of special envelopes marking the anniversary.

The 1,000 envelopes were declared by the Oxford County Philatelic Society. Mr. Williams' flying stunt is part of the 20th annual philatelic exhibition sponsored by the society.

Before dropping the envelopes, which will be sold for 25 cents, Mr. Williams looped the loop and put the Fleet through a series of tricky manoeuvres which delighted onlookers.

Each year he takes a medical examination in order to renew his pilot's licence and each year he passes with flying colors.

Mr. Williams said he got his interest in flying when he arrived overseas after enlisting to fight in the First World War.

He worked his way into the Royal Flying Corps and in more than 50 missions shot down his share of Germans and was himself shot down three times, once by German ace Baron von Richthofen.

But aerial combat is a long way behind him now, and he said that he gets his biggest kicks when he cranks up his vintage biplane and takes off into the blue for a bit of stunt flying.

Pope Promises Thant His Support for UN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Speaking on the eve of the third and largest consistory of his reign, Pope Paul placed stress Sunday on the broad international range of the 33 prelates who will become cardinals.

In a salute to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant, who will be received here Monday after the opening consistory ceremonies, the pontiff also pledged support for the United Nations.

Addressing more than 40,000 pilgrims massed in sun-drenched St. Peter's Square, the Pope emphasized the significance of the consistory which comes, he said, "at a great and dramatic moment" in the history of the Roman Catholic Church.

The 33 cardinals-designate come from 19 countries. Their selection as princes of the church carries forward the Pope's desire to internationalize his most august body of advisers and make it a greater reflection of the world today.

They include Msgr. George Bernard Flahiff, Archbishop of Winnipeg.

After the ceremonies this morning, when Pope Paul will proclaim officially the names of the 33 new cardinals to the rest of the Sacred College, Holy Vatican has scheduled elaborate ceremonies to greet Thant.

Opinions Of Youth Are Sought

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A loosely-structured research team, contracted to find out what Canadian youth think and want, will tour the country to decide whether or not the government should adopt a "youth policy of subsidization to these already existing groups."

The work of the team, which is deliberately being kept flexible, was not to be regarded as "the secretary of state's youth task force" he said.

"I won't be disappointed if they come back and say no — policy isn't needed, or that the present youth agencies are adequate and all that is needed is a policy of subsidation to these already existing groups."

Forty candidates have already been interviewed for the team Mr. Pitfield said, and the final three would probably be chosen from these. It is not known when they will begin their research, or how long the project will take.

Strictly Personal

Military Is Insensitive

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In one of his early essays, Aldous Huxley observed that the word "intelligence" was subdivided into three kinds — "human, animal, and military." The thrust of this jest has hardly been blunted by time.

I thought of this recently, when a young newspaperman of my acquaintance was drafted for the army. He wrote a farewell piece, was given a party by the staff, kissed his family goodbye, shook hands with his editors — and was back an hour later, shamefaced and embarrassed.

It turned out that, on the preliminary physical examination at the draft centre, he had been summarily turned down for being overweight, and was given a deferment for a year on the rather naive assumption that he would rigorously reduce during that period.

Meanwhile, he had sublet his apartment, packed all his books, and made his boyfriend and one little living rearrangements that have to be anticipated for a stretch in military service. No doubt he was relieved not to be drafted, but what an awkward and cumbersome way to go about it.

His concretemps took me back more than 25 years, when I was called up for service in 1943, and went through the same elaborate rigmarole with the wife and family, the office, the apartment, and the whole bit.

Then, in the same way, after less than an hour at the induction centre, I was my little bit bag all packed for the trip) I was rejected for some minor physical defect which I didn't even know I possessed. By noon I was back using on the rewrite desk, feeling like an absolute fool.

Apparently little has changed in the Selective Service mentality during this quarter-century. Instead of being called up for a physical a month or at least two weeks before induction — in order to have time to prepare for the transition — men are still summoned to break all their domestic and vocational ties before they can even be sure they are going into the Army.

It is this sort of insensitiveness to human needs and personal problems that characterizes the military bureaucracy and stiffens resistance to such institutions as the draft. It is not merely a matter of "serving one's country," but of being buffeted about by forces that seem to be put in perpetual operation for their own baffling ends, which have only the vaguest relationship to reality.

It is no accident that a superannuated bureaucrat like General Hershey is still at this writing, the head of the U.S. Selective Service, as he was in my day. The same obduracy still obtains at the top, and the same sausage-processing and-stamping at the bottom.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For April 29th,

Your birthday today: The chance now exists toward a more closely consolidated basis this year. All matters tend to come to sudden inconvenient and unfavorable crisis. The effect is permanent; and, with enough thought about contingencies beforehand and while they are happening, may well result in great progress. Today's natives have talents for stage, music.

ARIES (Mar. 21 Apr. 19): The world has a rosy glow now, mostly in your views of partners, ships. Get somebody to help you if help's free; take a second look yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Today promises excitement, a foretaste of many adventures to come over the next several months. Prepare to go along with the moving tides in a changing world—for the better expression of human dignity.

GEMINI (May 21 —June 21): Your friends and neighbors continue at cross purposes. This being the case, simply make up your own mind what you'd like to do and go do it. Keep quiet and see how few fail to notice.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Nothing you do today is going to be quite right, so do as little as your circumstances permit. The middle of the road is the best path. The most important area is your lies with those you care about!

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): You could overestimate your importance. Try playing it modest and see the better results. Travel increases now.

Pompidou Bids For Presidency

'Style' Of Ties Could Alter

PARIS (CP) — Xavier Deniau, the Gaullist MP who heads an organization for promotion of stronger ties between Quebec and France, said today the resignation of Charles de Gaulle from the French presidency might mean a change in "style" but not in direction for these relations.

Deniau is president of the Association France-Quebec, formed recently by a group embracing a number of smaller private organizations that had been working for the same object.

The MP said in an interview that de Gaulle adopted "a spectacular style" in this field.

He predicted a more "technical, precise" approach to Franco-Quebec co-operation.

Deniau, vice-chairman of the National Assembly's foreign affairs committee, said the question of Franco-Quebec co-operation has always been above party politics in the house.

It was "accepted by the National Assembly," he added and non-Gaullists as well as MPs supporting the general were among its backers.

As Deniau spoke, the whole question of the future of French foreign policy, including de Gaulle-inspired co-operation with French-speaking areas overseas, was receiving more attention among observers hotly discussing the current political crisis here.

The right - wing newspaper L'Aurore, in a front-page editorial, continued lashing out at de Gaulle's foreign-policy ventures, including what the paper called his "astounding" statements in Montreal during the 1967 visit there by the then president of France.

This manner of presidential conduct can no longer be accepted by either the political centre or left, the paper says.

Ex-premier Plans to Run

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou, who served president de Gaulle as premier for six years, announced today that he will be a candidate in the presidential election.

"In doing so, I have the feeling of obeying my duty, the will to maintain a continuity and a necessary stability, and the hope of preparing the future," Pompidou said.

The announcement by Pompidou, 57, had been expected and he already is a favorite. He announced in January that he planned to run in the next presidential election, but it was assumed then it would not be held until de Gaulle's term expired in 1972.

The former premier has won the endorsement of Social Affairs Minister Maurice Schumann, the UJP, a young Gaullist group, and an organization of left-wing Gaullists.

Alain Poher, whose presidency of the Senate made him interim president of the country, said in a brief radio-television speech he hopes the elections will take place with "scrupulous respect for the law."

Poher, who campaigned for the defeat of the reform bill on which de Gaulle staked his office, is being mentioned as a possible Centrist candidate to oppose Pompidou. However, the provisional president declined to discuss his plans.

The election must be held between May 18 and June 2, within 20 to 35 days after de Gaulle's resignation. Most speculation settled on June 1 as the date for the first round. Poher said a date probably would be set next week.

If no candidate receives a majority on the first vote, a run-off is held between the two first-round leaders.

Major parties and factions represented in the National Assembly were meeting to prepare for the election. The Socialist party's leadership was to meet this afternoon, and the Communists met to decide what to do about Socialist lack of interest in forming a leftist coalition.

Veteran Socialist leader Guy Mollet indicated he is more in-

Black Panthers Fight Policemen

By The Associated Press

Negroes clashed with police in San Francisco and drove police and firemen from the scene of a fire in Cairo, Ill., with gun shots in outbursts of violence. Two fire bombings caused minor damage in a Negro district of Des Moines, Iowa.

The disturbance in San Francisco broke out after police raided a headquarters of the Black Panther party Monday night.

A television cameraman was beaten by a group of Negro youths and taken to hospital with broken facial bones. Pizzeria-by were threatened, cars were smashed and passing police cars peppered with bottles and rocks until a fog rolled in and cooled tempers. Police arrested 16 persons.

Canada Likely to Abandon Its Nuclear Role in NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — When NATO defence ministers meet in Brussels next month for a planning conference, they are expected to be told by Canada that this country intends to vacate the nuclear role that it accepted in the western alliance six years ago.

Government leaders have given a number of indications that a withdrawal from the nuclear role will be high on the priorities list as officials work out plans to implement the reduction of Canada's forces in Europe, announced April 3.

Maximum Age For Medical Care Is Advocated

LONDON (CP) — A British health officer, surveying pressures on Britain's National Health Service, suggested today the time may have come when elderly persons should be left to die.

Dr. Kenneth Vickery (all a health congress that Britain's growing population of elderly persons is swamping the medical services, preventing younger persons from getting full treatment.

"The time has come for an age to be agreed beyond which medical and nursing may be relieved of the prevailing obligation to . . . keep alive" elderly persons, he said.

Prime Minister Trudeau, disclosing the plan, said Canada would make an analysis of the nuclear role of NATO. He raised further questions about Canada's part in that role in a Calgary speech April 12 and during last week's foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons.

The defence minister noted that Canada's forces assigned to NATO require different equipment and different training from the forces maintained in Canada.

"An objective of our current studies is, therefore, to develop in the next few years fully compatible forces, which provide at the same time a capacity to play important roles in collective security and peacekeeping.

" . . . We must start now to convert our forces from their present roles in Europe and to plan the reduction of the total number of Canadian forces which are stationed there."

Observers interpreted the mention of converting forces from their present roles as a clear reference to the four squadrons of strike-attack aircraft which Canada now maintains in Europe, and the Honest John artillery battery stationed there as part of Canada's mechanized infantry brigade.

The aircraft—CF-104 Starfighters—have either a nuclear or a conventional capability. The Honest John was designed to fire nuclear-tipped rockets. The Canadian battery was reduced last year from four launchers to two.

Informed sources predict an early demise for the remaining Honest John components to liquidate two years or more to liquidate the nuclear role of the air division, however.

Negro Students Seize South Carolina School

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About 30 students, some armed with guns and knives, held the administration building on predominantly Negro Voorhees College in South Carolina today but school officials said they would take no hasty action.

Between 150 and 200 young Negroes continued a peaceful sit-in at a Michigan State University cafeteria.

About 25 Negro students ended a sit-in at the administrative offices of St. Louis University, when officials met most of their demands.

At Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass., students participating in a referendum voted 3,222 to 945 not to resume a strike of classes.

The New York State Assembly meeting in Albany, passed and sent to the Senate a bill to ban guns from college campuses. The bill, backed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, would allow seven-year jail terms for armed students convicted of unlawfully occupying buildings of New York State college campuses.

The legislation was provoked by an armed sit-in by Negro students at Cornell University last week. The 14,000-student Ithaca campus now has returned to a relatively normal classroom routine.

Air Canada And Union End Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada and the striking International Association of Machinists are back where they started today, trying to find a way to get together on key issues and end the strike of 6,300 ground employees now in its ninth day.

Negotiating teams from both sides returned to Montreal Monday after talks aimed at settling the dispute in Ottawa broke off Sunday. There are no plans for further meetings between the parties.

O'Neill May Be Succeeded By Favorite of Right Wing

BELFAST (CP) — Brian Faulkner emerged today as the favorite to become Northern Ireland's prime minister by the weekend.

Faulkner was understood to have the support of rebel factions in the governing Unionist party who helped force the resignation yesterday of Capt. Terence O'Neill as party leader.

O'Neill, 54 prime minister for six years, said he would give up that post as soon as a successor is chosen to head the party. The Unionists are expected to meet Thursday for that purpose.

Faulkner, 48 was O'Neill's deputy prime minister and commerce minister but quit in January because O'Neill would not grant the Roman Catholics' demand for universal suffrage in municipal elections. O'Neill finally agreed to the suffrage demand last week, but he could not restore unity to his party.

Faulkner also has said he would deal firmly with the street battles between Roman Catholic civil rights agitators and militant Protestants.

O'Neill is believed to favor his former agriculture minister, J. D. Chichester-Clark, but informed sources said Faulkner has more support so far.

Observers suggest that while there will be opposition to Faulkner, he can win easily if he pledges not to bring former home secretary William Craig back into the cabinet. Craig was kicked out last December for allegedly inciting the police to press hard against the Roman Catholic street demonstrators.

Craig, assisted by Rev. Ian Paisley and his Protestant extremists, worked hard since then to oust O'Neill.

With O'Neill's sudden announcement Monday night to quit, Craig immediately declared his support for Faulkner, who he said is the man who can re-unite the party and Ulster community. While Faulkner, former commerce minister is undoubtedly out in front, Chichester-Clark, 46 former agriculture minister, is likely to be a contender supported by the party's more moderate faction.

Thurlow Given Deadline

City Says It Can't Delay Moira Sewer

By ROY PEACOCK
(Staff Reporter)

Belleville city council has directed its city engineer to proceed with plans for a 33 inch sanitary sewer up the Moira River to serve the northeast industrial area and will give Thurlow township only until May 3 to decide whether it wants to make the installation a joint project.

However, it is unlikely that Thurlow will be able to provide an answer by the May 3 date.

The motion to proceed with the sewer plans as soon as possible was presented by Ald. Robin Arthur who said the city could afford to wait no longer on the township.

A previous proposal was that a larger sized sewer (42 inches) be installed with Thurlow to pay the difference in cost.

But the Ontario Water Resources Commission last week at a special meeting at city hall said it would not be prepared to underwrite the township cost without assurance of debt recovery.

Thurlow councillors said they would meet and let the city know as soon as possible whether it would ask to be included in the sewer project.

Yesterday at the meeting of Mayor Scott and Ald. Don Williams, Thurlow was given until May 3 to decided and let the city know.

In an effort to resolve the problem Thurlow councillors also met last night, but following a session lasting until 1 o'clock this morning, failed to come up with a decision.

"The matter is still under study," said Township Clerk Earl Dafoe this morning. "We are waiting for more information from various departments in Toronto."

At the same time, however, it was doubted whether a decision could be made in time to meet the city's May 3 deadline.

Mr. Dafoe said it seemed obvious that the OWRC would not underwrite the township expenditure as had been hoped.

The only alternative would be for the township to issue debentures and for the Ontario Municipal Board approval would be needed.

Townships Soon to Face Fire Protection Ultimatum

City Manager J. R. Reynolds says he will recommend that fire protection service to the adjacent municipalities be discontinued unless the townships indicate within a short time their wish for a new agreement.

The matter of fire agreements with the townships was brought up in council yesterday with the city manager stating he had heard no word with respect to their intentions.

Earlier this year Mayor J. R. Scott called for drastically increased fees from the townships for fire protection which he said was being provided for "almost nothing."

Since then the townships have been investigating the possibility of setting up their own fire departments either on a township or on a regional basis.

Provincial road grants amounted to $285,000.

City council is meeting for budget discussions this afternoon and could be ready for budget approval some time late next week.

City's 1969 Tax Rate May Be Known in Week

This year's city tax rate is not likely to be known for possibly a week or more.

But whatever the levy, the city will start off with a cushion to ease the load.

That cushion is a $163,000-surplus carried over from last year, which Mayor Russell Scott says will give some relief to taxpayers "especially when education costs are expected to go higher."

Mayor Scott termed the higher-than-expected 1968 surplus as "excellent" and congratulated city hall officials for their close watch over city expenditures.

City treasurer John Grohs said today the reason for last year's higher - than - expected surplus was a decision of the board of arbitration. It directed that the city's share of the 1967 Bay of Quinte High School District surplus be returned to the city.

The board of arbitration decision was not made until after the city's 1968 budget had been completed.

Mr. Grohs said the city's total taxation revenue for 1968 was $5,358,814. Revenue from all sources was $6,656,607 with expenditures being $6,513,237.

Education accounted for most tax-payers $1,802,000. General government costs were $427,000; protection of persons and property, $1,162,000; public works $976,000; sanitation $666,000 social welfare $165,000; recreation $312,000 and recreation and community services $496,000.

The provincial government last year paid the city $530,216 in residential tax reduction payments; another $100,000 in grants in lieu of taxes, and $196,356 in per capita grants.

The federal government paid $104,000 in grants in lieu of taxes.

Chaplain Tells Rotarians: "See the Humorous Side"

A young man once told such a touching story of family problems to Lt. Col. Gordon Hedley - Smith of CFB Trenton that the chaplain managed to obtain $100 from the benevolent fund to help him out.

The fellow returned after a week or two in Toronto and when asked why he had pulled such a trick, he told the chaplain, "you looked green . . . and I had a good time!"

That kind of incident happens to a chaplain only occasionally, Col. Hedley - Smith told Belleville Rotarians yesterday. However, he believed it was better to give people the benefit of the doubt in the hope that posts in real need could be given help.

"If you like working with people you have to see the humorous side of life."

The chaplain said much of his work involves visiting homes and counselling work, and in a world where the ideal of mankind remain the same "you often wish you would encounter a new sin."

The public view of a chaplain's life is variedv Col. Hedley - Smith told of a visit to a coffee house Saturday night when a teenager apologized for keeping him waiting, adding, "We know Sunday is the only day you have to get up."

Known variously as "Sin busters" and "Holy Joes," chaplains have served in Canada since the war of 1812. One was the colorful Alex McDonnell, first Roman Catholic bishop of Upper Canada and founder of the provincial house. He was with the Glengarrys.

Six chaplains served with Canadian forces during the Boer War and members had survived both world wars as well as Integration, said Col. Hedley - Smith in a reference to the long drawn out political battle which finally united the three services under one command.

Today there are 220 chaplains serving in Canada and overseas.

Aircraft Firm Said Assured

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor D. J. MacFarland is more confident than ever now that Picton will get the new aircraft industry.

He said, "everything is going 100 per cent. I think things will be settled this week."

According to the mayor, by next week the company's engineers will be on the base, and within 10 days some kind of official ceremony will be held.

Amalgamation: Seeks Government Advice

Belleville city council will seek guidance from the department of municipal affairs as to the action the city should take regarding possible amalgamation with adjacent townships.

The motion was brought in by Ald. Archer Keegan who said that the city was badly in need of advice as to the action which should be taken with respect to supplying sewer and water services outside the city boundaries.

The motion also asks for advice on problems with proper planning for the rural areas.

Ald. Keegan said the city should have advice as to what areas should be taken in, if amalgamation was considered by the municipal affairs department as advisable.

But Ald. Paul Russell said in view of the problem in connection with education he would be hesitant to ask Toronto advice for anything.

He said the request might be taken as a request for regional government. The cities of Port Arthur and Fort William had asked for such advice and had regional governments forced on them.

But Ald. Douglas Boyle did not think Ald. Keegan's motion went far enough.

For the past several years a strong advocate of amalgamation, Ald. Boyle said he thought Belleville and Trenton should make a joint application for amalgamation with Sidney township and suggested that a committee be formed to investigate this possibility.

No action was taken on the latter proposal and Ald. Keegan's motion was passed without amendment.

Sidney Bridge Is Okayed

The Ontario Municipal Board has given project approval for stage 1 construction of the Sidney street overhead bridge scheduled for construction this year.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said the OMB approval for the city's share of the cost amounting to an estimated $267,500 was received in the mail today.

Total cost of the stage 1 construction is estimated at $693,000.

Construction planned for this year provides for a two lane structure to replace the present bridge over the double track railway. With completion of the first stage the new bridge would later be widened to four lanes.

The cost of this year's construction is included in the city's 1968 capital works quota.

LEO LaCHAPELLE
Corbyville

TWEED — The funeral for Leo LaChapelle, Corbyville, who died in Kingston General Hospital on Tuesday was held from the Connolly Funeral Home, Tweed, to St. Carthage's Church, Tweed, on Friday.

Dean C. E. Baker celebrated Requiem Mass and also said the graveside prayers at St. Carthage's Cemetery.

The bearers were Clarence Haggerman, Charles Long, Donald and Roy McLaren, Donald Walsh and Thomas Sutton.

Mr. LaChapelle was born in Tweed, 58 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaChapelle and had resided at Corbyville for some years.

He was a member of the Holy Name of Mary Church at Marysville.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Sedelmyer, and two sons, Reg LaChapelle of Belleville, Gerald, Tlmmins, and one daughter, Miss Ann LaChapelle of Corbyville.

Also surviving are three brothers, Jerome, Peter and Lawrence LaChapelle of Ottawa and four sisters, Mrs. James (Margaret) Quinlan, Queensboro; Mrs. Herman (Alice) Hunter, Ottawa; Mrs. William (Mary) Hall, Ottawa and Miss Ann LaChapelle, Ottawa.

FRANK GRAY
(Marmora)

MARMORA — Funeral of Frank Gray of Marmora, who died in Kingston on Saturday, April 26th, took place on Monday afternoon, from Howden Funeral Home to St. Andrew's United Church. Rev. Douglas Miller officiated at the service.

In his 82nd year, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gray. He was born in Prince Edward County and educated at Sharpe's. He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, and fraternally of the Orange Lodge, LOL No. 312. Until his retirement he had been caretaker of the Marmora High School for a number of years.

He leaves his wife, the former May Bowen, three daughters, Mrs. Wilfred Beatty (Edith) of Long, Mrs. Carl Dafoe (Gertrude) of Marmora, Mrs. Gerald Fox (Joyce) of Malone, and one son, Everett of Marmora. Also surviving are nine grandchildren.

The bearers were George Fox, Leo Quinlan, Harold Nayler, Wesley Caddy, Clayton Crosbright and Clarence Bishop. Interment was in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Mr. Springfield and Problem

He's on the Horns Of A Dilemma!

Rev. Melvin Springfield is a clergyman on the horns of a dilemma.

Four horns in fact—although they've been joined to make two.

It happens this way:

Two years ago when the clergyman arrived in Belleville to take up an appointment at the First Pentecostal Church, he decided to redecorate his study.

Pride and joy of his possessions were the horns of two Texas longhorns — when joined together each of 'em spanning more than five feet.

They were a natural as centerpieces for his interior decorating plans.

"I thought they would look good over my books," he says.

The horns, while maybe not a rarity ,are a scarce novelty. Texas longhorns are not the breed of cattle popular anymore. In fact, it's the length of their horns and the tourist attractions thereby that helps keep them alive, says Mr. Springfield.

Then, recently, decorating plans for his study changed. The horns were out.

"They just wouldn't look right," says Mr. Springfield, resignedly eyeing his unique treasures.

"Now, I don't know what to do with them," he says. "You just can't carry them 'round with you."

As a first step toward solving the problem he's advertising them for sale, hopeful the horns will make a point with some other home-owner or curiosity collector.

School Guard Asks For Salary Increase

Should school guards receive more than their present salary of $20 per week?

At least one local guard thinks they should and yesterday he appeared as a one man delegation before city council to make his point.

Joseph Hart felt that the school guard job was worth more than was now being paid and compared it with the $25 he said was being paid at Trenton.

"But Trenton doesn't have Belleville's financial problems," quipped one alderman.

Ald. Paul Russell wondered whether the $20 being paid was more or less than the minimum wage requirement. He wanted to know how many hours per week were put in by guards.

City personnel officer, Gerald Hyde, later said the time per week put in by guards totalled 13 hours and 20 minutes which at the minimum wage of $1.20 per hour would amount to just over $17.

Mayor J. R. Scott said the matter of school guard wages would be taken into consideration at budget time.

Would 'Break Faith'

Delegation Complains to Council on OHC Low-rental Project

Belleville city council wants to know whether Ontario Housing Corporation low - rental family housing units are planned for the Joslyn Crescent area before it will act on an application from Mapleview Realty Limited to rezone from the present RM2 to R4.

The Belleville and District Planning Board has recommended the rezoning to allow construction of higher - density row, or town housing, but present residents of the area are objecting.

To make their point, a delegation of residents yesterday before council complained the higher density would create a traffic hazard and that schools in the area are already filled.

The delegation also claimed that by allowing the zoning change, the city would break faith with property owners who had purchased single — family homes in the area on the basis of present zoning.

The delegation claimed it had been given the "run-around" by the OHC when it asked if low-rental housing was planned for the area.

Mayor Russell Scott and Alderman Arthur Keegan said they didn't know where Maurice Rollins Construction, — successful contract bidder on the OHC project — was planning construction of the family housing.

Later, however, Alderman Keegan said he understood the housing was planned for North Park Street, Pine Street and on Joslyn Crescent.

Council delayed action on the Joslyn Crescent rezoning until information was received from Mr. Rollins setting out siting planned for the low rental housing.

Another application for rezoning — this one from local realtor Douglas Grant — was referred by council to the planning board for recommendation.

The application sought rezoning in the Prince of Wales Drive area to allow construction of a 36-family three-storey apartment block.

The same action was taken on separate rezoning applications from Mrs. Lorna Slettebe and Mrs. Kathleen Clark who wanted permission for 12-plex apartment blocks on Prince of Wales Drive.

Council approved a planning board recommendation for a bylaw amendment in the Pine Street extension area to allow construction of horizontal multiple group housing.

Council was told the area had already been rezoned to allow the planned construction, the bylaw amendment being asked to allow for more flexibility in building siting.

Buses: Back To BTC

Would a revision of bus fares attract more passengers and thus reduce the transit commission deficit, or should the rates be left as they are?

Or would a re-assessment of bus routes and provision of a "cross town" service meet with greater passenger approval.

These are questions which city council has asked the Belleville Transit Commission to consider.

Yesterday council referred 1969 budget estimates of the commission back to that body with a request that consideration be given to a revision of the rate structure. The commission is also being asked to re-assess bus routes.

A budget of $256,238 has been presented by the transit commission with a deficit of $37,617 estimated for the year.

But she disagreed with what she took to be the council suggestion that bus fares be raised in an attempt to decrease the deficit.

"We do not want to increase the rates," she said. "If the rates were raised we would take a loss on the passenger count."

If so, she said the commission could end up with an even greater deficit.

In holding the commission deficit to one half mill she did not feel the commission was doing "too badly" when compared to other centres the size of Belleville.

In support of the commission budget as presented, Mrs. Burtt said a new bus was badly needed again this year. Some of the buses were as much as 20 years old and were badly in need of replacement.

To provide the necessary service she said that even two school buses were being used on city runs.

Despite the recommendation from council that consideration be given for revision of the rate structure, Mayor J. R. Scott said council did not ask for a rate increase.

"We wouldn't want the public to get the idea that a rate increase was suggested by council," he said. "Maybe there should be a reduction in fares."

It was Alderman E. A. Orr who brought up the possibility of changes in the route structure.

He said he often saw two buses following each other down the street with not enough passengers in both to fill a station wagon.

Mayor Scott suggested that a cross town service might be considered by the commission.

A London Life profile

Air traffic controller

Doug Buchanan talks about his work at Dorval airport, and how his London Life plan provides protection, guaranteed savings and a good investment.

1. Doug Buchanan works in the control centre of Montreal's busy international airport.
"At peak periods each controller handles between 8 and 12 aircraft all at the same time. That means you could be responsible for more than 1,000 lives. It can become pretty nerve-racking but you have to remain calm.

"When I get home I just want to relax. That's why I'm sold on my London Life plan. Apart from protecting my family, it provides me with a ready-made program of savings and investment."

Doug has $45,000 of London Life insurance: 4 Jubilee life premiums to 65 policies purchased between ages 23 and 28. His total monthly premium is $64.47. These policies have guaranteed cash values that increase year by year.

They will be completely paid for when he reaches 65. At this age he may keep his policies, providing $45,000 of guaranteed protection, or he may choose to (1) take out $30,883 in cash plus his accumulated dividends—this will total far more than he paid in, or (2) arrange for a regular income for a specific number of years.

2. "There are 19 of us on each shift. We control about 500 square miles of air space. Our job is to make sure airplanes get down safely. There's radar to help us. Generally, we start speaking to pilots when they're 200 miles away."

Doug went on to tell us another reason why he's happy with his London Life plan: "The policies are excellent collateral. When we wanted to buy furniture, I took them to the bank manager and he said, 'I'll lend you all the money you need.' He gave me a favorable interest rate, too!"

NOTE: Photos of Control Centre were taken after midnight when there was little activity.

3. "A few years ago, Johanne and I went to the Caribbean. When we got back, we decided that when I retire, we want to travel all over the world.

"My London Life plan is going to help me do just that. What better return could you get for money that's protecting your family into the bargain?"

London Life insurance can be tailored to your own personal needs and goals, too. That's why we call it the flexible one.

De Gaulle Resigns

Charles de Gaulle has resigned after 11 years as president and undoubted master of France. De Gaulle it was who rallied the Free French forces following his country's defeat by the Nazis in 1940 and who subsequently led them in his country's liberation. Thus began an extraordinary career that took him from relative obscurity in the military to the highest political office in the land.

Under de Gaulle France was transformed from political impotence during the period a decade ago when governments in Paris changed every few months, to a country that once again could stand firm and assert its own will in the counsels of international diplomacy.

Always de Gaulle's principal aim was the restoration of France as a power in the world. If there were times when the general seemed to be suffering from delusions of grandeur, his frequent threats to resign suggested otherwise. De Gaulle indicated several times in the past his intension to resign unless he received popular support for his policies. Each time he received that support; but now, on the issue of establishment of regional governments, he has been defeated.

For Canada de Gaulle's defeat likely will mean improved relations between Ottawa and Paris. The president's 1967 visit and his "Quebec libre" cry, as well as his subsequent by-passing of Canadian sovereignty in favor of special dealings with the government of Quebec, will not easily be forgotten.

Britain and the United States also felt the influence of the "French fact" as propounded by President de Gaulle. Britain for years has been trying to join the European Common Market, but it has been thwarted by de Gaulle. France, at de Gaulle's behest, also withdrew from the military command structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Sir Winston Churchill once spoke of the additional cross he had to bear during the trying days of wartime leadership . . . "the Cross of Lorraine." De Gaulle then, as now, was a difficult man with whom to deal. Yet his attitude was understandable. De Gaulle was France's man of the hour in 1940, as he was in the post-war years when he rescued the nation from political turmoil. He also made it clear, first to the U.S. - British - Soviet wartime alliance his was not a man to be trifled with, and later in peacetime politics, he made this equally clear to Washington and London.

What course France takes now under new leaders must await events. Foreign Minister Couve de Murville has forecast a "difficult period, perhaps a period of trouble." De Gaulle, at least gave France stability. He restored its pride. The people do not want him any more, but by any standards he remains a great man.

Arctic Goes Mod

The Arctic for some reason has always been a lure for Old Country missionaries, adventurers and non-conformists. Where the teaching of Christianity in the north is concerned the identities of its practitioners, according to the scant news that emanates from there, frequently reveals origins in the British Isles.

Even at that, we "outsiders" know little of the Arctic and its people. It is time to learn more of this vast land and its people — both Indians and Eskimos and others who make their home there. Newsmen are touring the region at the moment with Governor-General and Mrs. Michener, but what is needed are reports on a continuing basis of economic and social matters in these far-flung territories. The Canadian Press — the national news co-operative of this country — could fulfil such a task, to the interest and benefit of us all.

Meanwhile, of the various northern residents mentioned above we were intrigued to read of Mrs. Inglimaani who was mother of ceremonies at a Frobisher Bay event to select the Belle of the Year. He makes a living by importing Carnaby Street mod clothes to the Arctic. Now, native peoples around the world traditionally have a delightful flair for bright clothes. The Indians and Eskimos are no exceptions so for the Briton, where better than the Arctic to make a hit with the London mod scene!

O'Neill Out

In Northern Ireland Prime Minister Terence O'Neill has resigned in the wake of political dissension. Besieged by friend and foe, O'Neill's position had become untenable. What happens now amid the continuing turmoil threatening Ulster on the issue of civil rights for Catholic voters is anybody's guess. Certainly the prospects for more moderate policies are not promising. O'Neill was a moderate and he sought a better deal for the Catholic minority.

Auditor-general's Warnings on Extravagance Go Unheeded

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The House of Commons currently is going through the motions of tracking down the Tax Wasters.

This exercise involves the assigning of the public accounts committee to do a combing through of Auditor General Maxwell Henderson's latest financial horror story.

It's his annual report, a facts-and-figures expose of federal fiscal frivolity that ought could be entitled "How to Lose a Million."

Or who knows, perhaps even a billion!

The performance has become as stylized as a folk dance.

The auditor general blows the whistle on the waste-makers.

Whenever are called, documents examined, the committee files a report with the Commons.

And nothing happens.

It's little more than a ritual charade.

For about all it does is create the reassuring illusion for the taxpayers that somebody-down-here cares.

The auditor general, the commons, the public accounts committee and the money-pinched federal government itself all may care.

But the only thing that happens is that instances of waste and extravagance and of terrifying incompetence pack a greater shock impact each year.

Now get this: the auditor general's immense list of case histories of waste and extravagance — it currently runs a record 311 items — is a catalogue of unauthorized, possibly illegal government spending.

It represents spending where somebody blundered, or deliberately stretched or even broke the law, or departmental regulations, with or without the knowledge of his superior officers in the civil service.

But did you ever hear of anyone being reprimanded, much less suspended or dismissed?

Let's skim some of the auditor general's 311 items for samples of official error, indifference or even defiance of rules controlling government spending.

Item 189: "Error resulted in the order of 30 electronic tubes costing $12,000 for which there was no demand while the tubes actually required were available at $1.33 each."

Item 261: "Civil servant subsequently retired (without penalty on pension) incurred long distance calls costing $4,000 that could not be identified with departmental business."

Item 63: "Cost of unoccupied hotel space booked for CBC; $148,000; while corporation employees were using other accommodation costing $40,000."

(This was a CBC encore of a similar waste a year earlier.)

Item 278: "Cost of abandoned plans for National Museum $753,000." (This happened in Ottawa, but it was duplicated, and in some instances far exceeded in other parts of the country.)

The cost of this sort of nonsense, in $7 of the 311 cases listed by the auditor general, ran $12,777,000.

But that could be but a drop in the waste bucket.

For there were other cases of reckless disregard for the tax dollar such as the estimating of the cost of the National Arts Centre in Ottawa at just over $8 million when, by the time the place opens next month, the bill will read something close to $50 million.

Why does nothing scarcely ever happen about this sort of spending, why is it permitted to go on and on and on?

As an illustration, consider Item 121:

"The use of defence department cars for the purposes of armed forces dependents' recreation and shopping, contrary to treasury board rulings, continues. The special study of the use of taxis and chauffeurs begun in 1963, is still incomplete. Cars and chauffeurs continue to be assigned to senior officers for their use, including transportation between home and the office."

Because the increasingly undisciplined spending habits of the civil service, crown corporations, and federal agencies are getting out of control, through sheer bigness.

In just six years, $3,000 have been added to the federal staff which currently approaches 400,000, with the cost of government overhead mounting 76 percent in just short of $2 billion."

Actions Speak Louder

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

When are people going to come out of their cocoons and do something. I have never heard so many criticisms of the establishment thrown around and left to gather dust. They chip away at the government, complain about taxes, grumble about prices and yet haven't got the nerve to stand up and be heard.

Their crutch is "It doesn't do any good to complain." Nonsense! What are they? Vegetables in a living world, waiting to be picked?

The younger generation is not afraid to speak its piece aloud, but this is the group the older generation attacks openly. Ironic? Yes, but also stupid!

They hate violence yet they condone war by their silence. They readily brand draft dodgers "cowards" — but I ask who is the greater coward — the person who is true to his conscience or the person who bows down to force and does something he is against?

Stop existing and start living — not to cocoons nor glass houses but in this world.

Education

Today's Cost Is High Price for an Inferior Product

Coburg Sentinel-Star

Latest statistics compiled by the Ontario Department of Education reveal that Ontario's secondary, elementary and separate school population is almost two million. In September, 1968 the provincial enrolment included 951,400 girls and 999,986 boys.

Taxpayers contributed $1,035, 871,000 for operation of Ontario schools in 1967. Largest expenditure, $564,940,000 was for teachers' salaries.

The average annual per pupil cost in 1967 was $613 — $484 for elementary, $929 for secondary and $427 for separate schools.

In 1969, with increased enrolment, general higher operating costs, per pupil ratio may reach $700. Citizens are not far away in time from assuming a one-and-one-half billion dollar expenditure for the three-school system.

Who can assess the outcome of the pupil product graduated in adult society?

Never in history has there been so much youth rebellion against law and order; never has a generation in history revealed so many unwashed, unkempt and undisciplined individuals; never have there been so much care and concern for the young and never so little appreciation — for the fact remains that every son and daughter is subsidized by every taxpayer in the school system of the land.

The figures in cost are staggering as the end result is overwhelming.

We are producing an inferior product despite all our munificence — the square product, however, can be more roundly condemned than the hippie — the hippie is aware of hypocrisy and will not subscribe to it — the square obeys laws, leads an exemplary life but is cursed with that ultra-modern malady, disease-for-the-dollar.

The square is an integral part of every government, business, profession and labor union. He it is who is to blame for the high cost of education.

The square is clean outside but dirty inside; the hippie is dirty outside — all he need do is get to work and give what he earns to the poor. This could be his burgeoning spirit.

Senator Symington's Warning

Nixon Faces Senate Hostility Over Anti-Missile System

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Eight respected experts on the controversial $6,000,000,000 American counter-missile system split evenly on its merits this week before a Senate committee.

That division, which seems typical of the scientific, economic, military and diplomatic pros and cons, set the stage for what is expected to be a final congressional push for approving the Safeguard, missile defence system.

President Nixon says he will "fight . . . for it because I believe it is absolutely essential to the security of the country."

This is his first big political challenge. He should know the welcome by the end of May and he has called it a tough fight.

He has also said he regards it as above politics. Nevertheless, considerable pressure is expected to be applied to Republicans who share the critical views that the entire concept is badly timed for any success in United States-Soviet arms talks, is extravagant or simply isn't any good.

The issue has been a magnet for the first significant rallying of the Democratic party. Organizations emerging across the U.S. under the guise of being anti-Safeguard show many of those faces conspicuous in the revolt that swept President Johnson into retirement last year.

Their effectiveness remains to be demonstrated this year.

The specific challenge facing Nixon is that the 100-member Senate, where the Democrats hold a bigger majority than they do in the House of Representatives, will deny him the funds for the first phase of the missile defence.

This would be two kinds of radar and two kinds of rockets circling offensive missiles at Grand Forks, N.D., and Great Falls, Mont., near the Canadian border.

In the larger picture, the issue will help test the recuperative vigor of the Democratic party and the influence thereon particularly of Senator Robert Kennedy, everybody's pick at this time as the likeliest Democratic presidential candidate in 1972.

But the rallying power of the missile debate in the public at large remains to be demonstrated. Opinion polls indicate many and perhaps most are immune to the heat it has raised in Washington.

There was more public protest before Nixon, in a tactic his foes say was political, moved the system from the big cities where the storage of nuclear warheads was feared.

This week's expert testimony came before the Senate armed services committee, normally military-minded, a man has exhibited some flaunes over this topic.

The testimony took off in a cloud of military space jargon and stayed well out of reach of the comprehension of laymen.

But some clear messages emerged including those from Democratic Senator Stuart Symington, once an undeviating supporter of spending necessary for offensive nuclear power.

Symington, a former air secretary, warned that the Senate may clamp a lid on military spending and added: "I've been badly fooled in my time. . . . It's not going to happen again."

School Boards Are Now in Throes Of Seeking Elementary Teachers

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
(Staff Reporter)

For the second time this year, school boards across the province are in the throes of teacher-hiring.

This time elementary school teachers are the objects of administrators' attention. The big push for secondary teachers took place over a month ago, as teams invaded colleges of education to capture this year's graduates.

Friday is target day for the frenzy on elementary teachers' colleges, but this year the chase is less frantically paced than in the past.

Educators say the supply of elementary school teachers is catching up with the demand. For the first time in many years, the colleges are expected to graduate enough teachers to supply the provinces' schools.

Hastings County board of education is seeking about 50 elementary teachers this year, and expects no serious problem in hiring the full complement of qualified personnel.

"Peterborough Teachers' College is our main source of supply," L. F. Reid, superintendent of staff, says. "This year it is graduating twice as many teachers, 500, as it did last year."

Three hiring teams from the Hastings board will go to Peterborough Friday.

They will be headed by area superintendents R. D. Horwood and Frank Tate, and assistant superintendent J. M. Cousins.

Graduates from "Ottawa Teachers' College have traditionally considered the north Hastings area an employment field. Area superintendent G. A. Watson of Bancroft will head a hiring team in Ottawa.

A few applications have come from Toronto Teachers' College, and area superintendent E. T. Morris of Trenton will conduct interviews in Toronto Friday.

Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board will have about 20 vacancies to fill on its elementary staff.

F. S. Allore, superintendent, C. G. McIlwreith, supervisor of property, and F. J. Buckley, chairman of the board will hold interviews in Peterborough, and another hiring team will travel to Ottawa.

"We have just about reached saturation point in the supply of elementary teachers," Mr. Allore says. "But demand for qualified secondary school teachers will exceed the supply for some time to come.

Coho Salmon:

Good for Canada, Bad for U.S.

CANADIAN PRESS (STAFF)— The coho salmon, suddenly seen as a tourist-booster in the Quinte district, has some critics sliding south of the border.

But William Menzies, the Trentonian who drew a resolution for Prince Edward—Hastings Liberal Association proposing coho-stocking in the Quinte area is convinced of its merits.

"Any commercial fisherman who would rather catch pickerel than salmon is stupid," says Mr. Menzies today.

For coho salmon, the penalty for deserting the United States is a Canadian frying pan.

The coho, native to the Pacific Coast of North America, were first introduced to Lake Huron five years ago by the United States.

This spring they have appeared in abundance on the eastern shores of the lake in Canadian waters.

"The Americans are mad as hell at us," said an Ontario government official commenting on the tons of coho being netted by Ontario commercial fishermen.

And it's no wonder; United States commercial fishermen are forbidden to catch them.

The coho, averaging three pounds, is a hard-fighting game fish, but hardly profitable to commercial fishermen.

Ron T. Purdy, 56, a commercial fisherman from Point Edward, near Sarnia, Ont., and 55 miles southwest of this Lake Huron spot, says he's getting coho where he should be getting pickerel.

He adds that pickerel are better tasting and more marketable.

Mr. Purdy said drawing 9,000 pounds of salmon would take two days while preparing the same weight in pickerel would take about five days.

Mr. Purdy said when the coho first appeared in his firm's nets early this spring, the haul was about 80 pounds. After four or five catches the haul jumped to more than 8,000 pounds.

F. L. Hall, district forester for the Lake Huron district of the department of lands and forests, reports that 15 per cent of the coho examined by his department showed lamprey wounds and scars.

Chemicals and electrolysis have helped control the lamprey population, but the lamprey, first discovered in Lake Erie in 1921, is still a menace.

However, it appears that the coho may give as much as he takes from the lamprey. A federal government official reported last October that remains of lamprey had been found in coho stomachs.

The U.S. introduced the coho and Ontario followed suit this spring by planting 150,000 seven to nine-inch-long coho in Lake Ontario and Lake Superior.

Locally, Mr. Menzies does not fear the salmon being wiped out by the lamprey which had practically eliminated the Lake Trout from the Great Lakes.

"We haven't heard too many complaints about lampreys," he said "and I believe that most of the lamprey population no longer inhabit the lakes."

Mr. Menzies said the association's six page brief is currently being circulated in the area and a copy has been sent to Robert Nixon, Liberal leader in the Legislature. He was unable to say when initial steps dealing with the plan will be taken.

Citizens Group Steps Up Plaza Issue

The Belleville Citizens Committee will soon issue a challenge to Dr. Richard Potter, MLA for Quinte, and ask him "to explain his silence in the legislature concerning the rezoning issue for Belleville's newly proposed plaza."

The committee met last night and decided three of their number meet with Dr. Potter along with Ben Corke, Downtown Businessmen's Association president, and Wilbur Wills, local businessman and promoter of the downtown Magic Circle renewal project. The aim of the meeting, according to committee members, is to find out just what the MLA's stand on the issue is and why he has been silent in the legislature about it.

The subject has been taken up in the legislature by Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader.

On March 25 Mr. [illegible] asking the legislature [illegible] action by Ontario Municipal Board Chairman Hugh McKeough, Minister of Municipal Affairs if "an appeal was the only recourse for the citizens of Belleville".

Mr. McKeough replied there were four methods which could be taken, three of these were appeals while the last was a review by the OMB.

But the latest move was done only with the admittance of evidence available at the time of the hearing.

On April 17 Mr. Nixon again brought up the subject in the House after a delegation had gone to Queen's Park to present a petition protesting the OMB refusal.

The Liberal leader asked Attorney-General Arthur Wishart if there was any method set out by law relating to "time limits and procedures" when a review of a board decision is asked.

Mr. Wishart said there are no set rules of procedure.

"I believe the parties are not heard but the material is reviewed like a court of appeal," said the attorney-general.

"The cabinet does not constitute itself a court in the same sense that it hears petition or person," he said.

Members of the committee stated that Mr. Corke and Mr. Wills "are known to be against the construction of the plaza" but added that their involvement would make the discussion a more meaningful one.

Last night's meeting also saw a constitution formed with an executive being elected. This included: chairman, Donat Clement; vice-chairman, Ian Reilly and William Hockley heading the public relations team.

The executive will meet once a month with meeting of the whole committee taking place at least once every four months. Membership is limited to 50 persons with an annual membership fee of $2 a year.

Pad on Ice Until Budget

Any council decision on the Belleville Citizens' "Action Centre" Committee proposal to cover a city - built outdoor artificial ice pad will have to wait until after the 1969 city budget is set.

The committee proposal was presented to council yesterday by its chairman Richard Hurst who said his committee was prepared to co - operate with the city in providing a year around recreation "action centre".

Outdoor artificial ice pads would not be satisfactory, he said.

He said a pre - fabricated Butler type structure could be built for $180,000.

When asked the specific request of the committee, Mr. Hurst said they were asking either for city owned land on which to build an "action centre" or for the $95,000 proposed by city council for an outdoor artificial ice pad.

"If the city constructs the ice pad we will cover it," he said.

Mr. Hurst was supported in his presentation by committee members Mrs. Eunice Driscoll, speaking for the Quinte Skating Club; Cy Coulson for minor sports; Rev. Laurie Suitland, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association and by Father George Mullen of Holy Rosary Church, all of whom stressed the need for more ice time facilities and for year round recreational facilities.

But the committee proposal met with cool reception on the part of Ald. Kenneth Sodon, who, while appreciating the intentions of the group, said the vast majority of the people in Belleville did not want the type of rink facility proposed by Mr. Hurst.

"If such a building were erected, he said the city "would be stuck with it" and it would fall for all time the erection of a community centre type arena.

"It's why we stopped thinking small."

terested in a union with Centrist forces and said he would support Poher if the interim president gets into a runoff with Pompidou.

Valery Giscard d'Estaing, leader of the Independence Republicans who have been part of the Gaullist majority, said his ideal candidate would be "an experienced man, not involved in the political clashes between the majority and opposition in recent years, open to forward a united Europe, who unites instead of divides and who restores lost confidence to everyone."

The description apparently was meant to apply to former premier Antoine Pinay, 78, who said he would be a candidate only if it were "a question of averting a catastrophe, which is not the case and which I hope will never be the case."

De Gaulle remained in seclusion at his home in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises. There was speculation about the effect of his resignation continued.

Officials and diplomats at the Brussels headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foresaw no major change in French relations with the Atlantic alliance and did not expect any dramatic develop-

Homemaker Services Assist The Family in Numerous Ways

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Douglas Allen of Ottawa: a pleasant woman with soft grey hair and blue eyes, is convinced that more visiting homemaker services would be the answer to troubles plaguing many people.

For some years she has been actively interested in the service. Now she is chairman both of the Can-dian Welfare Council's committee in advise on a study of the country's homemaker services and of the council's national committee on visiting homemaker services.

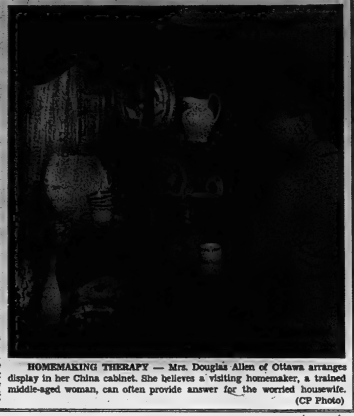
"This is not a housecleaning or char service," she explains with emphasis. "A visiting homemaker is trained and her personality is suited to coping with the myriad of problems that confront her every time she goes on a job.

A visiting homemaker is paid an hourly wage. Some service agencies are also developing fringe benefits such as holidays with pay, sick leave, workmen's compensation and uniforms.

The homemaker is restricted to either full-time or half-time work. She cannot register with an agency and say that occasionally she would like to work for half a day.

Training methods may vary from city to city. In Ottawa, for example, a three-month course leading to a diploma of certified visiting homemakers is held by the Algonquin College retraining centre.

"To be eligible for the course," says Mrs. Allen, "a woman has to have been in the labor market for three years because of a Canada manpower ruling. This frequently excludes very good people.



There are many situations across Canada in which a trained homemaker can help, Mrs. Allen said. Sometimes, however, as much as 25 per cent of service given in a month is in homes where the mother is receiving psychiatric treatment.

Among ways in which visiting homemakers help is giving service to old people. "It is an effort to keep elderly people out of institutional care."

The visiting homemaker, aside from providing an old person with sometimes-vital relief from loneliness, may take the client for a little outing to do shopping, drive him to a clinic or doctor for medical treatment, and make sure there is good food in his room or apartment.

"Requests for service come from many different sources," Mrs. Allen said. These include municipal welfare departments, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Children's Aid Society or a family agency, schools, hospitals, juvenile courts or individuals.

"Needless to say, priorities have to be established because there are just not enough homemakers to give the service asked for. So long as we are unable to increase the number, we simply can't advertise for more business."

Senior Citizens Entertained In Peterborough

MARMORA — Marmora Senior Citizens were entertained on Wednesday afternoon, by the Retirees' Association of Peterborough (retired C.G.E. employees) at the Orange Hall in Brock Street.

A warm welcome was extended by president, Reginald Dooley, and secretary, Alex Milne. A travel film on Newfoundland was presented, and after lunch, there was a choice of euchre or bingo, climaxing a most enjoyable afternoon.

The Marmora Club is arranging to have the Retirees' Association for a return visit in June.

The trip to Peterborough was by chartered bus which left in the morning giving the Senior Citizens time for shopping and lunch before their pleasant afternoon with the Retirees' Association.

Second Marriage Brings Satisfaction

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did a slow burn when that guy wrote to complain that her wife acts like she's doing him a favor once every two weeks. A timetable like that would have been heaven to me.

I married Aggie when I was 26. She was 22. What I thought was high principles turned out to be a pathological hatred for sex. From the night we married until I left her, 17 years later, Aggie wore underwear and ankle sox under her nightgown. She also had this thing about lubricating her skin so it wouldn't wrinkle. At bedtime she put so much grease on, she looked like she was fixing to swim the English Channel.

ANN LANDERS

And then of course there were the headaches and backaches and colds. She managed to get six colds a year, each one lasting a month.

I am now married to a wonderful gal who knows that sex can be a bond that ties a man and woman together. My only mistake was waiting 17 years to lead a normal life. You print lots of letters from women who think their husbands are sex maniacs. Please print this one and help even the score. — ALIVE AND WELL IN DECATUR.

* * *

DEAR ALIVE: The score will never be even, but your letter helps balance it a bit. Thanks for writing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do people get belligerent and act insulted when they want to cash a cheque and are asked to produce identification? Don't they realize employers are to keep records? It isn't enough that a person has an honest face.

I work in a large store and I try to be as polite and considerate to our customers as possible. Yesterday when I asked a woman for identification, she snapped, "Are you trying to say I'm a swindler?" A half hour later a man threw his credit cards and driver's license in my face and yelled, "Some fresh punks just have to show their authority!"

I'm sure I'm not the only salesperson who has this problem, so please print my letter. I'd like to hope it will help register and I'll guarantee you, so will hundreds of other employees. — ABUSED.

* * *

DEAR AB: Here's your letter and I hope it helps promote better understanding on the part of the customers.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 19-year-old daughter is a sophomore at a well known school in the East. Judy has always been considered one of the better brought up young ladies of this town. But her language since she has been away at school is appalling. She uses some very dirty words in ordinary everyday conversation. Her father, half-kidding, said, "When you leave younger I used to wash your mouth out with soap and I might have to do it again."

Judy's answer was, "I tell it like it is. Words are only sounds. Get with it."

What should a parent say in response? — SPEECHLESS.

* * *

DEAR SPEECH: A parent should say, "If you want to stay in this house you'd better use decent language to tell it like it is. We don't go for gutter talk around here and you'd better get with it.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

GAMMA MU CHAPTER

Mrs. E. Belyea was hostess at a recent meeting of Gamma Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority with Mrs. R. Ord and Mrs. D. Deacon as co-hostesses.

To open the meeting Mrs. R. Stickle gave a demonstration of new cosmetics whose motto is: "There is not a woman alive who could not be more attractive with the use of proper cosmetics." Mrs. J. Day continued the program with a talk on "Thought".

It was reported by the committee concerned that plans for two future events, a Mothers' Tea and Parents' Day banquet, are well under way.

As the result of a executive co-ordinating committee meeting it was decided to hold a meeting in early May of all members eligible to move to a higher degree within the next two years to discuss the formation of a Preceptor Chapter.

At the previous meeting Mrs. G. Bailey introduced the guest speaker, Inspector R.W. Blackford of the Belleville Police Department. Following his thought-provoking talk, he answered the many questions put to him by the members.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. G. Deline, Mrs. R. Fox and Mrs. D. Davey.

There's No Law Against Reading at 3,000 W.P.M.

Even though that's probably ten times faster than you read now, you can do it. We guarantee that you'll learn to read three times faster or more with at least as much comprehension and all your present understanding plus equal or better recall ability. We'll give your money back if you don't.

But our result show that you'll likely learn to read four or five times faster than you do now. And many Evelyn Wood graduates . . . business and professional men, students, administrators and housewives alike . . . learn to read more than ten times faster than they did on starting the proven-effective Reading Dynamics Course!

While you're learning to read, comprehend and retain all kinds of material, including technical books, you'll also develop better study habits. New memory joggers help you recall, years later, everything you read.

The Evelyn Wood system has given thousands of people the unlimited job of sweeping up books by the bushel. Also the satisfaction . . . and results . . . of doing their jobs better. Or gaining that degree of certification.

How about you? The course is as enjoyable as it is stimulating and rewarding. Think about it.

Unbaked Chocolate Coconut Bars

By MARY MOORE

Starting this week I am going to give you a square recipe each week for three weeks.

Today's Chocolate Coconut Bars were discovered by Shirley when her lay theology evening class had their closing session, to which students brought refreshments. Ruth Dea's Chocolate Coconut Bars stole the show and she was kind enough to acquiesce to Shirley's request for the recipe.

And take heed — they are unbaked!

I foretell being swamped with requests for this so we are making plenty of copies. They are reminiscent of Zeni's De Luxe Brownies I gave here in 1955.

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tbsps. cocoa
1 beaten egg
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups graham wafer crumbs
1 cup desiccated coconut
½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups unsifted icing sugar
2 tbsps. Bird's or Harry Horne's Custard Powder
2 tbsps. hot water
1 tbsp. butter
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate.

NOTE: If you are not a regular custard powder user, this recipe makes it worthwhile for you to have a tin on hand.

In double boiler stir together the ¼ cup butter or margarine, granulated sugar and cocoa until smooth. Stir in egg and vanilla and immediately remove from heat and add crumbs, coconut and walnuts and mix well. Press into buttered 9 x 9" pan and chill.

Mix together in beater bowl the ¼ cup butter or margarine, icing sugar, custard powder and hot water and beat until smooth. (It does not require cooking.) Spread over chilled first mixture and return to refrigerator. This sets quickly.

Gently melt together the 1 tbsp. butter and chocolate and with rubber scraper spread all over top. Chill again. With sharp knife cut into 2 x 1" bars.

A yummy confection that all of your guests will reach for first.

Advice to Hospital Visitors

By DORIS CLARK

There are so many things to consider when you visit a friend in hospital, that the Canadian Red Cross Society has set down some of the more important don'ts: don't sit on a patient's bed, or jar it; don't attempt to move a patient, or alter his position, without permission; don't do any visiting when doctor is there or nurse is administering treatment; don't read patient's chart or make comments about his ailment or treatment; don't pursue depressing or argumentative subjects; find out what you need to know about patient's condition, and hospital rules, before visiting.

To which I add: Don't stay any more than a few minutes.

To any visiting Clergyman I would pass on, from one of them: Do say a prayer with your patient. Most sick people are sufficiently disturbed to desire spiritual counsel, but many hesitate to ask for it.

* * *

Dear Doris: About your article on the importance of good human relations.

Will you be good enough to give me the titles of books on how to handle people — something that I can study? So far I have been dealing with payrolls, timekeeping; from here on in I want to deal with people, due to the fact that I have reached the age of 65 and want to explore an entirely new field. — New Worlds to Conquer.

Dear New Worlds: That's the spirit! There are many books worth the reading and I'll send you names.

Whether it means a new kind of work or a new way of looking at life in general it will be refreshing. People are more fun than anybody — if we even begin to understand them. With understanding comes sympathy — and even love.

Dear Doris: I am most grateful for your personal contributions to the nation-wide smoking and health program. The quality and readership of your column make it a valuable educational medium for Canadians.

You have dealt very effectively with the cigarette problem in your leaflet "Way Smoke?" This is an excellent balance of information regarding the habit and the hazards.

The tips for overcoming dependence are sensible and practical and your coverage of matters of good taste, aesthetics and courtesy to non-smokers is first class.

Please keep up the good work! — John Munro, Minister of National Health and Welfare.

Thank you, Mr. Munro!

I follow your career with great interest.

MPs Won't Protect Those Denying Abortions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons rejected Monday two attempts from opposition members to have guarantees written in the Criminal Code that when therapeutic abortions are legal, hospitals, doctors and hospital staff refusing them will not be prosecuted.

Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax-East Hants) moved an amendment to the government's omnibus Criminal Code bill, which would spell out that hospitals are not legally obliged to set up abortion committees or doctors obliged to perform abortions.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) added a sub-amendment to make the provision apply to "hospital staff" who might be involved in an abortion.

The 120-clause Criminal Code bill would permit abortion where the health of a prospective mother is endangered. It is at the report stage in the Commons, the step before third and final reading.

Justice Minister John Turner argued there would be no obligation on a hospital to set up a committee to decide on abortions, as allowed in the bill, nor on any doctor, nurse or hospital employee to perform an abortion.

Writing in such a protective clause "might be misleading to the medical profession," he said, and might obscure the civil obligation of the medical profession to ensure that a patient is able to make a free choice of medical adviser and hospital.

Relations among hospitals, doctors, nurses and patients are provincial responsibilities, Mr. Turner said.

Abortion—which some may refuse to perform for reasons of conscience—would be in the same category as organ transplants, sterilization and blood transfusions, which are refused by some doctors.

The only legal responsibility of a doctor or hospital might be to advise the patient of her right to go to another hospital or another doctor.

Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said there is an implication in the bill that a hospital or a doctor refusing to perform an abortion might be liable to penalty.

Mr. McCleave's amendment was defeated 94 to 36 and Mr. Burton's sub-amendment went down 91 to 40.

In both cases 41 Liberals voted against the amendments and seven Creditistes voted for them. New Democrats and Conservatives split ranks on both votes.

Earlier, the House defeated, on a voice vote, an amendment by Gerard Laprise (Creditiste—Abitibi) designed to increase the responsibility of an expectant mother to get a doctor at the moment of birth.

The bill changes the Criminal Code to absolve from blame anyone who causes the death of a child unwittingly in the act of helping to preserve the life of a mother in childbirth.

Debate on the bill continues today.

Life Insurance Firms Will Pay Normal Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Revised proposals for taxing life insurance companies, and the policyholders who make profits on their investment, in them, were tabled in the Commons Monday by Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

In a nutshell, the taxes will be:

1. Normal corporation profit taxes of 52 per cent of the normal net income of life insurance companies after allowing for deductible business expenses.

2. A special flat-rate tax of 15 per cent on the profits of insurance company investments which flow through the companies to the policyholders, to be paid by the companies. These flow-through investment profits will not be counted as normal insurance company profits.

3. Normal personal income taxes, which vary according to a person's taxable income, on any proceeds a policyholder gets in excess of cost when he cashes in a policy before death.

4. Where a policy includes an amount to be segregated and invested apart from insurance in a pooled fund, as in an unincorporated mutual fund, the earnings to the policyholder—interest and dividends, but not capital gains—will have to be declared as personal income by the policyholder and taxed.

An important feature of Mr. Benson's revised proposal is that the taxes on policyholders will not apply until 1976, to provide time for working out the administrative machinery. The insurance companies, however, will have to pay the full amount of investment tax until then.

Mr. Benson first proposed taxing the life insurance companies in his Oct. 22 budget last year. They have been virtually exempt from income tax in the past, and he promised to consult them fully on drafting the legislation.

Relations May Improve

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday he hopes for improved relations between Canada and France when a new French president assumes office.

Referring to difficulties in the past, Mr. Sharp said outside the Commons that "it seemed to us from time to time, Gen. de Gaulle took measures that didn't promote good relations between Canada and France."

He referred to these measures as "unnecessary."

Canada is anxious to co-operate with France, especially as it relates to Canada's French-speaking citizens.

This policy was followed throughout the de Gaulle period, although there were difficulties.

Stanfield Says Workers Frustrated

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Monday night successful protests by youth "might influence the working man, who feels frustrated to express his frustration."

"Frustration of workers with their work is not . . . an incidental question," he told a conference on equal opportunity sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

"It could be the most serious single labor-management problem we have.

"The young as well as the rest of us resent the pressures of impersonality and the young differ largely in that they feel they can do something about it."

Mr. Stanfield said the average Canadian is perhaps in debt, pressured by his family "and too often, despite the prime minister's statistics, he can't buy a house."

The reference was to statements by Prime Minister Trudeau in the House of Common Friday describing increases in house- and apartment-building in Canada.

Mr. Stanfield said management and labor leaders must find ways to preserve the efficiency of large working units but cut down their inhumanity.

Bertrand Backs Federalism ---If 'Invasion' Is Halted

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said Monday the federal government will have to stop invading provincial jurisdictions if federalism is to achieve "equilibrium."

Saying he believed in the federal system as a "strong one" since three of the strongest nations of the world—the United States, the Soviet Union and West Germany—had adopted it, he added the Canadian version still lacked harmony.

The premier told a service club that medical-care insurance was a good example of federal "invasion."

"The federal government will admit that this is strictly a provincial field under the constitution, yet it adopted its legislation (on medical-care insurance) and ruled that the scheme would become effective regardless of the number of provinces willing to co-operate."

Speaking on income taxation on the eve of his government's 1968-70 budget speech, Mr. Bertrand said Quebec had decided not to levy any income taxes on single and married persons whose annual earnings are under $2,000 and $4,000 respectively.

"So Ottawa acted promptly and through its so-called social development tax appropriated for itself the money we had tried to leave in the hands of less-fortunate citizens," the premier said.

In trying to help the provinces the federal government in fact "ruins their plans, upsets their fiscal predictions and plays havoc with their priorities."

"The provincial governments, just as much as the federal government, are led by honest Canadians concerned about everybody's welfare. These governments are modern, efficient and responsible."

Co-operation was possible between both levels of government "but if one of them is to have the right to impose its conditions, it seems to me it should be the government which happens to be on its home territory."

Poher's Party Opposes 'Irritation' of Ottawa

PARIS (CP) — Interim-President Alain Poher's political party, the Democratic Centre, favors continuation of bonds between France and French Canada but without any "irritation" of relations between Quebec and Ottawa, a party official said Monday.

The party, which criticized former president de Gaulle for his "Quebec libre" speech in Montreal two years ago, wants to cut any excessive expenditure by de Gaulle on "prestige" projects.

But the official added in an interview that the Democratic Centre also favors good relations with "those who are our cousins"—meaning French-speaking Canadians.

Poher could be a top candidate for a regular term as president when Frenchmen elect a new chief of state a few weeks from now.

At Quebec House, officials spent the last hours before de Gaulle's resignation took effect in a meeting described as routine for Monday morning.

Youth Swings Out

Music '69: All That Beat But Little Do-re-mi

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

If music be the food of love, play on.

If William Shakespeare had been alive today he might have recomposed that question to read, if music be the food of youth play on and on and on.

That appears to be the trend today as far as young people are concerned.

Musicians, at least people playing musical instruments, have become as common almost as leaves on the trees.

Charles Kemmer, of Kemmer Music, described the musical boom as a craze and said there are a number of reasons for every other youngster on a city block playing musical instruments.

"Music has changed," he said. "It has changed to a much easier form. The easiness allows anyone to strum for his own satisfaction."

Mr. Kemmer admits, however, that although there are many more people playing instruments, there are still only a small number of good musicians.

"I've sold hundreds of sets of drums, but there's only a handful that can play Dixieland."

But it is teenage music and its culture that has changed things.

In 1955, remembers Mr. Kemmer, Elvis Presley came out and there was a swing to the guitar in the United States. That same swing to guitar did not affect Canada until 1959 or 1960.

"They were using little amplifiers, 36 inches square, on stage and thought they were doing well."

But from 1960 to 1968 there has been an unusually heavy upsurge in the sales pertaining to rock music.

"Even tambourines were selling so well that the Salvation Army had to wait until they were ordered."

He doesn't know the exact reason for the craze.

"I can't put my finger on it, but if it wasn't for Japanese merchandise we wouldn't have had enough (musical equipment) to sell for three months out of the year."

But, 1969 could be the first year of evidence of a musical lull.

There's going to be a lull in the music business until at least 1975."

And yet, there's a certain amount of "keeping up with the Jones" as far as music is concerned.

"Just because Jimmy has a guitar, then Johnny wants one," says Mr. Kemmer.

And the general trend has been toward those instruments played by famous rock 'n' roll personalities — guitars drums and the electric organ.

"If you make it in a rock group, you've got it made. They make pretty big money" says Mr. Kemmer. "I just wish there were more trumpet players and trombone players."

James McGuire, the music man at Booth Radio and Television, will agree that brass instrumentalists are scarce.

"Brass instruments have really dropped off in the last few years," he says. And that again is almost a reason for the popularity of musical instruments and groups among the younger people.

Mr. McGuire, just recently back from an amplifier show in Toronto, feels that people are now spending their idle time learning how to do something like playing a musical instrument rather than watching television.

"Everyone wants to play music."

And teen-agers are the finest examples of the popularity of music.

"Once kids get into the teen-age group and go to dances and hear records on the radio they have a certain idol," says Mr. McGuire. And this is one of the reasons that young people join groups, a search for identity.

The Japanese manufacturers have helped the average youngster to have his dreams of a musical group come true.

Japanese instruments are many times cheaper than those manufactured in North America and just about anyone can buy one."

As average group could outfit itself with Japanese musical equipment for only a couple of hundred dollars and this group could then play for its own satisfaction without making too much of a financial investment.

However, more professional groups, on the average invest $10,000 to $15,000 for a five-man group.

"But all these people have an idol whether it be Henry Mancini, Jimi Hendrix or Guy Lombardo" ...says Mr. McGuire.

But he knows of no lull.

"There's definitely a stream of young players coming along all the time."

"But how many people are really musicians? Anybody can play guitar and piano for their own enjoyment. That is the difference between amateurs and pros."

But there comes a point when the amateurs and the pros are only a hairline apart. It is at this point that the many members of groups are realized.

The Japanese equipment groups either remain in that category, or else be professional equipment, or fold up.

"I find a lot of guys coming and trading electric guitars for acoustic guitars," says Mr. McGuire. "If they realize they haven't got the money to go on."

But Mr. McGuire maintains that groups are still multiplying.

"There's definitely as many groups, by the looks of things. There's new groups on records every day."

And the rock music itself is an attraction to musicianship and entering groups.

"Rock is more exciting," says Mr. McGuire.

He also believes that rock is easier to play and that many young teenagers can easily play that classification of music.

The more professional groups have ceased to play rock 'n' roll in itself, he says and moved on to more difficult classifications of teen-age music — folk-rock, acid-rock and electric blues.

"Rock has died," says Mr. McGuire.

Bands Sprout Like 'Magic' Around Quinte Area

By ROBERT DUNNETT
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — The Magical Merri-Go-Round is the youngest band in Prince Edward County, and probably one of the youngest in Ontario.

Formed late in February, it consists of five public school students, all from the Ameliasburg area. Doug Andrews, 12, plays lead guitar, Larry Wilson, 12, base, with Danny Ladouceur, 14, on the drums, Dave Houston, 14, sings. Lighting and balance are handled by Alan Bellamy, 12.

Since their organization in February, they have had engagements in Ameliasburg, Bloomfield, Cherry Valley, and back in Bloomfield last Friday night. They will be in their home town this Friday. Booked for the next several weeks in this area, plus a two night stand near Owen Sound in June, the group has every right to be optimistic.

The boys play for public school age groups at dances organized by Neil McMaster, RR7, Belleville. Mr. McMaster doubles as a self-appointed social director who, along with interested parents, organized the dances for the younger set.

The band members have a high regard for him saying, "He's the guy who got us off the ground. If it wasn't for him there wouldn't be any band."

The boys have also had a lot of help from their parents, and are still getting it. They admit it was through them that they were able to finance their $1,800 worth of equipment. The parents, are also co-operating with the boys by allowing recreation rooms to be filled with sound equipment as well as providing transportation to their engagements.

Mrs. Wilson said "I think it is a good idea, because a lot of children study music and never enjoy it. But they really enjoy this. We're encouraging them, and driving them to their dates. I think they sound better than when they started," was her answer as to how she liked the music.

The original organizers of the group were Doug Andrews and Danny Ladoucier. Although all members are given a chance to express their wishes about bookings, Doug handles most of them. His mother is the treasurer for the group.

Although the boys don't practice as much as when they started, they still put in 10 hours a week, managing to learn one or two new songs. They have their song selection up to around 30 now. For a three hour dance the fee is $30.

Base guitar, Larry Wilson, commented: "We're doing it more for the experience of playing than for the money."

The group was proud to point out that they rely more on quality than on volume: "We are trying more for quality than sound," said drummer Danny Ladoucier.

Doug said they specialize in the faster songs, mainly because that is the type of music their audiences want. They play one or two fast numbers to one slow ratio.

As far as being nervous, they all agreed they were when they played in Ameliasburg where people knew them.

The efforts of the group are summed up in a comment by one of the boys: "It teaches us responsibility, and we have a great time."

Returns Row on Row

Income Tax Time

The Returns Roll in..and in..and In

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

Today, they're being taxed all over the country — and Belleville is no exception.

Tomorrow is the deadline for 1968 income returns, and the documentary flow is taxing the efforts of thousands of federal employees.

Millions of returns have been flowing through the national revenue data centre in Ottawa for weeks now. The steady stream is reaching its peak as the 24-hour deadline ticks away.

Down at the national revenue Belleville district offices they are mindful of the time, and last-minute inquiries on how to complete those crucial returns still are coming in from local citizens.

The centre has a king-size job. It's responsible for 130,000 returns, says administrator supervisor J. W. Graves. These are the tax forms which, initially processed through the Ottawa data centre are sent to the Belleville office for final checking and approval.

Actually, although working at peak capacity, returns are flowing in more readily this year, says Mr. Graves.

"Returns are coming in a little faster than last year," he says.

The benefit of the slight speedup is felt by the taxpayer, he indicates. "Refunds are getting out a little faster also," adds Mr. Graves. "We're getting a last-minute rush — but it's nothing we can't handle."

At this time of year, happiness is an income tax refund.

Ottawa sources say more than 8,000,000 Canadian taxpayers received a refund from their 1967 income-tax returns.

Despite an impressive bank of computer hardware, the processing of tax returns is still a slow, laborious undertaking," cautions the Ottawa report.

The problem is a basic one — volume.

But, this year the problem of the single income tax return may be magnified 8,500,000 times — the number of returns estimated for filing by Canadians.

There are other statistics enlightning what is the serious business of collecting the cash that runs the nation.

Laid end to end Canadians' income tax returns would stretch from Ottawa past Winnipeg. They will fill more than 6,000 mail bags and weigh 120 tons.

To handle such a volume, assembly-line methods must be used. And here's another catch. Systems are developed to handle normal, average tax returns.

"But all tax returns are not average, or normal and this is what causes delays," says the Ottawa source.

Errors and omissions can only be corrected by human judgement, and this is only possible in district offices where previous tax returns were filed.

This is where a headquarters like the Belleville centre comes into play. And this is the time when activity peaks there — time that is slowly running out for deadline filing.

Hmmm . . . A Problem !

Big Four Expected to Dominate Small Derby Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The smallest, fastest and most competitive field in recent Kentucky Derby history may increase by one today.

Tommy Cocdon, trainer for Rae Jet, said a finish among the first four places in today's Derby Trial Stakes would earn the son of War Jeep a start in Saturday's $125,000-added classic.

"Sure those big stables may be afraid to try it, but we've just a lush league bunch," Cocdon said.

Eight horses were entered in the one-mile Trial, with only one or two expected to earn credentials to face the Big Four of this racing season in the 1½-mile Derby.

Ready for the Derby—except for the final honing—are Frank McMahon's Majestic Prince, the Steve B. Wilson Estate's Top Knight, Claiborne Farm's Dike and Paul Mellon's Arts and Letters.

Until latecomers like Rae Jet, owned by Mrs. Robert E. Harris, declared themselves as possible starters, the four threatened to make the 95th Derby field the smallest since Citation scared off most opposition in 1948.

If Rae Jet goes in the Derby, the field probably will total eight or nine, still one of the smaller fields in the last half century.

Majestic Prince's trainer, Johnny Longden, said he plans a short workout of half a mile or perhaps half a furlong Thursday or Friday "and that's it. He's ready."

Majestic Prince, owned by Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver, made a runaway of last Saturday's Stepping Stone Purse.

Some trainers are calling Majestic Prince, Top Knight, Dike and Arts and Letters the mightiest foursome assembled in racing in modern history.

Meanwhile, Peter Fuller confirmed he plans to continue his appeals of the purse redistribution that came after his Dancer's Image won last year's Derby, but later was accused of having an illegal medication in his system.

"Let us never forget that our country never would have come into being if laws — including racing regulations — were not questioned," Fuller told a banquet audience Monday night.

He said he felt his appeal of a Kentucky Racing Commission ruling on the Derby purse redistribution "will not weaken racing, but will strengthen it."

Dancer's Ima e was declared winner of th 1968 Derby, but the commission gave the $122,500 purse to second finishing Forward Pass. Fuller's lawyers have taken the case to the courts.

Three Big Winners

MONTREAL (CP) — Scotty Bowman does not believe in black magic, witchcraft or, the so-called Montreal Canadiens' jinx on St. Louis Blues.

In fact, the 30-year-old coach is confident his club will surprise a lot of people starting with tonight's second game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final.

"It never fails, when a Western Division team comes close, it's always because the Eastern Division club played badly," Bowman said in an interview Monday night.

"But lots of teams would have folded up their tents after going behind 2-0 in the first four minutes, but we didn't. We beat them for 55 minutes" and then, instead of tying it, lost on an empty-net goal.

Bowman felt his club could have played better Sunday when they dropped the series opener to the defending champions 3-1. And he had some choice words for the critics who say the Canadiens are going to wrap up the series in four straight games the way they did last year.

"Look, Boston (Bruins) were down two games in the semi-finals and we're only down one. We may not generate the same offensive excitement as the Bruins . . . all I'm saying is that we've got a good hockey club.

GLENN HALL

"The same people who are talking now about Canadiens are the same ones who picked St. Louis to finish sixth in 1967. No one gave us a hamble to end up on top this year and we did it by 19 points.

"When people like Sammy (Pollock, general manager of the Canadiens) say we've got a good team, you've got to believe them."

While Bowman and the Blues don't believe there is anything occult in the fact that they have only two ties in 15 regular season and playoff meetings with the Canadiens, they do have some superstitions.

Bowman insisted let trainer Tommy Woodcock wash the club's jerseys while the Blues were on a 10-game winning streak which included eight consecutive playoff victories to eliminate Philadelphia Flyers and Los Angeles Kings in the preliminaries.

However, Glenn Hall, scheduled to make a record 103rd Stanley Cup appearance tonight, has a superstition against superstitions.

"When I find myself getting into a situation that may become superstitious, I change my habits," said Hall, who won the Conn Smythe trophy last year as the most valuable playoff performer.

Bowman said "with a little luck," he will ice the same lineup tonight as he did Sunday afternoon, with the exception of Hall, who replaced Jacques Plante in goal.

Red Berenson, the Blues' offensive threat and Western Division scoring leader, picked up a charley horse Sunday when hit by Terry Harper in the second period and did not skate Monday in the voluntary workout.

The only doubtful starter for either team is St. Louis defenceman Barclay Plager. He was carried off the ice on a stretcher late in the game Sunday after he crashed hard into the boards while trying to nail Jacques Lemaire.

Doctors diagnosed the injury as a severe muscle spasm in the lower back after taking X-rays. Plager skated for only five minutes Monday and complained of being stiff and sore.

"He's a tough kid," said Bowman. "He says he can play, so don't be surprised to see him in lineup."

RED BERENSON

If Barclay can't make it, Bowman may call on his younger brother, Billy, or Ray Fortin, who joined the club for the playoffs from the Blues' Kansas City farm team in the Central Hockey League.

Humor Abounds

Hull Tries Hand As Emcee

MONTREAL (CP) — If the National Hockey League had any ideas of discontinuing its annual trophy award luncheon the thought must be dispelled today.

The league pulled away from its usual cut-and-dried formula Monday as Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins, Danny Grant of Minnesota North Stars and the St. Louis Blues goaltending duo of Glenn Hall and Jacques Plante were all on hand to accept their awards.

Alex Delvecchio, Detroit Red Wings veteran captain, also was honored, but found himself grounded in Detroit by the current Air Canada strike.

The speeches were short and the brief presentation ceremonies were liberally spiked with hockey humor dished out by Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks powerful left winger, as master of ceremonies.

League president Clarence Campbell said he feels the affairs now are sufficiently established to continue them in the future.

Esposito was presented with the Hart Memorial Trophy as the league's most valuable player and the Art Ross Trophy as the top point-getter for his record 126-point season.

Orr received the James Norris Memorial Trophy for the second straight season as the league's top defenceman, while Grant picked up the Calder Memorial Trophy as the season's top rookie and Delvecchio took the Lady Byng vote as the player best combining gentlemanly conduct and ability.

It was the first time since 1962-63 that the winners were selected in only one poll at the end of the regular schedule. In the previous 15 years, the selections were made in two polls—one at mid-season and the other at the end of the regular season.

Three members of the National Hockey League Writers' Association in each of the league's 12 cities were the voters. They voted on the basis of five points for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third.

Each of the winners receives $1,500 from the NHL and the runners-up in the four categories receive $750 each.

The only real surprise was in the Calder category, where Grant was given stiff opposition by Norm Ferguson of Oakland Seals. Grant polled 119 of a possible 180 points, only seven more than Ferguson.

Orr missed unanimous selection by only four points. He polled 176 points, 128 more than Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Ancient Abernathy Uses Underhanded Tactics to Rescue Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leo Durocher figures Ted Abernathy's underhanded tricks are too good to be true.

"It's seldom you get out of jams like that," the Chicago skipper said Monday night after Abernathy, the ancient submariner of the Cubs' bullpen, escaped a bases-loaded, none-out bind in the 10th inning, saving a 2-1 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

The 36-year-old relief specialist made Ron Santo's go-ahead single in the top of the 10th stand up by getting two Philadelphia pinch hitters to tap into force plays at the plate,then retiring a third on a roller to third baseman Santo.

"That was some kind of pitching," said Durocher, who admitted he had expected the game would get away from Abernathy. "Three ground balls, that's what you have to have."

While Abernathy's underhand slickerball was submerging the Phillies, a ball boy's ninth-inning blooper helped lift Los Angeles Dodgers past San Diego Padres 4-3.

Hank Aaron's 513th career homer paced Atlanta Braves to a 12-1 romp over Houston Astros; St. Louis Cardinals trimmed Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 behind left-hander Steve Carlton and San Francisco Giants edged Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in other NL games.

Abernathy, 36, whose 84 appearances for the Cubs four years ago stands as a National League mark, loaded the bases before he disposed of Johnny Briggs, Ron Stone and Rick Joseph to defeat the Phillies.

Rich Allen's third homer tied the game in the seventh, but the Cubs regained the lead in the 10th on a two-base error by left fielder Rojas, a sacrifice and Santo's single.

The Dodgers trailed 3-2 in the ninth when Bill Russell delivered a pinch single. Parker then drilled a liner that dropped just inside the line in left. When the ball boy, thinking the ball was foul, picked it up, third base umpire Paul Pryor waved Russell home and awarded a triple to Parker.

Parker held third as Willie Davis grounded to second baseman Jose Arcia for the second out, but Boyer broke the tie by beating out a roller to short.

Aaron moved past ex-teammate Ed Mathews into sixth place on the all-time homer list with a three-run wallop in the third inning as the Braves swamped the Astros. He delivered another run with a double in the four-run fourth.

The loss was the sixth in a row and 13th in 14 games for Houston.

Carlton fired a four-hitter, squaring his record at 3-2, as the Cards breezed past the Pirates after striking for three runs in the first inning. Joe Torre's two-run single keyed the burst.

Curt Flood drove in one run with a fourth-inning single and doubled and scored another on Vada Pinson's single in the eighth.

Bobby Bonds smashed a lead-off homer in the first inning and scored two more runs on singles by Willie Mays and Ron Hunt, leading the Giants past Cincinnati in a day game.

Gaylord Perry, aided to a 4-0 lead, s u r v i v e d seventh and ninth-inning homers by Tony Perez as the Giants protected their share of the Western Division lead.

McLellan, Gregory Take Over

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League started rebuilding from the top Monday by signing John McLellan, 40 as coach.

McLellan, a native of South Porcupine, Ont., inherits a team which finished fourth in the Eastern Division of the NHL this season and fifth in 1967-68.

Following the signing, he mentioned minor-league players who might give the Leafs a new look. They i n c l u d e d Danny Johnston, Brian Glennie, Chris Evans, Wayne Carleton, Andre Hinse and goalie George Aubey.

Jim Gregory, Leafs new general manager, said McLellan signed a two-year contract for an undisclosed amount.

Gregory and McLellan have taken the reins which George (Punch) Imlach had taken away from him after 11 years as manager-coach of the Leafs.

Imlach was fired after Toronto dropped four straight games to Boston Bruins in a best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

McLellan, who coached Tulsa Oilers to firs place in the Central Hockey League's Northern Division last season, said he has not had enough time to assess the Leafs individual talents.

Hurlers Sound Off

Ted's Also A Pitching Expert

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whatever Ted Williams has been saying to his hitters, they have been repeating loudly over and over again the last five games, but how do you explain how Washington's relief pitchers have been sounding off?

Williams, one of baseball's greatest sluggers, had hoped to impart some of his knowledge to the Senators' hitters and apparently has succeeded as they have hammered 39 runs for five consecutive victories.

But manager Williams must have some good ideas, too, on how to get batters out because his bullpen has not allowed a run in the last 25 2-3 innings.

The lessons worked well again Monday night as the Senators rolled up No. 5 by pasting Detroit Tigers 12-4 with Hank Allen driving in three runs and Dick Bosman posting four scoreless innings in relief of winner Camillo Pascual.

While the S e n a t o r s were sounding off again, Boston Red Sox finally were silenced when Frits Peterson of New York Yankees stopped them on three hits for a 1-0 victory, the first time in 12 games the Sox haven't hit a homer.

Minnesota blanked K a n s a s City Royals 4-0 as Twins Jim Perry scattered seven hits in the only afternoon game in a schedule curtailed by rain. Baltimore's game at Cleveland and the California contest at Seattle were washed out at night.

The Senators, who had managed only 25 runs in 12 games before their victory streak, jumped on Earl Wilson for two runs in the first inning on Allen's run-scoring hit and a throwing error by Al Kaline. They waited until the eighth to break loose again when Allen singled in two more runs and hits by Ken McMullen and Paul Casanova brought home two more.

Meanwhile, Pascual had held the Tigers to Dick McAuliffe's lead-off homer in the first before leaving after five innings in the 43-degree weather. That's when Bosman took over and blanked Detroit the final four innings, giving him 8 2-3 shutout innings.

The Red Sox had broken records with 26 homers in 19 consecutive games and 27 in 11 before running into Peterson, 3-3, who pitched the first complete game victory and the first shutout against them all season.

The run he needed came in the sixth with one out when Bobby Murcer lined the third hit off rookie Ray Jarvis, and Roy White doubled him home.

Successful Initiation

Alongside John Green (centre) is the Ontario boys' ten and under diving trophy which he won in his first competition. Maggie McDougall (foreground), who finished second in the girls' ten and under class, and Charles Green (background) also represented Belleville in the provincial competition.

Hockey Canada Fires Bownass

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Hap Emms, general manager of Canada's national hockey team, Monday confirmed Jack Bownass has been dismissed as coach by Hockey Canada, the new corporation handling the national team.

However Emms said Bownass "at no time worked for me" and the decision on his dismissal was taken about a week ago by others involved in Hockey Canada. He gave no names.

Emms said it had been decided earlier there were "too many on the coaching staff" of the team.

Emms, owner of the local Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, did not say who might replace Bownass.

Heart in St. Louis; Money on the Habs

While King Sadness reigns in Boston, there is hope in old St. Leo,
The dream is not impossible in the final die or do,
But consensus of the faithful with the Cup still up for grabs,
"In My heart is with St. Louis, but my money's on the Habs."

But the diehards down in Peasoupville, unshaken to nine cores
Chant loud and long in tavern song, "We'll take it all in four."
That dream is not impossible, and from it comes their "kicks"
But if what it takes is luck, and breaks, the series should go six.

But miracles can happen, though in sport they rarely do
Like the downfall of the Yankees, and the Czechs o'er Russia, too.
But the greatest thing to happen, since young David was a pup,
Would be the coming in St. Louis of the hoary Stanley Cup.

"Ole Mo" would let her hair down at her cotton-pickin' best
She'd dance to the Missouri Waltz, the Blues and all the rest;
Jesse James would ride again with the doughty Dalton boys,
The Cards would forget the "series" and their chirps would swell the noise.

"Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf" (the doughty men of Ruel)
"Not us," said Scotty's "Bowmen" after Sunday's thrilling duel,
"If they think of getting mouthfuls in the future torrid fights

In retrospect, the story goes, in Benny's Hideaway,
Many tears splashed in the beers as the Habs called it a day,
The sufflebeaders stood aghast, the pool balls wouldn't roll,
For then twas woe, as Beliveau, poked home that winning goal.

A pall of gloom fell o'er the room as the awful truth struck home,
Ah, sad were the eyes of the Boston guys as they ordered up more foam,
Then up spake an ex-Dodger fan, his voice rang out with cheer,
"Shak's da matter wit' youse guys — Just wait until next year."

Then' out of the gloom of the smoky room rose a loud exultant roar,
From O'Ellis, O'Mahoneys, O'Feavers — and a half a dozen more,
"Pay up the bets" they chanted." You're done as Boston whoopers Forget St. Leo, from now on you, should join with us peasoupers."

But grim-faced in a corner sat, a Hawk, last name O'Meara
"We need no guys to sympathize with our joys or sorrows
But with our grids
If I made a pitch to do a switch, I'd join the Maple Leafs."

And with a joyous hoot, Lemmy picked up the loot
Won from a travelling Bruins galoot.
"He may like those lobsters, scallops and crabs,
But from here on in he'll be backing the Habs."
A Boston believer, gently chided O'Feaver," Yours is the leather medallion,
"Real pea soup, by Hec, is made in Quebec, but your brand is strictly Italian."

Campbellford Players Assault Peterborough Ball Carrier

Former BCI Star

Ron Walsh Gets Hoop Acclaim

STAFF — Former BCI basketball star Ron Walsh has taken a big step forward in Canadian University hoop competition.

The smooth Queen's Golden Gaels guard, who was the second best scorer in the Ontario - Quebec Athletic Association eastern division this season, received honorable mention in the selection of the all - Canada college basketball squad.

The poll of college players and coaches across the country was the first of its kind in Canada and is comparable to the selection of all - American squads in the United States.

A product of a new organization, the National Association of Basketball Coaches of Canada, the poll selected a first and second team and two players of honorable mention.

Now completing his third year of medical studies at Queen's University, Walsh had an illustrious five - year athletic career at Belleville Collegiate Institute.

BCI junior basketball coach "Red" Townsend, for whom Walsh played on two Central Ontario championship teams, said: "Ron worked very hard and made himself a basketball player. He had marvellous co - ordination and possessed a tremendous variety of shots and manoeuvres."

"I'd say that he was one of the very best ball players who ever went through here," Townsend added.

A member of five Bay of Quinte championship teams, three Central Ontario championship clubs and a Queen's University Golden Ball Tournament Championship squad; Walsh's five-year career spanned the bantam, junior and senior age classifications.

Upon hearing the news of Walsh's honorable mention selection BCI senior hoop coach Wally Segear said "He was a tremendous basketball player. A coach doesn't do much with a player of that ability except watch."

Standing 5' 11" and weighing 165 pounds, Walsh also excelled on the gridiron, and his selection in 1964-65 and 1965-66 as Belleville Collegiate's Outstanding Male Athlete marks him as the only person in that school's history to receive that honor twice.

Lacrosse Scrimmage Draws Big Crowd

STAFF — More than 400 Bellevillians turned out at the Memorial Arena last night to see the local Senior "A" lacrosse club's first practice and inter-squad game with the Peterborough Junior "A" team.

Unfortunately, the senior squad, which has been renamed the Quinte Merchants, was unable to appear and sent the Campbellford Junior "B" squad to scrimmage with the Peterborough juniors.

Team director Ken Stephenson of Peterborough explained the senior club's absence "The senior coach Gerrard Byrne had to fly down to the U.S. last night on short notice and our equipment just arrived and hasn't been sorted out yet."

Stephenson also said that the club wasn't quite ready for a scrimmage because they haven't yet had a practice wearing their equipment and thus have had little taste of contact play so far.

The Teeters whomped Campbellford 15-5 in a wide open contest which was a bit ragged at times.

Prior to the scrimmage the Peterborough juniors gave instruction and tips to local youngsters who turned out in force with their own lacrosse sticks to learn the skills and tricks of Canada's national sport.

Club director Ray Mortimore of Belleville said that final word was expected today on the OLA Senior "A" schedule and added that he hoped the seniors would be able to run a scrimmage in Belleville late next week.

Joyces Search for Coach

The talent is there, but the Belleville Joyces, EOBA senior "A" entry isn't complete for the club lacks one essential ingredient—a coach.

The Joyces, who won the EOBA league title last season but suffered elimination at the hands of Kingston in the playoffs, are looking for a coach and anyone interested is asked to contact the Joyce Real Estate offices in Belleville.

Word came from the EOBA yesterday that the league schedule has been trimmed from 24 games to 14 this season.

An open practice session will be held Wednesday night at six o'clock at the Fairgrounds and everybody is welcome to attend and try out for the senior club.

Practices will continue after Wednesday in an effort to prepare the club for a home-and-away series with arch-rival Kingston on the 17th and 18th of May.

The Joyces will travel to Kingston to play the Lakeview Centennials on Saturday, May 17th and return home for the second game Monday, May 19th at the Fairgrounds.

Temple's Bobcats Return To Senior Softball Wars

The on again, off again Trent Valley Softball League is definitely on and will have a new entry this season, Bob Temple's Belleville Bobcats.

The Belleville entry brings to five the number of teams in the senior ball loop this season. The other entries are Cobourg, Madoc, Picton and Napanee.

The formation of the Bobcats by Bob Temple is actually a rebirth of the powerful Bobcats squad which Temple sponsored in Belleville in the fifties.

The Trent Valley League will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday at 7.30 p.m. at the Trenton Fire Hall and discuss a schedule for the coming season.

161 Athletes Represent Canada

EDINBURGH (CP) — The biggest team of athletes that Canada has ever sent abroad will take part in the 1970 Commonwealth Games in Scotland.

Col. Jack Davies, president of the Commonwealth Games Association of Canada, told a press conference Monday he expects the team of 161 athletes—114 men and 47 women—to shine, particularly in swimming.

The Canadian contingent will also be the largest from overseas, second only in strength to England.

Five Skiers Resign

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Al Raine, head coach of the Canadian national ski team, said Monday that five senior team members who resigned did so to save face.

Raine was commenting on a statement by Keith Nesbitt, general manager of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, that he received an unsigned report "apparently from a member or group of members" of Canada's national Alpine ski team saying that five senior team members have resigned.

The five are Judi Lairweber, 18 Kimberley, B.C.; Rosemarie Townsend, 21 Banff, Alta.; Carrie Chapman, 19 Montreal; Bob Swan, 25 Chelsea, Que.; John Ritchie, 19 Port Arthur.

Nesbitt said the report criticizes the Alpine ski program and coach Al Raine.

Raine said the five who resigned were some of those told in advance they would not be required for Canada's national team next year. It was just a matter of resigning to save face, he said.

Don't be surprised if they travel twice as far as the tires that came with your car

Tire wear is caused mainly by tire squirm . . . the flexing, rubbing action of the tread at higher speeds. Radial tires eliminate most of this but give a much harder ride than North American drivers are used to.

The Seiberling Voyageur 130 combines the best of both worlds. It uses two bias plies of polyester cord . . . the way the tires you have on your car now are made . . . plus a two ply fiberglas belt around the circumference of the tire. This gives the softer ride you want, but keeps the tread more stable. Tire squirm is practically eliminated to give you many thousands of miles more safe service.

The Voyageur 130 has a new wider tread and an elegant twin ribbon whitewall and when you consider the many, many extra miles of carefree driving you can expect, it might just be the least expensive tire you can buy.

This Seiberling Supreme 150 is one of the most popular tires in the line. It is made with Polytex 'A', Seiberling's own polyester cord, in four ply, and it features a smart patterned whitewall. The Supreme 150 will give you an exceptionally smooth ride and many extra miles of trouble-free driving.

Vote May Be Held on Single Farm Organization

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart Monday introduced a bill that will permit a secret-ballot ...tion poll of farm families on whether they want a single farm organization in Ontario.

The bill establishes the broad outline of the structure and powers of the proposed organization.

The legislation was promised to provincial farmers last year after a committee which studied farm incomes in Ontario recommended creation of a single voice on farm affairs.

Mr. Stewart told the legislature if 60 per cent of the farmers who vote approve the single-organization proposal, the legislation provides authority for a founding convention.

The single organization proposed by the farm income committee is favored by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture but has been opposed by the Ontario Farmers Union.

The poll will be conducted in midsummer under supervision of the department of agriculture, provided a petition from 15,000 Ontario farmers has been received requesting such action.

Farmers, their wives and families over 21 engaged in the farm operation will be able to vote in the poll.

Purposes and objects of the single organization as outlined by Mr. Stewart to the legislature are:

To conduct research; represent farmers before any level of government, any boards or commissions; develop and carry out programs for the benefit of farmers; study and make recommendations on the policies and procedures of government or its agencies or boards; and to seek formation of a single Canadian organization.

Mr. Stewart said the purpose of a single organization is to establish financial stability through a form of check-off on farm products marketed in Ontario.

The check-off will be a maximum of two-tenths of one per cent of the dollar value of total sales of the product.

"If this means of financing the organizatio is approved in the opinion poll the organization will receive its funds through compulsory levies assessed against the commodity boards and associations," Mr. Stewart said.

The single organization would be governed by a provincial council with power to pass by-laws which would be subject to ratification at annual conventions.

The bill does not spell out the composition of the provincial council nor the manner of electing members.

New Law on Refining of Ores Cannot Be Enforced to Limit

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-three of the 26 mining companies in Ontario would be out of business Jan. 1, 1970, if provisions of the government's proposed amendment to the Mining Act were harshly enforced, Mines Minister Allan Lawrence said Monday.

Mr. Lawrence said in an interview that the amendment, which faces second reading in the legislature and which requires all ores and minerals mined in Ontario to be refined in Canada, will apply on Jan. 1 to all new mining projects.

But for existing producers "we just can't act that harshly."

Mr. Lawrence read in the legislature Monday a letter to a mining executive which he said later may help establish the pattern that will be applied to existing producers.

Addressed to R. D. Mollison, vice-president of Texas Gulf Sulphur Ltd., the Aswl 21 letter set out Ontario's wish that the company build a zinc smelter at Timmins to refine ore taken from its Kidd Creek operations. Announcement that the smelter would be built was made Thursday.

The letter reads in part:

"We have not yet announced publicly, but will have to do so shortly, our objective that initially, unless special circumstances warrant an exception, at least 51 per cent of base metal concentrate from any Ontario mining operation should be processed as soon as feasible to the metal stage in Canada, and as time goes on, this percentage will be expected to increase."

Mr. Lawrence said later that Texas Gulf had told him flatly that the company simply couldn't be ready by Jan. 1 to refine all its zinc from the Kidd Creek operations.

"We said all right but you have to refine at least 51 per cent now."

The government had also made it clear that after five years of operation, it would expect the Timmins smelter to be processing at least 75 per cent of the zinc concentrate at Timmins.

The mines minister said this sort of pattern may also be applied to other companies.

He hoped that Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd., which now processes only 30 per cent of Ontario nickel in Canada, would be coming closer to Ontario's wishes later this year.

"The act has to be administered reasonably," he said. "No one would expect us to close down these companies on Jan. 1. But one long term objective is to get that figure up to 100 per cent refining in Canada and we felt it was only fair to put this objective in statutory form."

REGISTERS PROFIT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations Children's Fund sold $0,000,000 greeting cards in 115 countries during a year's time and registered a $3,200,000 profit.

Education Subsidy Costs Not Certain

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Monday he may have to ask the Ontario legislature to pass supplementary estimates to cover the costs of additional financial assistance being given some municipalities where education costs have soared following establishment of the county board system.

Replying in the legislature to Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, Mr. MacNaughton said he can not yet estimate the total cost of the additional assistance and refused to comment on a newspaper report that placed the figure at $50,000,000.

However, if more money were needed than is provided in the year's budget, it probably would be obtained by supplementary estimates.

Education Minister William Davis announced last week that unconditional grants would be provided for municipalities where property taxes were expected to rise sharply.

Several municipalities had complained to the government that property taxes might have to rise as much as 120 per cent because of rising education costs.

Some blamed implementation of the county board system under which about 1,000 public school boards were amalgamated into 100 boards at the beginning of this year.

Hospitals Allowed To Switch Funds

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Commission no longer limits hospital spending to the exact dollar amounts listed for each item in a budget, Health Minister Matthew Dymond said Monday.

Beginning in 1969, "hospitals may expend the funds they deem necessary and this permits a switch of funds from one category to another," he told the Ontario legislature.

"We are trying to introduce some sense of responsibility on the part of hospital boards and the administration.

"We hope that by providing them with something in the form of a module budget they will be persuaded or induced or seduced into adopting modern practices, good business practices."

It is necessary, however, in some cases to "keep a reasonable light check" on executive salaries "in order that the rest of the hospital operation will not suffer," he said.

"In certain areas, particularly in the higher executive salary levels, there is a tendency to go a little bit overboard from time to time on the part of some hospitals."

Hospitals were required to stay within approved costs for each category. Approval for additional spending was given only if a hospital presented a budget amendment showing the increased costs in any category were beyond its control.

Dr. Dymond said the new method permits flexibility in meeting the terms of contracts negotiated with its workers.

Ontario and Firms Discussing Medicare

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is discussing with all large health insurance companies its draft proposal that they become carriers if the province enters the federal medical care scheme, Health Minister Matthew Dymond said Monday.

In answer to questions in the legislature from NDP Leader Donald MacDonald, the health minister said the proposal is the same as was offered to Physicians Services Inc., a doctor-sponsored scheme with about 1,000,000 subscribers which recently rejected the idea.

Dr. Dymond refused to table the draft proposal since "it is still a matter of discussion with all carriers who seemed big enough to act as a public authority."

However, he confirmed for Mr. MacDonald that it contains a clause saying the private companies will refer all applicants for medical insurance to the public authority that would be set up if Ontario enters the federal program.

Ontario has been discussing the possibilities of extending Medicare with the federal health department, but Dr. Dymond has not yet announced the province's intentions.

De Gaulle's Successor Virtually Unknown Before Yesterday

PARIS (AP) — Alain Poher, who took over from Charles de Gaulle, was virtually unknown to the French public before he moved into Elysee Palace on Monday.

His activity had been largely limited to the Senate, where he has served off and on since 1946.

As president of the Senate, Poher automatically became provisional president to organize elections within 30 to 35 days.

Poher, often the flag-waver for various centre movements, is sometimes called overly cardid but politically adept.

His single political passion is a united Europe: "Our country is alone in the wide, wide world and can no longer play the role that is now hers," he said in his campaign for "Yo" votes in Sunday's referendum.

Son of a highly successful engineer, Poher himself is a mining engineer, as well as a lawyer and holder of university degrees in economics and political science.

In addition to serving with the French Resistance during the Second World War, he spent most of his career as a government functionary or public officeholder.

Poher was born in Ablon-Sur-Seine on April 17, 1909. He has been mayor of his home town since 1945, having won the Croix de Guerre and been made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor for his service in the Resistance.

A chubby, round-faced man with greying hair, Poher lives with his wife of 31 years. Henriette, in a comfortable gardened house in Ablon-Sur-Seine, southeast of Paris. There on weekends, they are visited by their married daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter.

"Brutally projected into history at age 60," is the way one newspaper described Poher's present position.

Projected, perhaps. But behind the change was the sharp personality conflict between the previous Senate president, Gaston Monnerville, a Negro from Guyana who has long lived in France, and de Gaulle.

Monnerville and de Gaulle refused to look at each other when, by accident, they found themselves on the same platform. De Gaulle's ministers would not go to the Senate when Monnerville was presiding.

Monnerville knew de Gaulle was out to reduce the powers of the Senate and resigned last year to remove himself as part of the general's motivation. But de Gaulle went ahead with his plan.

The senators, looking nervously for someone who would take the personal passion out of their relations with de Gaulle, swept Poher into their top post.

Huskies Howl Welcome for Michener As 9,000-mile Arctic Tour Continues

GRISE FIORD, N.W.T. (CP) — Howling husky dogs wailed their welcome for Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener Monday as he visited this Eskimo settlement located in a beautiful valley surrounded by towering hills on the southern coast of Ellesemere Island.

The Governor-General and Mrs. Michener and their party, whose 11-day, 9,000-mile tour of Canada's eastern Arctic and Keewatin regions ends Friday, made a six-hour stop in this community of about 100 Eskimos after travelling from their base at Resolute on Cornwallis Island in three DC3 aircraft.

Children of the village of about two dozen small houses greeted the vice-regal couple as they arrived at the settlement aboard a sled drawn by motorized toboggan. Mr. and Mrs. Michener sat upon mattresses on the sled for the bumpy, two-mile ride from the landing strip.

Along their path to the community, the party passed an igloo built for its visit, several packs of sled dogs and piles of jagged ice formations glistening in the sun with a magnificent blue color.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Michener were taken on a dog-sled ride, the Eskimo driver cracking his whip over the pack as the sled bumped over the packed snow and ice. The vice-regal party also visited the igloo and went inside to inspect its construction.

The group then rode back towards the hills, some of which rise to peaks of 2,000 feet, for lunch in the settlement's school and an assembly at the village gathering place, when the Governor-General spoke to the inhabitants.

Among the audience were many mothers garbed in colorful native dress carrying infants on their backs.

Mr. and Mrs. Michener were presented with two white fox furs and a toque after being told by the community teacher, one of the few white inhabitants, that some of the villagers were away hunting polar bears and couldn't be there to greet the party.

During the visit, a large Canadian forces Argus aircraft made several low passes among the hills, finally dropping a canister on the ice. Retrieved by Eskimo children, it was found to contain a few issues of a newspaper from Sanmerside, P.E.I., and one issue of a well-known men's magazine.

Quebec Gets Its Budget

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Finances Minister Paul Dozois presents the 1969-70 Union Nationale budget tonight and taxpayers will find out whether he stood alone in the government during the past few months when he claimed that taxes cannot be increased this year.

An indication of backing came from Montreal Monday night when Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand told a service club that provincial taxation has reached a point where any new increase might discourage savings and lower productivity.

Mr. Dozois' speech tonight will deal primarily with how the government intends to spend a record total estimate of more than $3,900,000,000—a figure the finance minister tabled in the national assembly in early March.

Jean Lesage, the Opposition Liberal leader, has said that an election will be unavoidable if the budget does not increase taxes further.

Marijuana Bill Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A government amendment designed to permit more flexibility in court handling of marijuana and other narcotics cases was introduced in the Commons health committee Monday night.

Promised more than a month ago by Health Minister John Munro, the amendment would permit possession to be classed as a summary as well as an indictable offence.

J. D. McCarthy, general counsel for the health department, said it would permit narcotics cases to be dealt with by a broader range of courts and would relieve courts now "chock full" of marijuana cases.

The amendment, to the Narcotic Control Act, would provide for a $1,000 fine or six months imprisonment or both for first summary conviction.

The maximum seven years' imprisonment for an indictable offence would remain.

Replying to committee questions, Mr. McCarthy said the change does not mean elimination of criminal records for those receiving summary convictions. But it would provide more flexibility.

The amendment was introduced by Rosaire Gendron, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Munro, but did not immediately come to a vote.

Both Steve Paproski (PC—Edmonton Centre) and Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) said they wanted more time to examine the legal implications before taking a position.

Liberal members urged that the clause be dealt with but the issue was sidetracked as members were called to the Commons for votes on the Criminal Code amendments.

Move Against Mergers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration trust-busters have made their second move in two weeks to curb the trend toward conglomerate mergers by filing suit against the giant International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

I.T. and T. was challenged Monday by United States District Court in Chicago on acquisition three days earlier of Canteen Corp., a food and vending company with 1967 revenue of $323,000,000.

The justice department complaint charged that the acquisition might lead to other mergers, a tendency government anti-trust chief Richard W. McLaren says he means to stop.

I.T. and T., the 13th largest business in the U.S., thus joined Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., the 7th largest, as a defendant in separate government lawsuits to slow the rate of economic concentration.

The justice department filed suit two weeks ago to stop LTV's purchase of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

In addition to further entering economic power in a company whose 1967 sales were $1,600,000,000, the government suit charged, the I.T. and T.-Canteen merger would strengthen I.T. and T.'s power to favor its customers with purchases, a practice called reciprocity.

Stirring Performance

Messiah Proves Seasonal Highlight in City

By EUGENE LANG

"Words are wanting to express the exquisite delight it afforded to the admiring crowded audience". That sentence describing the first performance of Georg Frederick Handel's immortal Oratorio Messiah on Tuesday April 13, 1742, appeared in Faulkner's Journal in Dublin, Ireland four days later after a crowd of above 700 had heard the historic premiere of 'a Sacred Oratorio' for the first of thousands of performances that it would have from that day to this.

In the intervening 227 years and 18 days this noble composition has been sung perhaps by choirs large, medium and small more than any other religious work in all history, as it has encircled the globe untold times in its over two and a quarter centuries of existence. Thus, in the performance given last evening by the Bridge Street Church augmented choir under the direction of Robert Reid before a packed audience of over 300 avid listeners in Bridge Street United Church, the same opening sentence quoted above could aptly apply in all respects.

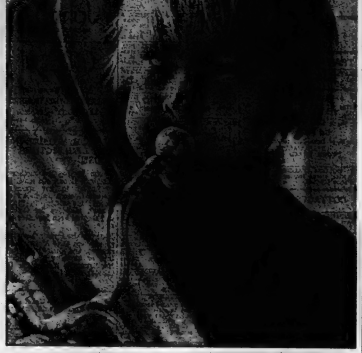
The 60 voices which made up the choral group were representatives of many churches in the city that combined for one purpose only and that was to give a stirring rendering of Handel's perenial favorite among all his oratorios, and in that they succeeded admirably on all counts. Four soloists of sterling quality highlighted the three hours that it required to present 41 of the 56 sections that make up the concerted whole, and it is to these that we first turn our attention in this review. Tenor Larry Brown of Toronto after sustained measured pace in the Comfort Ye encompassed the long passages of Every Valley with clean articulation. In his singing of Thou Shalt Break Them we were recipients of the best reading enlivened with active propulsions and his revivification of But Thou Didst Not Leave His Soul in Hell was delivered in tenoric terms of virginous vibrancy.

The deeply resonant baritone voice of William Perry of Lindsay persuasively enunciated Thus saith the Lord of Hosts that gave way to dramatic motion in But who may Abide. Latent intensity was evident in his dire declamations of Why do the Nations that demonstrated his wide range and surety of vocal steppings in his astute swiftness of pace. Stentorian singing was noticeable in Behold I tell you a Mystery that broke forth into an impassioned interpretation of the exciting The trumpet shall Sound.

Again Toronto was represented in the presence of Contralto Doris Brown. To the aria O thou that Tellest an emotion of requisite compassion was carefully conveyed while in He shall feed His Flock we were transported into a poignant evocation set with self instilled composure that the soloist nobly subdued to the reverence of the textual meaning. Expressivity was the keynote of the moving rendition of He was Despised that emitted from this rich contralto voice.

The soprano solos were sung by Hazelanne Reid in a manner that has always endeared her to area audiences. The difficult Rejoice Greatly was voiced with brook-like clarity that exhibited the lyrical stream of her flowing tones with shimmering wavelets of appealing floridity. The sicilana pastorality of How beautiful are the Feet was velvet in texture with softness interweaved in dulcet caressings. One of Handel's most beautiful arias is the incomparable "I know that my Redeemer Lived and in this we were treated to a revealing purity by the singer in a veil of sustenance couched in serene humility.

Passages of melisma (where one syllable flowers out into passages of several notes) were given with agility by all four vocalists.



As for the choir, they were excellent (with one exception) in all of their numbers. And the glory of the Lord elicited controlled coherence as did For unto us a Child is Born with the principal subject thrown thither and yon in an even balance of four parts with nicety of detail. His yoke is Easy brought out soft hues with the sopranos enquiring in their gentle phrasings. The vocal forces demonstrated very favorable balance in the long held lines of the devout Behold the Lamb of God and the pangs of tragedy were enchanted in reciprocated dialogue in the lament of Surely He hath born our Griefs. Lift up your Heads appeared ragged on opening but gained force as it progressed, although did it not fully measure up in portrayal. Hallelujah was shovered in a burst of glory throughout in a majestic performance. Final two choruses Worthy is the Lamb and Amen after three gratifying hours bissed forth in the full panoply of Handelian pomposity with the augmented choir traversing the fugal labyrinths (treacherously set in by the composer) with conquering fashion in final paean of concerton stability and powerful utterance.

Violinists Stephen Chorne, Marion Stretton, William Grant and Joachim Reimann were of the utmost musical value at all times as their playing enhanced every measure that they so diligently traversed in the lengthy score. All owe them a debt of gratitude for their fine accompaniments. The Pastoral Symphony gave them full opportunity to show their worth as they united strings brought ethereal beauty to every measure of this treasured interlude.

S. Alec Gordon provided expressive backings by his tastefully registered organ accompaniments as is always his wont. Timpanist Dwayne Ellis provided basic two tone pulsings in the larger choruses upon which the rest of the musical edifice was constructed.

To Robert Reid our sincere appreciation for a fine evaluation of the magnificent opus which never fails to thrill audiences the world over. His perspicacity on the local musical scene has been apparent in his every endeavor, and this one more musical highlight has served to attest again to his keen musical mind, executive conductorial knowledge and artistic ability in all that he reaches out for and so resolutely accomplishes with each successive appearance.

Opening greetings were given by Rev. Harry M. Davis to the large throng in attendance in words that interested in religious uplifting the voice in faith that followed.

Freedom Said at Stake

EDMONTON (CP) — An American journalism professor told the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters Monday that the battle for freedom of the press is being lost in North America.

John Tebbel of New York University told 500 convention delegates that threats to press and broadcasting freedom come from both government and the public.

"Already an alarming number of (U.S.) high school students, according to specialized polls, not only have no belief in newspapers or broadcasting, but do not favor freedom of the press, and advocate strict controls. These incipiently fascistic sentiments are reflected in adult opinion."

Mr. Tebbel said "there is no country in the world today where broadcasting is completely free from government control of some kind, varying from total to qualified."

He said the freedom that remains is being nibbled away continuously on a variety of fronts.

Political authorities impose great tangles of administrative regulations on news media operation and also regulate the content of news, sometimes directly and sometimes by "news-managing" public relations techniques, Mr. Tebbel said.

He said all levels of government and the political system directly suppress news and interfere, as at the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago, with news-gathering activities.

While the public might be expected to defend press and broadcasting freedom as an essential part of democracy, people in fact have grown intensely and irrationally hostile to the news media, Mr. Tebbel said.

The hostility takes different forms and has different sources:

1. People believe more in what they see and hear on television, than in what they read, and they have come to think that newspapers lie.

2. People are upsetting and shocking things happen on their television screens, and they irrationally hold the news media responsible for their shock and upset.

3. People believe, out of ignorance that the publicity given protesting minorities is responsible for the militancy and violence of these minorities.

4. Many student radicals hold an authoritarian Marxist-Leninism view that the press should be in the hands of the state and should be a direct instrument of particular social goals.

5. People simply do not know how to read newspapers, and they are frustrated by their inability to understand the world.

Mr. Tebbel said broadcasters and journalists in North America may not be as alive to threats to their freedom as are journalists in Western Europe, where authoritarian states are close at hand.

But he said the threat on this continent is a "clear and present" one, and the media must try to close the gap between themselves and the public. In the short term, the media must make great efforts to cure some of the institutional ills which remain in the industry, and they must engage in and listen to and watch radio and television broadcasts.

THEY COULDN'T BUILD A FENCE

So farmers like Joseph Glidden of Illinois developed barbed wire in the 1870's to replace expensive fences of wood and stone. 'Cause it cost so little, the use of barbed wire spread rapidly and ended the open range period. Invented by cowboys.

IS YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW LIKE MOTHER GOOSE?

If she is like the mother of Elizabeth Goose, she sings funny jingles to her grandson. Mother Goose's son-in-law suggested the name in Mother Goose's Melodies for Children and they've been favorites ever since.

Your children may have outgrown both their Mother Goose rhymes and their baby furniture or anything else with an Intelligencer Want Ad. Dial 962-9171 today!

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Sterilization is in the news—because it is in the minds of many men and women. I doubt that they think of this problem in terms of world "overpopulation" so much as they do in terms of inter-personal and inter-family relationships.

Often the question of whether or not to take "the pill" is what motivates husband and wife to consider actual sterilization by surgery. Here is a wife in favor of male sterilization:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: This may sound funny coming from a woman but after reading the letter in your column from a reader concerning a morbid reaction to male sterilization I felt I must defend the operation. The age of the man was 55 years.

Within our family there have been three such operations.

1) My husband — 37 years — married 18 years and has five children. I could not possibly be sterilized at this age.

2) A brother-in-law — 33 years — married at 21 and had seven children but only three are living.

3) Another brother-in-law — 36 years — married at 23 with two children now 12 and 13. These families are all in the $10,000 to $15,000 income bracket.

The most recent operation was one year ago, the others were five and seven years ago. May I say that the mental attitudes of all three men have been excellent.

Physically there is no change — if anything, improved. Relations between husband and wife are even better than before.

One important thing my gynecologist told me was this must be the man's decision. He must want it or the results might be drastic. (Personally, when I signed the consent papers it was the hardest thing I have ever had to do. I was scared.)

The wife's attitude is a very significant factor in the success of such an operation. A man is no less a man because of it.

Age may well play a very important part in this. These operations were all performed at an age when our men were quite virile. We wives were not plagued by the problems of menopause.

Warning: Don't do it unless both parties are sure and in full agreement.

This is a very private matter. The only discussion about this operation should take place between the parties personally involved. In only one of these cases do even the parents know about it.

Thank you for letting me tell another side of the story. I think it will give many of your readers something important to think about. Not only on moral but on practical grounds.

Shall the woman with a large family already, take the pill for the rest of her life — worried that it may do her harm? Shall she use other kinds of contraceptives?

Or, are the husband and wife mature enough to withstand the emotional impact of female or male sterilization by operation? All this is at the very basis of our society. Why not bring it out in the open? I think you are doing a great service by doing so. (I'm assuming, of course, that you will print my letter.) — Mrs. X.

Comment: It's important. It's in the open. I hope to receive many other honest evaluations from readers which I shall, from time to time, incorporate in the column as a public and "private" service.

Canada Likely to Press Again For Increase in Seaway Tolls

OTTAWA (CP) — Official Ottawa didn't bat an eyelash when U.S. Congressman Roman C. Pucinski said last week the U.S. Lawrence Seaway is "dangerously close" to bankruptcy.

Canadian authorities don't need to be told that the seaway is having money troubles. Its financial plight has been an issue for several years.

Pierre Camu, president of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said in an interview Monday his annual report to Parliament, is due in about two weeks and "it will tell the same old story."

The seaway is making an op not even make a beginning on the retirement of its debt.

eraling profit, he said, but can-

Since the seaway is International, its tolls can be changed only by agreement between Canada and the United States. The last time the tolls were reviewed, in 1968, it was Washington, yielding to the heavy pressure of the Great Lakes states, that blocked an increase.

The question comes up again next year and Mr. Camu said it looks as though Canada again will favor a toll increase. He recalled that he told the Commons transport committee a s e v e r a l weeks ago the seaway authority will have to look for an increase on the basis of present traffic volume and forecasts.

Mr. Pucinski, an Illinois Democrat, has introduced a private bill in the U.S. House of Representatives that he says would convert the debt of the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. into a government investment.

He said a toll increase is not the answer.

Present seaway tolls are 40 cents a ton for bulk cargo, 90 cents for general cargo and four cents for each gross registered ton of a ship's weight.

Canada is by far the bigger partner in the seaway, collecting 72 cents of every dollar taken in tolls.

The Canadian authority had a debt of $383,000,000 in the Canadian treasury at the end of 1967, while that of its U.S. counterpart in the U.S. treasury was $146,700,000.

The seaway debt is supposed to be paid off by 2002, 50 years after the opening of the Montreal-Lake Ontario waterway.

Builder Says School Boards Should Assume Cost Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Builder J. A. Whalen of London, Ont., said Monday school boards should take responsibility for cost control to keep school construction costs down.

He told a panel discussion at the Ontario Association of School Business Officials convention it is wrong to criticize architects and builders for rising school construction costs.

Mr. Whalen also said school boards, architects, builders, government officials and educators should jointly lay down school design and construction standards.

Under this arrangement, the education department could serve as a watchdog to see that standards are met.

The building industry took its lumps from other panelists for high costs. Toronto architect F. R. Nicol said construction was the most inefficient industry in terms of economic use of labor.

Reacting to criticism against the Ontario government's ceiling on grants for school construction, R. F. Lawton, a provincial education department official, said the move was caused by the concern over increases in cost.

Mr. Nichol also said school contracts approved by the Ontario Municipal Board within 30 days would lead to considerable savings in costs.

By delaying the approval—which takes up to 90 days—the OMB was also delaying fast starts and fast tendering, he said. He explained contractors increase their charges in anticipation of the OMB delay.

D. W. Gilmore, solicitor for the Toronto board of education, said public works construction programs could be seriously held up as the result of the recently-passed expropriation act which enables home-owners to have an official inquiry if they wish.

Mr. Gilmore said the act didn't specify the time within which an inquiry had to be set up and that there would always be a number of people in an area who would use this to delay an expropriation decision.

About 300 business representatives from Ontario schools are attending the four-day conference due to conclude Wednesday.

Passport Situation Muddled

OTTAWA (CP) — J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley) complained in the Commons Monday that the Air Canada strike has made it physically impossible to get passports to the Maritimes from Ottawa quickly.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the complications raised by the Air Canada strike don't begin until April 30 for the passport office are "even greater" than those mentioned by Mr. Nowlan.

Mr. Sharp said he plans to launch an investigation program in a few days to advise applicants of the situation. He was replying to David MacDonald (PC—Egmont), who said it should be made clear it may take months to get a passport rather than weeks.

Five employees of the passport office here resigned last week when told they would have to work 52 hours a week to handle a flood of applications.

Mr. Sharp told R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal) the passport staff has been increased by scores. He expected the peak of applications to be reached by mid-June.

Mr. Fairweather asked why regional offices are not being set up. Mr. Sharp said this is not easy. Staff had to be trained and security could not be sacrificed for speed.

Ed Schreyer (NDP—Selkirk) asked what provisions are being made for those who lose financially because of passport delays. Mr. Sharp said he will deal with this in a statement to the House on the over-all situation.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) suggested the department, reissue passports for five years instead of issuing new ones.

Mr. Sharp said this would not be wise. The department was trying to improve security. Canada had not done its reputation any good by loosely issuing passports in the past.

Toronto Journalists Each Given 14 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Sydney Durward (Terry) Tremayne, 34, and Donald MacRitchie Johnston, 28, two Toronto newspapermen, were each sentenced Monday to 14 years in prison after pleading guilty to importing 150 pounds of m a r i j u a n a from Kenya in bongo drums.

Johnston earlier pleaded guilty to conspiring to import the marijuana and Tremayne had pleaded guilty to possession for the purpose of trafficking. Charges were laid after police raided a downtown warehouse Nov. 20 and seized marijuana valued by police at $240,000.

Three others arrested in the raid will be sentenced May 8 on charges of possession for the purposes of trafficking. They are Kerry Charles Bindon, 24, an immigrant from Australia; Richard Kitchener Everett, 22, and James Douglas Shier, 20, both of Bracebridge, Ont. Shier pleaded guilty to the charge while Bindon and Everett were convicted last Tuesday.

Judge Everett Weaver, in passing sentence, said Tremayne and Johnston were involved in a "sophisticated plan to import a gigantic amount of marijuana."

Defence counsel Arthur Wahby indicated he would appeal.

Seized in the police raid were 302 animal-skin bongo drums containing marijuana and a quantity of loose marijuana in green plastic bags.

Needs Outrun Supplies

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The problem of "population" is far more complex than we ordinarily assume. It is not merely a matter of having too many people to feed or house properly — it is a matter of social needs outrunning personal supplies.

Take one example, not commonly considered as being part of the population problem — the dissatisfaction in the nation's colleges "and universities. With a few exceptions, this is as much a matter of size as of anything.

Students in the large universities feel "depersonalized" — that is, there are so many of them that none feels like an individual, or feels that he is getting the training and direction he needs on a personal basis. Much of the from this sense of being mass-processed through the machinery of college.

Now the obvious answer would be, say, to break down a college of 30,000 students into 10 units of 3,000 each. But this would not be much of an answer, because of the scarcity of professional talent relative to the booming demand for a college education today. There never have been enough good teachers; now there are not even enough above-average ones.

Ifyou turn the university into 10 smaller, individualized colleges, how do you discover and disperse the teachers from the university? They can only be in one place at once, so that the demand for more college teachers would rise at an exponential rate impossible to satisfy.

The same is happening with medical care in our society. As the standard of living goes up, and as more people are able to avail themselves of medical services, there is an increasing gap between the numbers of doctors and the numbers of the doctor-patient relationship as about the student-professor relationship.

A large rise in number always means a change in scale. A policeman in a city has a far different role from a policeman in a village; and it is the increasing density of the urban complex that has brought "crime in the streets" to its present peak, rather than any "moral" or "governmental" laxness

Through technology, we may find means of feeding and clothing an immense world population. But the chief problem will be adapting our social mechanisms to the peripheral needs of all these people, which grow in a geometric ratio while their mere numbers increase only arithmetically.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "gratifying improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among those case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief occurred in cases of long standing, and in one important of all, results were so thorough that a re - juvenation was maintained over a period of many months.

The was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

Your Birthday today: Prepare for a change in both your activity and the attention other people pay to you. Occasional moments of emotional stress recur, and something is to be learned from each. Today's natives tend to be imaginative, passionate, open-handed, and care free most of the time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Sell your ideas with emphasis on people not familiar with you and your tactics. Offer a completely honest deal, take what is readily available and go on. Do not tie yourself up in lengthy discussions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): There are so many changes made today you should take steps to carry that yourself expected to do things you have not even attempted before. Others look to be first into it.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Get comfortable, then pursue your pet projects. All hands, are pleased that you get yourself busy.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Today is a turning point. Look after your own premises and equipment, plan for a quiet evening with a few friends.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Ask for more income if you have weathered recent crisis in good form. Improve your personality, your appearance

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): It is all right to scatter your energies today. Check over your personal effects, decide on what should be bought. Get it this weekend.

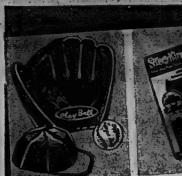
LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Today seems relatively free of stress and pressures, so you are able to float through the day on your own terms. Be careful that you don't unconsciously encourage people to go at each other.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Your perspective improves and you wonder what you have been thinking of. Spend the day revamping and shaping your plans to fit the new information you've just checked out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Keep on following your own nose without regard for what seems to be right for everybody else. There is always something you can do about the complication.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): More things are going for you than you realize. But you are not in a position to stop and count blessings, wait tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): People from strange places, recurring visitors make the day alive. Get the most out of these people. A lot of advantage is to be gained.



PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Use your head, get more advice, but keep going on the same track as yesterday. Don't free if it seems not enough people agree with you. That will take care of itself rather soon.

Early Announcement Likely

Piasecki Aircraft of Philadelphia May Buy Picton Camp

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The United States aircraft firm negotiating for the purchase of the Picton Army Camp has been identified as the Piasecki Aircraft Corporation of Philadelphia, and an announcement is expected within a week.

That the Piasecki Aircraft Corporation was negotiating for the purchase of the Picton Army Camp was confirmed today by a company spokesman in a telephone conversation with The Intelligencer.

"But it is still not official we are moving to Picton — an announcement will be made possibly within a week," it was stated.

Negotiations for the sale of the Picton Army Camp are being carried out by the Crown Assets Corporation in Ottawa and are currently at the cabinet level.

Yesterday Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton said he was "more confident than ever now" that Picton would get the aircraft industry.

Mayor McFarland said "everything is going 100 per cent. I think things will be settled this week."

The Piasecki Aircraft Corporation manufactures helicopters and early rumors were to the effect that, if the Picton Army Camp was completed, the firm would employ up to 300 persons.

For the past two months visiting industrialists have been touring the $14 million site on Picton's outskirts. The economic stakes for the area are high, with one report suggesting the helicopter project might engender gross sales of nearly a billion dollars over the next 15 years.

Piasecki interest in the camp is reported to centre around its seven hangars, buildings and runways that make up the major portion of the 23-year-old military establishment. The 13-room school and the 250 married quarters are not involved.

Israeli Commandos Attack Nile Dam

Bacteria, Viruses Stockpiled by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is opening a broad investigation of U.S. weapons potentially as deadly as nuclear fallout — including one where a bomb the size of a fruit jar could wipe out all life within a cubic mile without warning or remedy.

The weapons are gas, bacteria and viruses carefully developed and cultivated for death and stockpiled in arsenals and military depots throughout the United States.

Raid Is Answer To Suez Battles

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli commando units struck 120 miles inside southern Egypt Tuesday night, blasting a dam across the Nile, a bridge and electric lines supplying Cairo, the Israeli army announced.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv, quoting high sources, said large areas were flooded by breaks in the Naj Hamadi dam and "the flow of electricity to Cairo is gravely crippled."

An Egyptian communique disputed the Israelis, claiming there was "absolutely no damage." There was no evidence of a power shortage in Cairo.

The raid into Upper Egypt was in retaliation for recent Egyptian artillery and commando attacks on Israeli forces occupying the east bank of the Suez Canal.

Presumably, helicopters flew the commandos across the Gulf of Suez or the Red Sea to the targets and brought them back, but the army did not say. It gave this report on the results of the raid:

Two high tension cables, 700 yards apart and carrying 500 kilovolts of power into Cairo, were cut. The lines were 360 miles south of Cairo between Isna and Naj Hamadi. . . .

The Naj Hamadi dam—also hit last year—was attacked and "heavily damaged." The dam stretches 800 yards across the Nile—and is 20 yards wide, the statement said. A shipping lock

North Ireland's Ruling Party Is Divided Over Leadership

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's divided Unionist party split down the middle on finding a successor to Prime Minister Terence O'Neill today.

Nominations for the post closed at 11 a.m. with two impiacbly opposed contenders, former deputy premier Brian Faulkner, 48, and former agriculture minister James Chichester-Clark, 46. Last-ditch attempts to unite the party behind Faulkner were a failure and the issue goes to a vote of the party's parliamentary caucus Thursday.

Political sources said the issue could produce near stalemate unless Faulkner succeeded in attracting defections from the pro-O'Neill faction supporting Chichester-Clark.

Both Faulkner and Chichester-Clark turned their backs on William Craig, the powerful right-wing leader who is detested by leaders of the Catholic-supported Civil Rights Campaign. Both let it be known that they would not ask Craig to join in government.

Four French Politicians Eye de Gaulle's Shoes

PARIS (AP) — Four veteran politicians were flirting with the French presidency today, and more may be in the offing.

President de Gaulle's former premier, Georges Pompidou, staked his claim as heir-apparent Tuesday, announcing he is a candidate.

Shortly after, Socialist Gaston Defferre renewed his search for a third force between Gaullism and communism and sought his party's endorsement to run. And the Communists, rebuffed in an attempt to form a coalition with the Socialists, prepared the nomination of Senator Jacques Duclos, a party workhorse.

On the extreme right, George Bidault, the wartime resistance leader who later turned against de Gaulle over independence for Algeria, declared his availability.

De Gaulle was in seclusion at Deux-Eglises. Gaullist leaders said he would remain silent until a new president has been selected, and would neither support nor repudiate Pompidou's candidacy.

This seemed to be enough for such Gaullist "barons" as Foreign Minister Michel Debre and Premier Maurice Couve de Murville. They "acclaimed" Pompidou's move at a party caucus, informed sources said.

Alain Poher, the Centrist Senate president acting as interim president, went about his business and appeared undecided about joining the contest. Informants said several Centrist leaders want him to become a candidate.

Poher's principal task is to organize presidential elections. A date will be decided Friday by the cabinet left by de Gaulle when he quit last Monday after French voters defeated a national referendum he had sponsored.

Forced Aid To NDP May Halt

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a list of election —law reforms drawn up by the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party includes outlawing compulsory political contributions by labor-union members.

The party's proposals, completed last weekend at an executive meeting in Sudbury, will be presented today to the Ontario legislature's 13-man select committee on election law, which is expected to produce its recommendations for the next session of the legislature.

In addition to abolishing compulsory union contributions, which produce about 25 per cent of the provincial New Democratic Party's annual operating funds, the newspaper says the Conservatives will also recommend:

—Extension of voting rights to patients confined in hospital on election day;

—Lowering the voting age, which now is 21;

—Including a candidate's political party beside his name on the ballot;

—Full disclosure of election spending by all candidates;

Octogenarians Indignant At Plan They Be Left to Die

LONDON (CP) — A British health officer caused a storm Tuesday when he suggested elderly persons should be left to die to reduce pressures on the overloaded British national health service.

"What is this man's name, Hitler?" retorted Ernest Melling, 81, general secretary of the National Federation of Old Age Pensioners. "Who does this man think he is to decide on life and death?"

Dr. Kenneth Vickery, 52, crashed into the headlines with his suggestion before a health congress that an age be set beyond which doctors no longer would strive to keep patients alive. Later, in an interview; he said the age limit should be about 80.

Melling, speaking for the elderly, said he has no faith in doctors. Many were too busy to bother with the elderly.

Air Canada Talks Off For Days

MONTREAL (CP) — It will be "at least a few days" before contract negotiations can resume between Air Canada and the striking International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, a union spokesman said Tuesday.

Michael Pitchford, chief union negotiator, said the other negotiators have returned to their homes in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Calgary and it will be impossible for them to return to Montreal before the end of the week at the earliest.

Nixon Advises Colleges to Be Firm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Armed Negro protesters at Voorhees College in Denmark, S.C., were arrested after they laid down their weapons and walked from the two buildings they had seized.

Sit-ins and strikes continue at several campuses around the United States as President Nixon called on colleges not to "surrender to force" on their campuses.

Students at the University of Rochester pledged to press their boycott today, after the school reported 50 per cent absenteeism Tuesday.

Students are demanding the school, in Rochester, N.Y., sever relations with the Centre for Naval Analysis, in Rosslyn, Va. The 8,500-student school has a $440,000 government contract with the centre.

At other campuses:

Hanover, N.H.—About 125 students opposed to the Reserve Officers Training Corps program at Dartmouth College ended a sit-in at the administration building early today.

Belmont, N.C.—Seven black students ended a 10-hour seizure of the science building at Belmont Abbey College after administrators said they would consider the 15 demands raised by protesters.

New Orleans, La.—Twelve students and a professor at Tulane University were charged with criminal trespass and disrupting university activities after joining a ROTC marching drill. The maximum penalty for the charges is expulsion.

St. Louis—Rev. Paul C. Reinert, president of St. Louis University, said students who held an 11-hour sit-in had legitimate grievances.

East Lansing, Mich.—About 200 black students entered the third day of a "camp-in" at the Michigan State University cafeteria, complaining that white supervisors are harassing black cafeteria workers.

New York—The 29,000-student City College remained closed as talks continued with about 200 black and Puerto Rican students who have seized half the campus to demand enrolment of more minority group students.

Bending to Law

Trenton Awaits Report On Provincial Audit

TRENTON — Town officials here will be told tomorrow when they can expect results of a provincial government investigation into the town's books to be reported in the legislature.

Some six weeks ago two officials of the Department of Municipal Affairs came to Trenton to audit the town's books.

The investigation was activated by the Hardy report, a preliminary economic survey of the town which said Trenton had illegally attracted industry to the town by land grants and tax concessions.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said today that officials in Toronto "tomorrow should be presenting us with a schedule which will tell us when the auditors' report will be brought up in the legislature."

He added that it is expected the report will be released in two spheres.

According to Mr. Larry the town's budget will have to wait until results of the report are known.

It is expected the report will penalize Trenton for its methods of getting industry into the town, says Mayor James MacDonald.

Currently, according to Mayor James MacDonald, Trenton's incentive loans have been cut off by the provincial government as a result of the report.

"I don't know what they can do to us," said the mayor, "with our grants already cut off there doesn't seem to be much else left."

Dr. Richard Potter, MPP Quinte, has stated that Trenton had used up its quota of provincial grants for attracting industry. He explained that after a town has obtained its share of industry the incentive grants are phased out.

The report did state that Trenton was not the only Ontario community using illegal means to attract industry.

"We were in a competitive situation," said the mayor, "and this was the only way we could get industry."

He added that the benefits from an industry situating in Trenton far outweighed any initial expenditure to get them into the town.

"Trenton's budget is also being held up by the regional school board budget.

Mayor MacDonald has stated that he expects a rise in Trenton's school taxes but does not say how much.

"All the others are going up and it looks like ours will too."

New Park in the Making

City works stone mason puts finishing touches to river wall at the site of a new parkette on Mark Street at the Upper Bridge. Wall will be topped with concrete slabs and iron railing with walks, flower beds, shrubbery and benches to be installed in park area.

Good Season Seen For Deer Hunters

The past winter, with its heavy depths of snow, proved one of the most severe in a decade for the Quinte area deer population.

But, despite close browsing of tree food species it was not felt by game officials there was any undue starvation. Good hunting can be predicted next fall for the general area.

This is the forecast in the weekly report from the Department of Lands and Forests Tweed district offices following a winter deer range improvement program carried out in Effingham township near Maitzow Lake.

However, it was found from inventories of deer yards that some conditions were such that another severe winter could further affect available food. There would then be insufficient to sustain the present deer populations through the winter. In some areas, the preferred food species were 100 percent eaten, and in many cases preferred food species were so mutilated from browsing that the plants were being killed. It was obvious from the surveys, action was necessary to improve conditions in the Effingham Yard, says the department.

Observations during cutting operations revealed deer will feed on the tops of trees after timber has been cut down. This provides immediate food but, a longer range objective is necessary in view of the expenditure.

After studying previous deer range improvement work carried out in the district, the province, and in some of the northern states in U.S.A., a guide line of various cutting prescriptions was drawn up. This covers different types of hardwoods and shrubs which vary with the different types of soil, varying amounts of moisture, and timber cover types. Careful application of these prescriptions can increase considerably the available food, say officials.

Previous studies show that during cold winters and snow depths of over 21 or 22 inches, deer stay in coniferous stands. Here the snow is not as deep as in open hardwoods, where the heavy cover provides warmer conditions. When the snow gets beyond critical depth, deer movement is restricted to areas of heavy cover and along trails which they have been continuously using. When the snow gets this deep deer are reluctant to leave this cover or move off their trails to feed.

Separate Schools to Set Budget

The budget meeting of Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School Board will be held tonight at board offices, 133 Dundas St. East at 7 p.m.

The meeting is a regular, public session of the board.

Robert Lucy, chairman of the finance committee, will present the budget, revised in line with the amendments to the grant structure announced by the minister of education last week.

Alderman Jeffrey Seeks Action

Anti-litter Campaign Proposed

An 11-point program aimed at doing away with litter and making the city more attractive has been proposed to city council by Alderman Robin Jeffrey.

In a notice of motion presented this week's council meeting, Ald. Jeffrey set out points which she felt should be incorporated into a bylaw.

Under terms of the proposed bylaw, private residents, business and industrialists would be urged to co-operate in the cleanup campaign. But the ordinance would go further: It would provide penalties for those who failed to co-operate.

As her first step Alderman Jeffrey says that people with untidy premises should be notified to clean them up. Failure to do so would make them liable for prosecution.

The alderman also feels the policy of the health authorities should be changed from protection to prevention.

Fire insurance companies should be asked to co-operate in speedy clearing-up of debris following fires. Newspaper firms should be asked to remove the present incinerators from locations where paper refuse is now burned.

There should be a general downtown cleanup with persons brought in how to assemble property owners who Alderman Jeffrey says, don't care how their properties appear.

Boards of education should be asked to co-operate in cleaning up school yards and railway companies to clean up their yards.

Finally, Mrs. Jeffrey feels there should be a minimum standard of housing with strict enforcement of these standards.

Earlier in the meeting council passed a by-law making it an offence to throw litter or other rubbish on a public roadway or bridge.

Renewal Experts To Meet Residents

A series of information-gathering meetings with householders in the city's downtown and Foster Ward areas are to be held early next month.

Conducting the sessions will be representatives of Procter, Redfern, Bousfield and Bacon, town planning engineers, now doing an urban renewal study for Belleville.

Alderman Arthur Keegan told council the meetings would deal with the problem of residential relocation in both areas should any urban renewal scheme propose they move.

"They (the town planners) are concerned about where these people would move, and also about the economic aspects," said Ald. Keegan.

Two weeks ago Alderman Keegan asked town planning consultants be contacted to determine what other Ontario cities of Belleville's size had undertaken urban renewal studies and whether any plans had been implemented.

The reply from Procter, Redfern Bousfield and Bacon have prepared downtown urban renewal schemes for Port Arthur and Fort William (60,000 - 45,000).

The Port Arthur scheme is in the implementation process.

Royalty Crowns Season

The city of Belleville is liable for $1,750 in royalty fees on an ice flooding machine which has been in use at the Memorial Arena several years.

This is the opinion of city solicitor E. Gus Porter who has told council the city has no alternative but to pay the amount being claimed.

Apparently the ice machine purchased by the city, infringed on the patent rights held by another firm which is seeking to recover royalty fees.

The original supplier of the machine went bankrupt and the city is being held liable.

But Alderman Paul Russell still feels the machine was a good buy.

"We saved $5,000 on the purchase of the original machine," he told council.

Historical Body Asks Affiliation

AMELIASBURG — A group known as the 7th Town Historical Society of Ameliasburg is seeking a corporate membership with the Ontario Society as a temporary measure until affiliation can be arranged.

The local society's board of directors elected earlier this week were, Loral Wannamaker, president; Martin Hesseldal, first vice - president; Reg Barber, second vice - president and Arnold Wetherall, acting secretary - treasurer.

The next meeting of the group will be held in the township hall on Monday, May 26 at 8.00 p.m.

Discuss Walkathon

TRENTON — Initial steps are being taken for a meeting which could result in the Trenton Chamber of Commerce organizing a cross-Canada walkathon to raise funds for the proposed RCAF Memorial here.

Jack Wilson said today that plans are underway for a meeting with memorial officials. Mr. Wilson pointed out that at this time nothing is definite but if successful his chamber could be playing a large part in the giant hoedon derby.

Plans for the walkathon were first made public by Major Norman Cairns, publicity chairman for the memorial.

Maj. Cairns said all walkers would start out from their various communities and march towards Trenton.

When one walker tires, another will take over and continue the trek.

"This project will demand tremendous organization," said Major Cairns.

"All of Canada will be involved and we hope to have mayors and various government officials walking."

No estimate of the amount of money to be raised by the walk has been given but officials expect this to be the largest fund-raiser for the $3 million memorial.

in the same area was damaged.

Seventy miles north of the Aswan Dam, commando blew up the 16th bridge and again caused heavy damage.

Egypt said the raid was made by two Israeli bombers which said were driven off by anti-aircraft fire before they could hit their targets. But an Israeli army spokesman emphasized that the attacks were by commando units and "they met no resistance whatsoever."

Once again the Aswan High Dam, President Nasser's pride, was spared. But an informed source commented that the raid was "a clear warning Israel is capable of, and will not refrain from, choosing any target it considers fit along Egypt's main artery, up to the Aswan High Dam itself."

United Church Moderator to Visit Belleville

First layman ever to be named moderator of the United Church in Canada, Dr. Robert N. McClure, who spent many years as a medical missionary in China and other parts of the world, will visit Belleville May 2.

He is scheduled to fill two afternoon speaking engagements.

Dr. McClure will speak at a luncheon at Bridge Street United Church and later will address high school students at the BCVI auditorium.

Son of the late Dr. William McClure, pioneer missionary of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission in North Henan, China, the United Church moderator counts himself as born a refugee.

At the time of his birth his mother was in the United States taking refuge from the Boxer rebellion at the beginning of this century.

After the rebellion, his parents returned to China where he learned the Mandarin language as soon as he began to talk and today is as fluent in that language as in English.

Since he became medical missionary 45 years ago, Dr. McClure has doctored thousands of Chinese, worked under fire in battlefield hospitals, handled a fleet of waterborne ambulances on the Yangtse River, spent 3½ years with Arab refugees on the Gaza Strip, and headed the Italian Christian Hospital in India for 14 years.

His return home to Canada in 1966 to retire, a word which for him means going right back to do the same kind of work—without pay.

Today he is probably the United Church's best known missionary as well as its best known hymnist. In his blunt homespun way he tries to get across more of what the church is all about than the more sophisticated theologians.

His impact appeals to young people and students by the hundreds turn out to hear him talk.

Threat to Discipline

In this age of dissent, the dividing line between what is legitimate democratic expression and the need for discipline and respect of adult supervision, is a thin one.

A sit-in by 15 senior students of Forest Hill Collegiate in Toronto is an example. The students spent Monday sitting on the floor in the principal's main lobby to protest a two-week suspension given to 17-year-old Cathy Pike.

The school authorities evidently frown upon a radical student movement called the Student Guard and Miss Pike was suspended for her activities in this connection. Among these was distribution of a student newspaper whose cover has a drawing of a tiger with a man's face. A caption underneath says: "Mr. Mosey (the school principal) is a paper tiger," and inside is a satirical fantasy about a revolution against the mean old king of the Forest Kingdom.

This, to our way of thinking, does constitute a breach of discipline on the part of the students. Student newspapers, even those of universities, are not notable for their maturity of style or thought. Often they are just plain silly, or in bad taste, or both. The Forest Hill student publication (and it appears to represent only a minority group in the school) falls into this category.

Meanwhile, the attitude of Mrs. Edith Pike, mother of the girl under suspension, is interesting. "We brought her up to feel and think for herself, so we asked her what she would do. She said staying out for two weeks and making a guarantee would be agreeing with the principal, and she does not. She says she has a right to organize and speak up, and we feel the kids have that right. So I think Mr. Mosey has made a mistake."

Amid such permissiveness the seeds of student anarchy are born. True, students are entitled to a voice in school affairs — and today more than ever — but they are not entitled to publicly ridicule school authorities, or pose a threat to the overall discipline of the school.

Out in the Cold

When you are done with affairs of state what does a man like Charles de Gaulle do with himself. How does he put in his time?

Well it's happened before. In 1946 after nearly two years as premier following the last war the general began 12 years of retirement and virtual seclusion. During that period he wrote his memoirs and watched 22 coalition governments succeed one another.

In 1958, in the face of a mounting threat of rebellion among the officers of the French army in Algeria, de Gaulle was called by the National Assembly to take power with the right to reform the constitution.

Now, at the age of 78, he is back at his country home at Colombey, 100 miles from Paris. No clearing out desks and personal effects for the President. Rather he just quit and that was that. Newsmen at Colombey noted that two small trucks brought personal papers and some clothing from the Elysee Palace in Paris.

Rev. Eugene Drouot, a priest who often says mass for the general in the village, summed up the general's situation well. Observing that the villagers (like most people everywhere) are occupied with "small things", he said he hoped Gen. de Gaulle had little things to think about too. "When you are thinking about such important matters, and then all of a sudden there is nothing, well, that must be quite a change."

But then, the general is a man of eloquence and literary ability. During his earlier retirement he wrote his memoirs. Now he may well embark on a history of the Fifth Republic.

The Expo Scene

Tempus fugit. The familiar Latin term that has to do with the swift passage of time is appropriate to the Expo scene. It is difficult to realize that nearly two years have past since the great event in Montreal and that next year Expo 70 opens in Japan.

Meanwhile, Global Courier, the attractive publication of Japan Air Lines keeps Canadians abreast of progress on next year's big fair at Osaka. The exposition opens March 15, 1970, but U.S. and Canadian cities will have a preview this summer. Expo 70 caravans will tour 34 cities on a promotion mission in July and August.

Despite Japan's close ties with the Western world, particularly since the United States military occupation, we wonder how newcomers to Japan next year will get along with people there. Of all the world's peoples the Japanese are probably the finest exponents of good manners. We hope they will retain that reputation after mass contact with the somewhat less polished ways of North Americans and Europeans.

Socialism to Capitalism

Manning on Way to Becoming A "Bay Street Baron"

By JANE BECKER

TORONTO (CP) — At 69, Ernest Manning, Alberta's former Social Credit premier and evangelical preacher, shows signs of occupying one of the "Bay Street barons" his party used to rail against in the '30s.

Mr. Manning stepped down as premier late last year, after 25 years in office and early this year gave up the legislature seat he had held since 1935.

Since then he has accepted directorships on four major Canadian companies and, he says, "turned down half a dozen others because I didn't want to spend my life on airplanes between Toronto and Edmonton."

In Toronto for the annual meeting of Steel Co. of Canada, Mr. Manning ranged his lanky form on a chintz daybed in his hotel room and said business is "no new field of interest" for him.

"I've always believed in responsible private enterprise, although frankly I was surprised at the number of companies that invited me to become a director now that I'm out of politics."

He is a director of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Canadian Pacific Air lines and manufacturers' Life Insurance Co., in addition to Stelco.

"I tried to pick diverse companies because I want a deeper knowledge of the practical problems and operations of a wide range of business," he explains. "I still may accept one or two others."

In the mid-30s the brand new Social Credit government of the late William Aberhart blamed many of Alberta's woes on the tycoons of Toronto's Bay Street and St. James Street in Montre l.

Mr. Manning says he never did. Much early Social Credit legislation—to bring financial institutions under provincial control and allow the consolidation of personal debts, as well as the attempt to revolutionize the monetary system by issuing "funny money"—was simply an attempt to cope with Alberta's deep financial depression, he says.

It is generally acknowledged that Mr. Manning's prowess as provincial secretary helped Alberta climb out of massive debt before 1940. His handling of the leasing of the province's vast petroleum and natural-gas acreages since a major oil strike in the province 23 years ago is cited by many businessmen as a billion-dollar example of financial common sense.

But he still talks more like a politician or a preacher than a financial wizard.

"In Canada we've drifted further and further from government based on principles," he says. "We need to get back to them. It's a lot of darned nonsense to judge a potential prime minister by his television image when you don't know what he stands for."

With his son Preston he has set up a company, M and M Systems Research, to seek answers as to why Canada is "rumbling along with no sense of national purpose."

"I'm just as concerned over the country's future as when I was in government."

But he does not propound his political ideas in the board room.

"We don't sit around and philosophize at company meetings."

One of his major contentions, both as a politician and a businessman, however, is that the noisiest socialists become capitalists as soon as they are on the other side of the fence.

"If Canadian business really wants to promote private enterprise it should see that every Canadian becomes a shareholder in some company. This would do more than anything to pull the rug from under all the socialist bunk that's being talked these days."

Ernest Manning says he has not really retired at all.

"I'm busier than ever. I keep the same office hours as when I was premier. I'm continuing my Bible work, operate an 880-acre dairy farm, and travel more than I did."

He says he accepts about one in 20 of the speaking invitations that flow in from across Canada and the United States.

As one of the most successful politicians in Canadian history, why did he give up politics?

He cites several reasons. One is that it was good to get while going well and wanted him—he was never defeated at the polls—and when leaving would cause the least disruption to his party.

Another, he says, is that his temper was beginning to wear thin.

A third was that he wanted time to develop the field of political philosophy, and "I knew I'd never have the time in active politics."

"I've often said a man should have three careers. If he doesn't start the second by the time he's 60, he'll be a little old by the time he's ready for the third."

Vacations Down On The Farm

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Farm vacations is a booming new farm crop in Canada, one that can thrive on marginal land, requires little moisture, needs no expensive machinery and has a ready market.

Throughout Grey and Bruce counties a growing number of farm owners are looking into the possibilities of offering holidays on their farms for paying guests. During the past winter courses of instruction were given area farmers by Georgian College of Applied Arts and Technology. Already a small number of farms have accepted their first paying guests and find it an excellent way to increase farm income.

The idea was practically unheard of in Canada until a few years ago when The Reader's Digest ran an article "Try a Farm Vacation" in which the author recounted his family's farm vacation. Things haven't been the same since.

Hundreds and hundreds of requests poured in for the list of farms in Canada that would take guests.

Pornography From Sweden

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

The Canadian government should move quickly to halt the use of our mails for the distribution of some of the most blatant and potentially injurious examples of pornography that has ever come to our attention.

Pictures and magazines being advertised by a Swedish photographic studio are so perverted as to be sickening. The plain, light blue airmail envelope contains no hint of the contents. Thus this product of sick minds could easily fall into the hands of children.

We can think of a lot of crummy ways of making a dollar but none quite so despicable as this.

This is a very nasty business and one wonders if the Canadian government should not take it up with the Swedish ambassador in the interest of good citizenship in both countries. We know Sweden is permissive about pornography, but we hardly think it likely the Swedish government would approve of the export of such filth.

In any case the Canadian government should take the necessary steps to curb this barter in human degradation. Our children are subjected to enough questionable influences now.

Westmount Makes War On Pollution

Montreal Gazette

The City of Westmount is taking the regional lead in the fight against air pollution with strong regulations concerning smoke —, and odor —, from cars.

Admirably, the city is also studying a bylaw to prevent "excessive noise," from cars and motorcycles.

Westmount's success in the control of smoke pollution will be limited, of course; even if total success is achieved, residents would still be affected by the general cloud over the whole island area. This should be no deterrent, however. Much can be achieved in eliminating close-range problems. And if every community could control its own pollution, the general problem would be solved.

Residents of the community will be much envied if the control of traffic noise is achieved. Vehicles seem to get noisier all the time and there certainly are more of them. This isn't just imagination, either.

Peking Purge

Former Movie Star Wife of Mao Dropped From Politburo

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — The new Chinese Communist central committee has not admitted Mao Tse-tung's wife, Chiang Ching to the uppermost circle of power.

As vice-chairman of the cultural revolution group, the sharp-tongued former movie actress has often exercised authority second only to Mao's in the last 22 months. She has constantly been held up as an example to the army, Chinese youth and the party and is said to have played a decisive part in the purge of many high-ranking party men.

Yet the central committee snubbed Mme. Mao when it selected the five persons who will run the day-to-day affairs of the government, the army and the party. Besides Mao, they include his heir Defence Minister Lin Piao purge chief Chen Po-ta, Premier Chou En-Lai and party veteran Kang Sheng.

Mme. Mao also won a place on the 21-member politburo. Before 1966, she had been virtually unknown as was Yeh Chun, Lin Piao's wife who also made the politburo.

The choices of the central committee members contained several other surprises. Among the once-influential men, passed over were Foreign Minister Chen Yi, vice-premiers Liu Po-chun and Chen yun, and former marshals Nieh Jung-chen and Hsu Hsiang-chien, all close friends of Mao.

Two other men who had been close to the top in the forefront of the cultural purge were left off the politburo. They are Wang Tung-hsing, Mao's old bodyguard, who managed to become a politburo alternate. The other was Wen Yu-cheng, deputy chief of the general staff and commander of the Peking garrison area.

Close associates of Mao who made the politburo included one-eyed former Marshal Liu Po-cheng, a veteran of the Yeh Chien-ying, army founder Chu Teh Vice-Premier Li Hsien-nien, air force commander Wu Fa-hsien, ex-marshal Chang Chun-chiao, purge consultant Yao Wen-Yuan, chief of the army general staff Huang Yung Sheng, Vice-President Tung Pi-wu and security chief Hsieh Fu-shih.

Four relative unknowns—Hsu Shih-yu, Chen Hsi-lien Chiu Hui-tso and Li Tso-peng—made the grade for the first time. All are military men and help to give the politburo a decidedly military favor. Hsu is head of the Kiangsu revolutionary committee.

Ann Landers

Some Folks Tend To Forget Retarded

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 17 and have a retarded brother 20. My parents have done a wonderful job of making my brother feel loved and wanted. They have taught us to be kind and considerate of him. Since early childhood we have been told, "Treat Brother as though he were normal."

ANN LANDERS

Brother lives away from home in a lovely place where they have cottages. They can take only 100 boys, so we were lucky. The whole family went to visit Brother last week and came home heartbroken. The boys had decorated the dining room for company and set up a special table. Only ten people beside our family showed up.

I can't understand how parents can neglect a retarded child. Surely they realize that retarded children have feelings. Retarded children know when they are being ignored.

Please print my letter, Ann, even though there's not much you can say. Some folks need to be reminded. — A SISTER.

DEAR SISTER: You reminded them — and in a way I never could. Thank you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please change the language and make this letter printable. I need your help. Or should I say we need your help. The problem is just as much my husband's as it is mine.

When our son comes home from college for a weekend or holiday, it wrecks our home life, or I should say our sex life. Don't misunderstand. Van is a great kid, no trouble whatever, but his sleeping habits are weird. He walks around until 3:00 a.m. When we had our big house it didn't matter because our bedroom was upstairs. But when Van went away to college we moved into an apartment.

My husband says I shouldn't let this bother me. But I simply can't relax when the boy is practically outside our door. Am I crazy? Any suggestions? Thanks. — INHIBITED.

DEAR IN: Most people have a radio or a TV in the bedroom. Let there be music. You're welcome.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: TV is getting so rough our teen-age daughters are afraid to turn on the set when they have boys over. I can't say that I blame them. Several of the new commercials are in terrible taste. Some of the so-called "entertainment" shows are rotten.

I asked our minister what can be done about it. He made an excellent suggestion. He said those who are offended by what they see on TV should not sit by and allow garbage to be dumped in their living rooms. Telephone the station and in a polite but emphatic manner express your opinion about what is being shown. (The station keeps track of such calls.) Next write or wire the sponsor and tell him you will not buy his products and why. Print this, please, Ann. Let the viewers know we do have a choice. — SICK OF TRASH.

DEAR S.O.T.: Your clergyman is right. If enough complaints come in, the offensive material will be scrapped and we'll get talent instead of junk.

TAIPEI AP — The Chinese Nationalist government is drafting a bill that would require women to serve in the armed forces in time of peace as well as war, cabinet sources reported. The bill specifies that women between 18 and 45 years old would serve one year in the armed forces to perform supplementary duties. The bill, being drawn up by the cabinet, must be submitted to the legislature for

Method of Cooking Prime Ribs

By MARY MOORE

It took all of my will power to persuade the meat manager to cut me a 10-pound rod bread prime rib roast. The chain has a reputation for hanging their beef for 14 days before store delivery which usually results in 16-day-old beef before it reaches the counter for the customer. The pay-off was that its "special" price was 79 cents per pound. I wanted that but I wanted my beef hung longer.

When my 10-pound roast was ready I carted it home, loosened the wrapping and put it in my refrigerator with the temperature lowered to 34 deg. Fahr. — just barely above freezing — and let it "hang" six more days. So I think it had three weeks "hanging" in all.

TEN-POUND ROAST PRIME RIBS OF BEEF

(low -slow method for 15 or more — depending on carver)

10-lb. standing rib roast of beef

Flavor salt

Paprika

Read above for method of procuring well hung beef — this is the secret of your success if you want tender beef.

Remove meat from refrigerator, one hour before you plan to put it into the oven, to warm up. Wet the surfaces by dipping your fingers in water and moisten roast all over. Sprinkle with flavor salt and paprika. I wanted to serve dinner at 6.30 p.m. so I put my large roast on a rack on a shallow pan in the oven at 200 deg. Fahr. at 8:30 a.m. and left it there without any attention (except peeking) until 6:30 p.m. By then all the guests were gathered and hungry and I called them to dinner. The carving knife was razor sharp and the carver was an expert. Those guests who wanted it well done got outside slices. Those who wanted it pinkish were given inside slices.

NOTE: If you buy a large roast on "special" and have leftover cold roast beef of course you can serve it sliced cold. But watch shortly for method of using cold roast beef without hating its identity.

Shower Party Held Honoring Bride-elect

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Recently Mrs. Ruth Cooney and Mrs. Eileen McDonald arranged a shower to honor Miss Marianne Van Gemeren, a May bride-to-be.

The first part of the evening was spent in games with the Misses Shirley Minhoud, Mary Elizabeth Crozier, Marianne Van Gemeren and Audrey Van Gemeren winning prizes donated by the hostesses.

Miss Van Gemeren was asked to take the seat of honor with pink ornament leading to a large pink bell above. Then the Misses Linda and Susan Cooney and Master Kenny McDonald brought in the many gifts which were opened by the bride-to-be who thanked each donor.

A lovely lunch was served by the hostesses assisted by the Misses Linda and Susan Cooney and Master Kenny McDonald who waited on the guests.

Successful Living

Poor Housekeeping Poor Excuse for Divorce

By DORIS CLARK

The young man was explaining to his aunt why he felt he'd just got a divorce.

"You see, Auntie, when I come home, the dishes are never washed. The house is in a mess. The meals are never ready. I can never be sure of a clean shirt to put on." When Auntie told her own daughter (also married) about this, Linda commented: "And that's reason for a divorce? If that's the case, Dee and I would have been divorced years ago. I'm a terrible housekeeper."

Alas, Auntie described to me an occasion on which Dan (Linda's husband) heeded home to change. He wanted a special yellow shirt, since his meeting involved a dramatic presentation to a sales group. Linda was appalled. She had forgotten entirely that he needed His shirt, and it was still with the soiled laundry.

What did Dan do? Without a word, he was out of the house, into the car; and back in 15 minutes with a new yellow shirt. When Linda said how distressed she was, he replied, "Never mind! I've got a shirt, haven't I?"

You bet, where there is love, there's a way to manage.

Dear Doris: I have great sympathy for older folk who may be retired and lonely but I just wonder if the "Over Sixty", "Golden Age" and other clubs are doing a real good job for them. As a volunteer worker in other areas, I have been invited to some of these meetings. The pattern is for the guests to come early and to sit around waiting for something to happen.

Then, the director may announce a program, a card game or what-have-you? If it's cards, some play, some don't. If it's a speaker, or a singer, the crowd sits passively and only seems to come to life when tea and cakes are served. Volunteers usually do this work. Why can't old people take turns passing cakes and tea? And washing up?

At one meeting, I noticed a collection box. The idea was for each visitor to deposit 10 cents in this box to pay for the refreshments. But many skirted right past it. (Now these very same people were arriving in their own cars and some of them in taxis.)

At another club there was a Christmas stocking project. for Indian children. The group welcomes this idea but who did the work? All of it, mind you! The volunteers. There was a half-hearted attempt to get co-operation from members but no one insisted.

Children, if constantly waited on, get very lazy, I think, at any age, we need a challenge. Please tell volunteers to give some thought to getting over-sixties back in action and making use of their God-given faculties. — All For Self-Serve.

Dear All For: And so I will. Where there's the will, there's the pay. I'm reminded of an aged neighbor whose arthritis kept her glued to her chair. Sometimes! But just for a strange car stop within sight, and she was up like a shot, peering out the window.

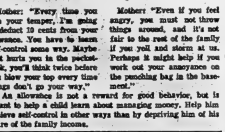
Hemophilia Said Reason For Abortion

TORONTO (CP) — Women who are carriers of hemophilia should be able to get a therapeutic abortion if they want it, the Canadian Hemophilia Society told Prime Minister Trudeau Monday.



Abortion should be legal, said the society. If hemophilia — the bleeding disease — endangers the mother or if there is a threat the child may be born with a "grave mental or physical disability."

The society sent the prime minister a resolution on abortion and sterilization adopted at its annual meeting here Saturday.

Hemophilia is inherited by males from their mothers and women are rarely affected. Bleeders lack a blood clotting factor, so they bleed severely if injured or even sometimes bleed spontaneously into joints.

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYSON

Mother: "Every time you lose your temper, I'm going to deduct 10 cents from your allowance. You have to learn self-control some way. Maybe if it hurts you in the pocketbook, you'll think twice before you blow your top every time things don't go your way."

An allowance is not a reward for good behavior, but is meant to help a child learn about managing money. Help him achieve self-control in other ways than by depriving him of his share of the family income.

Mother: "Even if you feel angry, you must not throw things around, and it's not fair to the rest of the family if you yell and storm at us. Perhaps it might help if you work out your annoyances on the punching bag in the basement."

Few Simple Precautions Necessary on Firecracker Day

TORONTO (CP) — Firecracker day is coming, and a lot of people are looking forward to getting a big bang out of it, whether they think of it as Victoria Day or something else.

The best way to do that safely is to follow a few simple precautions and try to teach enthusiastic children to do the same, says George Hees.

Mr. Hees is manager of the home and child safety department of the Ontario Safety League, which recently published a pamphlet on the results of its study on fireworks. It recommends that municipalities ban firecrackers, but approve supervised fireworks.

Mr. Hees says the recommendation is based on their research on accidents caused by all types of fireworks. There are no completely reliable records available, but news stories and police reports indicated 94 injuries and 31 fires were caused by fireworks in Ontario in 1968. Of those, 85 of the injuries were caused by firecrackers, and all of the fires were.

Mr. Hees says the league uses the definitions accepted by the federal government. A firecracker produces noise only, and is designed and sold primarily for children.

Fireworks come in two styles. Family fireworks are designed to produce colorful effects with sound added in some instances. Exhibition fireworks are more powerful, are meant or use at special events and exhibitions, and are sold only to responsible groups.

Part of the problem, Mr. Hees says, is that firecrackers are cheap. Children can buy a lot of them, and after they've set off a few, they get tired of producing p mers bang, and look for ways to get livelier results. Among those results are the injuries and fires.

The league recommends that you never allow young children to have firecrackers, under any circumstances.

If you let older children have them, teach them to play with them safely.

Never hold a lighted firecracker in your hand, never light one indoors. Keep your face away from the cracker when you light it. Never carry firecrackers in your pocket.

Don't play jokes with firecrackers. Never throw them at a person, an animal, a car, mail box or building. Never explode them inside a bottle or any other container.

If you are going to have a family fireworks display, the league advises buying fireworks only. Do not include firecrackers, or allow anyone else to take them to your display.

Appoint one person to be in charge of the display.

Be sure your firing location is clear of overhead obstructions such as wires and trees, and that your display will not annoy or endanger a neighbor.

Never set off fireworks on a apartment balcony.

Keep young children away from firing points. If you let older children participate in the firing, teach him to do it properly and under adult supervision only.

Use buckets, boxes of sand, a wheelbarrow of earth or the like on the ground at your firing base. Bury the firework half way up the barrel, pack the earth firmly around each piece before firing, and set at a 10-degree angle away from spectators.

Before you fire, read the instructions on each piece.

Keep fireworks in a box and close the lid after removing each piece for firing.

Keep a metal container handy, partly filled with water, for disposing of used fireworks. Keep a garden hose ready for use. If a firework fails, do not attempt to relight it. Leave it for 10 minutes, then soak it with water.

Light fuses with punk or a glowing cigar held at arm's length, then stand clear immediately.

Christ Church Congregation Enjoys Smorgasbord

It was a gala occasion on Saturday evening when nearly 100 Christ Church members gathered for dinner and a scrambling-up of phases and of their pastor's visitation. Among those present were Canon R. B. D. Wright and Mrs. Wright, Rev. David Hawkins, the church wardens and their wives, the standing committees of the visitation and many of the captains and visitors who had taken part in this important event.

A smorgasbord dinner was enjoyed by all present. Members of the ACW were hostesses and the young people of the AYM did their share by making sure that everything was shipshape after the evening was over. Bruce Wismer, a spirited old-fashioned hymn sing was led accompanied by Miss Withers, church organist.

Chairman for the occasion was George Townsend who, with his wife, Alice, had headed the committee throughout the period of many meetings and facets of the visitation. George thanked the members of the committee who had worked together so constructively and harmoniously and also the clergy and wardens for their help and co-operation. He also stressed the fact that it had been a team effort of clergy, members and lay people and that the congregation would inevitably benefit from this work of stewardship.

In his remarks, Canon Wright stated that "the success of the visitation was due to the unity of purpose practised by all who took part. In other words, it was a partnership in the ministry Baptism stands for Christian as a worker for Christ; the visitation had reconfirmed the members in their task. Christianity begins in the home and without the help of committed congregations, the Church does not go forward." The Canon added his personal thanks to the chairmen and committees and to all of the workers.

Reports were given on the various phases of the visitation. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fletcher had prepared the report on the findings of the statistical cards which will bring parish rolls and records up to date. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lemon had compiled the report from the general questionnaire which revealed a number of constructive and helpful facts.

The compilation of ideas gleaned from the confidential report was given jointly by Dick Beers, rector's warden; Kenneth Hall, deputy warden; Jack Fletcher and Mrs. F. A. Beeby, members of the special committee. The suggestions received from this questionnaire had been carefully studied and considered and those which can be put to use for the betterment of the church life in Christ Church will be implemented where feasible and advisable. All reports are to be submitted to the Vestry Council at a special meeting on May 7.

Fred Beeby, in charge of the training program for visitors, thanked everyone for having taken part in phase one of the visitation which saw 300 families visited during the past month. In the early Fall, the remaining families of the parish will be visited and those present were urged to again offer their service.

A question period followed after which Jack chairmen Georgs and Alice Wonscott were given a standing ovation for their fine leadership in a most successful parish undertaking.

WEDDING

TOWNSEND — REARDON

Queen of Heaven Roman Catholic Church, CFB Trenton, was the scene of the April wedding when Lorraine Joan Reardon, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Reardon, of Elrose, Sask., exchanged wedding vows with Capt. Albert Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Townsend, of Belleville, Alberta. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Father Thomas. Reading appropriate nuptial selections, and vocal solos was William Long.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Milavsky, wore a long-sleeved A-line dress of white lagoda, featuring imported Swiss applique and pearls on the neck and sleeves, complemented by a caltecral length train trimmed with the same imported Swiss applique. Her veil of silk illusion set draped to her shoulders, and her bouquet was of talisman roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Kay Burns, of Calgary, Alta., cousin of the bride. She was attired in an apricot colored floor-length gown, trimmed at the neck and sleeves, with white lace. She carried a bouquet of Asiatic daisies. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul Wojciechowski, of Trenton and Mrs. Brian Ballestazzie, of Peterawwa who also wore identical gowns to the maid of honor.

Best man was Capt. David McLeod. Ushers were Capt. Paul Wojciechowski and Capt. Jerome Frewen.

For the wedding reception, held at the Officers' Mess, CFB Trenton, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a brocade dress and cost ensemble of soft yellow with a matching hat and bronze accessories, composed by a bronze 'mum corsage. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom chose a three-piece rose colored suit with bone colored accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a honey colored dress with matching cost and hat, with a mauve corsage to complete her outfit. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

St. George's Guild Sponsors Spring Tea

A Spring Tea and Bake Sale was held Tuesday afternoon at St. George's Hall under the auspices of the St. George's Anglican Guild.

Pouring tea were Mrs. E. Hickey and Mrs. R. B. Wright; replenishing plates were Miss Towner and Mrs. A. Pelarson. Servers for the afternoon were Mrs. F. Asky; Mrs. W. Coleman and Mrs. B. Quirk. Convener of the event was Mrs. M. Welch.

At the novelty table, convened by Mrs. W. Howe and Mrs. F. Furguson, colorful quilts, aprons, jewellery and even toaster covers were on display.

Mrs. H. Sharp and Mrs. H. Armstrong, conveners of the candy table did a brisk business selling their homemade fudge, Mrs. W. Garrow and Mrs. L. Gay conveyed the bake table, overflowing with delicious pastry.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Armstrong, 33 Farmcrest, Agincourt, Ontario announce the engagement of their daughter Janet Karen to John Kenneth Bradford, son of President and Mrs. J. E. Bradford, Loyalist College. The marriage will take place June 7, in Toronto.

Auxiliary Of Manor Holds Meet

There was an excellent attendance at the April meeting of the Auxiliary of Hastings Manor, held in the library of the Manor.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. F. Davidson and all reports given. Mrs. Kingston reported there had been five rose bowls sent to residents who were ill in the Belleville General Hospital during the past month. A report was given on the progress of the coffee shop which was most gratifying. A group of women from Glenn Miller offered to assist in the coffee shop, taking alternative days in charge.

It was unanimously voted to purchase another picture for the chapel in keeping with the previous one purchased. These will be dedicated at a later date. A ripple-ply mattress will be purchased for use in the hospital wing of the Manor. There will be a bingo held for the residents on May 8. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on May 26, one week later than the usual date.

At the conclusion of the business the usual birthday party was held for the residents having birthdays in April. Mr. W. Hornick who was 89 and Mrs. Keazea Scott 82 were the eldest guests present and cut the birthday cake.

Lunch was served with Miss C. L. Millel and Miss W. A. Miller from Glenn Miller pouring tea and a social time was spent with the guests of honor.

Designer Scorns Unisex Trend

MONTREAL (CP) — At least one Canadian designer has rejected the unisex trend and is creating clothes for women who want men to look at them instead of look like them.

Claire Haddad of Toronto Monday showed leisure and at-home wear that was carefree for mornings, elegant in the evenings and overwhelmingly feminine all the time.

Nearly every costume had pants, but they were silk and crepe see-through items topped with lace or sheer floor-length robes that floated and swirled about the ankles in clever disguise.

Colors ranged from a lime green lace cage over matching crepe pants to a white silk culottes and overskirt embroidered in gold and silver lurex thread.

Carrying through from noon to midnight was a pale yellow floor-length empire gown with thin straps and a bodice trimmed in white daisies.

HILDA'S COLUMN

My Mother says it's important to tell shoppers that just because they can't find an item on the shelves doesn't mean that Loblaws has stopped selling it.

In many cases, the product is right in the stock room and a clerk can run and get it for anyone who asks.

In other cases, the store has discontinued stocking it for a variety of possible reasons — in which case all a shopper has to do is mention to the manager that she wants it back on the shelves — and PRESTO! if at all possible, she will get her wish.

Managers are dedicated to giving the shopper what she wants. Introduce yourself to your manager the next time you are in Loblaws.

Discuss Reference Books

County TB and RD Association Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the members of the management committee of the Hastings County Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association was held recently with the president, Ronald L. Lee, as chairman.

In business arising from the minutes, the secretary reported that one of the reference books on Respiratory Diseases for the Reference Library at the Belleville General Hospital had come to hand and has been delivered. One book which was ordered is now out of print and a replacement will be selected. Also, two monthly journals on respiratory diseases have been ordered and will be forthcoming in due time. A brochure concerning a course available to students as Inhalation Therapists, for which the Association will offer a bursary of $500, each year, has been printed and is being delivered to Guidance Teachers in Hastings County.

A letter of thanks was read for the sponsorship by the Association for an Advanced Course in Mycology at the Toronto Institute of Medical Technology. The chairman read a letter from the president of the Ontario TB and RD Association acknowledging a donation received from the association of $5,000, toward their expenditure for this year of $100,000, in support of respiratory units located in the medical schools throughout the province and the research being done there. This donation is additional to the amount each local association gives regularly each year toward research. Also a letter of thanks and a certificate of appreciation had been received from the Belleville General Hospital for the cheque sent to them in the amount of $4,000, to be used for the purchase of a pulmonary function complex, such as a pulmonosite. A further cheque was acknowledged by them in payment of a respirator purchased for use in the hospital.

Assistance to two patients was voted by the members, one with a respiratory disease and the other a home drug patient with tuberculosis. Health education seems to be the story of present times. An influx of requests has been received at the office from teachers and also from students with a project to complete. The association is always pleased to comply with any such requests for information, pamphlets and films.

The chairman of the respiratory program committee, Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson, reported that two programs recently carried out in Perth and Wellington Counties with salmonella children has been put in printed form and has been distributed to doctors and others in Hastings County. Their comments were asked for with a view of starting a similar program in this county, but no response has been received as yet.

A tentative date of June 4, 1969, has been set for the annual meeting of the Association, but as this date seemed to conflict with too many other commitments, a date of June 18 was suggested. It is hoped that Dr. Colin Woolf, Director of the Respiratory Research Laboratory of the Toronto General Hospital will be the guest speaker for the meeting. The chairmen of the various committees were given a deadline to present their annual reports to be compiled in a printed booklet form for the annual meeting. Other matters pertaining to this meeting were discussed and will be finalized at the next monthly meeting.

SOUTHPORT, England CP — Florrie Ball, 77, roars along Lancashire highways again on her high-powered motorcycle after she thought she would have to give up her favorite pastime. Insurance companies refused to give Florrie a policy at her age, but family she talked a salesman into giving her partial coverage, so she could renew her driving licence.

MRS. MARSH GENERAL CHAIRMAN

Mrs. J. E. Marsh launches into her final year as General Chairman of The Salvation Army Three Year Capital Appeal. She took leadership of this Appeal in May of 1967 with a target of $60,000.00 to be reached. The Capital Appeal was in connection with the erection of a new Salvation Army Citadel which has cost a total of $220,000.00 and it was felt the public would be glad to help with $60,000.00 of this total. This year under the leadership of Mrs. Marsh and Red Shield Committee will be aiming for $21,000.00.

During the Official Opening of the New Citadel in March, Commissioner C. Wiseman, National Leader of The Salvation Army, presented Mrs. Marsh with a Plaque for signal service — a recognition given only to those who give outstanding leadership in Salvation Army Appeals. At a recent meeting of The Salvation Army Advisory Board in Belleville Mrs. Marsh was made Vice Chairman. The Salvation Army continues to pay tribute to a dear supporter of it's mission — a dedicated community worker and a mark-ed Chairman for its Capital Appeal.

Turbotrains to Be Back by Labor Day

MONTREAL (CP) — The super-streamlined turbotrains should be back in service on the Montreal-Toronto run by Labor Day after eight months of convalescence.

A spokesman for United Aircraft Corp. said Tuesday the company hopes to have all the kinks ironed out in four months to permit the new trains to resume operation.

Canada's severe winter conditions knocked the five turbotrains out of service early in January, about three weeks after they had gone into operation.

Modification work was delayed further as a result of a freak accident in February in which a shunting engine ran into one seven-car turbotrain and sent it into another turbotrain held suspended on jacks at the time.

One of the two trains involved in the accident had been equipped with instruments for cold weather test runs in Northern Ontario, and it took a while for another train to be prepared for testing.

The CN turbotrain was the first in North America to go into service, making its inaugural run last Dec. 12. However, two days earlier, the train experienced its first major misfortune when it sliced through a trailer truck at Kingston while making a preview press run.

A three-car turbotrain went into service on the Boston-New York route April 8. Except for a two-day delay when the train suffered a break in an oil line, the American train has been running without any major delay.

The CN turbotrail was scheduled to cover the 335-mile distance between Montreal and Toronto in four hours, cutting an hour off the Rapido service on the same route. But mechanical difficulties kept it from meeting the schedule.

Name Was Changed

These Were Expensive Raspberries

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons agriculture committee delayed its approval of current spending estimates for the agriculture department's research branch Tuesday after an MP said he thinks the branch made a mistake which will result in considerable loss to an Ontario grower.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) said that P. J. Hartman of Clarksburg, Ont., received a supply of plants—certified as Latham raspberries—through Ontario agricultural authorities. The plant had originally come from the federal research branch.

Contracts had been made for Mr. Hartman to grow the plants under supervision of the federal research branch and the provincial department.

"But last fall we find the federal department made a mistake and changed the name of the plants to Ozawa Latham and as a result this man's plants are useless," Mr. Whicher said.

The plants had originally been valued at $75 per 1,000, the MP added. Mr. Hartman had 200,000 plants ready for sale and 600 in the ground. He had sales arranged in advance until last fall; when the name had been changed.

"In my opinion a mistake was made by the research people of the agriculture department and money is owed this man," Mr. Whicher said.

Chairman Bruce Beer (L—Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe) said the committee is not the proper forum to decide the extent of any injury or assess damages. This was for the courts.

He reminded committee members that Mr. Whicher had raised the matter at a previous committee meeting and had questioned officials at that time.

The reason for the name change was that Mr. Hartman's plants had characteristics which were not those of true Latham raspberries.

The committee agreed to let the vote on the estimates stand on a suggestion by Harold Danforth (PC—Kent-Essex) that the department submit a paper to the committee setting out details of the transaction. Then the steering committee in consultation with Mr. Whicher could decide whether to proceed with the matter.

Ship Refit Costs Upheld

OTTAWA (CP) — A verbal agreement was made while the aircraft carrier Bonaventure was in refit to refinish all her cabin furniture, Commons public accounts committee was told Tuesday.

Therefore, government experts insisted, the cost of fixing individual items such as doorknobs and drawer pulls was not what recent publicity has made it appear to be.

The money spent on the Bonnie's furniture was spent, to refinish, repaint and make whatever repairs were needed to "every single piece of furniture" in the carrier's 90 or so cabins, R. D. Wallace, associate director of the supply and services department's shipbuilding branch told the committee.

It had not been spent solely on the items enumerated in job specifications and descriptions that committee member Norman Cafik (L—Ontario) publicized in Halifax last month during an inspection of the carrier.

Mr. Cafik and Tom Lefebvre (L—Pontiac) both asked why it had taken government officials so long to state their contention that the Halifax figures were meaningless.

Mr. Wallace said the committee was never given incomplete information. The documents before the committee gave total figures for the furniture work and department officials did not gone through "your exercise aboard the Bonaventure of dividing the cost by a certain number of pieces of furniture to arrive at averages.

The witnesses, all officials from the supply and services department, accountant to the old defence production department, and the defence department, generally held their ground against a barrage of accusations that the committee has been misled.

Mr. Cafik, who has been insisting that the government paid $ninze to have 36 double chairs removed from a briefing room, introduced a motion that the government demand a refund of $8,173 from Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., which did the Bonaventure refit at Lauzon, Que., in 1966-67.

The committee was unable to have a vote on the motion because it lacked the 11 members needed for a quorum.

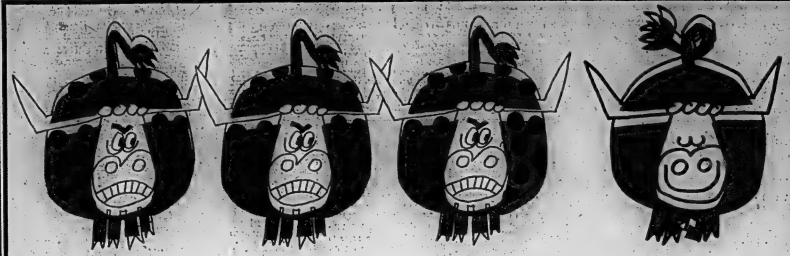
Political Interns Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — A novel scheme for a politician internship program, the personal project of a Conservative MP for the last five years, has been given its first official approval.

The Commons committee on procedure and organization Tuesday gave its blessing to a motion by Alfred D. Hales (PC —Wellington) that a group of interns-recent graduates in political science or from studies which relate directly to political institutions—be given assignments on Parliament Hill.

The Commons itself must still approve the project, which Mr. Hales has been pushing in the chamber and the corridors since he first conceived the idea.

In reporting to the Commons, the committee, headed by Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton), "approved the proposal in principle and commends it to the House."



At his home in Guelph, Mr. Hales said in an interview that "all we need now is the money supply and we're in business."

He declined to name the foundation interested in sponsoring the first years of the program, but said the "very, very wealthy foundation" will give him a final decision by next Tuesday.

Designs Asked

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Housing Corp. Tuesday invited builders to submit design and price proposals for development of 305 senior citizen and 467 family housing units, to be constructed in six municipalities.

Included are 24 senior citizen units in Paris, Ont., six family units in Newbury, 16 senior citizen units in Shelburne, 11 family and 11 senior citizen units in Port Hope, all on sites owned by OHC.

PCs Forced to Recorded Vote to Pass MDs' Rate Hike

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Tuesday gave second reading to a bill that will permit payment through the provincial medical insurance plan of fees charged by doctors under a new schedule which went into effect April 1.

The Conservative government won the recorded vote 63 to 40 after it had been defeated in a voice vote by combined Liberal and New Democratic Party opposition.

Under legislature rules, a recorded vote can be forced by a member standing after a voice vote is recorded.

The government members seemed stunned by the result of the voice vote, and sat in their places while Speaker Fred Cass hesitated, coughed and hesitated again.

Provincial Secretary Robert Welch leaped to his feet, only when James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) shouted across the floor: "It's your turn to stand for a change."

The bill passed second reading approval in principle after an hour-long debate in which opposition members launched bitter attacks on the Ontario Medical Association, the professional body which establishes the fee schedules for doctors.

George Ben (L—Toronto Humber) accused the OMA of hypocrisy for claiming that the fee increases were 9.6 per cent over the 1967 schedule. He said the average increase for all services is closer to 25 per cent.

Health Minister Matthew Dymond denied this.

Economics for Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan have established that the average increase in the new schedule is 8.7 per cent, he said.

James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) warned that if the increased fees are paid through OMSIP the added cost to taxpayers will be $13,000,000 a year.

If Ontario enters a federal medical insurance plan, he said, the effect of the increases will be to add $40,000,000 to the $400,000,000 cost of the plan in this province.

James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) moved an amendment which would refuse second reading to the bill until the increased fees are rolled back by government action and the medical profession has agreed to prior consultation and the joint agreement on future fee increases.

"There were suggestions from Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and NDP Leader Donald MacDonald that Health Minister Matthew Dymond resign because his profession as a doctor makes him 'handcuffed' to protect the public interest when confronted by the medical profession.

Clifford Pilkey (NDP — Oshawa) questioned the government's failure to insist that doctors negotiate their fees after it had forced compulsory arbitration on low-salaried workers in nursing homes for the aged.

Mr. Nixon said all professional bodies with statutory powers should have to appear before legislature committees to explain reasons for increases in their fees.

The government bill, which will permit OMSIP to pay doctors 90 per cent of their 1969 fee schedule, is the only way to protect the public against double billing for health services, Dymond said.

He said he has tried "by every means I know how" to persuade the medical profession to set its fees only after consultation with the government but no agreement had been reached.

Dr. Dymond said responsibility for setting medical fees may be transferred from the OMA to a professional promotional body — to the College of Physicians and Surgeons when a committee on the healing arts completes its report.

The college is the statutory body which regulates the professional conduct of doctors and which is responsible for protecting the public against professional misconduct.

Stricter Logging Rules Imposed in Algonquin

TORONTO (CP) — Canoeists paddling through Algonquin Provincial Park this summer will be protected from the noise of logging operations by a two-mile-wide "sound buffer zone", Rene Brunelle, Ontario minister of lands and forests, announced Tuesday.

Mr. Brunelle's announcement, containing several restrictions on logging aimed at reducing irritations to holidayers, marked a departure from the provincial master plan for Algonquin Park released by the government last year.

The provincial plan which is being revised by a special committee expected to produce a final plan five years from now has been hotly attacked by conservationists, who object to any logging at all in a forest preserve, and by the forest industry.

In his announcement, Mr. Brunelle repeated his position that logging and recreation are compatible in a provincial park. But he outlined measures for reducing noise and unsightliness from lumber operations that greatly extend the restrictions on logging contained in the provisional plan.

On a year-round-basis, loggers are to be restricted to cutting only trees designated by the department of lands and forests within a 1,320-foot zone running along 720 miles of waterways set aside for canoe routes. No cutting is to be allowed within 100 feet of shorelines or 300 feet of portages.

This change adds 1,000 feet to the 500-foot reservation zone set aside in the provisional master plan.

During July and August, no cutting is to be allowed within a two-mile-wide "sound buffer zone" established to protect canoeists from normal noises from logging operations.

Mr. Brunelle said this two-mile zone may be extended in future summers if it seems necessary.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"It's absolutely worthless . . . I mean priceless!"

Legal Aid Write Off $300,000

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Legal Aid Plan may have to write off about $300,000 owed it because "perhaps we undertook unrealistic commitments from persons which never could have been fulfilled," Dermot McCourt, plan controller, said Tuesday.

"Many persons who agreed to pay for our services got long prison terms, and how can a man live up to his contract when he's in prison."

The tax-supported plan was introduced March 31, 1968.

He said collections are averaging about $45,000 a month and "when most debts are paid at rates from $5 to $15 a month, that's quite commendable."

He was commenting on the first annual report of the independent legal aid advisory committee, set up by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart. The committee reported more than 1500,000 was owed by more than 4,300 persons.

Mining Tax Changed To 'Promote North'

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature gave second reading Tuesday night to a bill changing the rate of provincial mining tax in a vote that featured one member sitting in protest with a handkerchief on his head.

Morton Shulman (NDP—High Park) wore the handkerchief to protest that he had been ignored by deputy speaker Allen Reuter when he rose on a point of order just as the vote was called.

An ancient rule says a member in such a situation should sit with his head covered.

Mines Minister Allen Lawrence said the mining tax act is not intended as a revenue-producing bill.

"We want to use it and this department to encourage the job potential of Northern Ontario," he said. "It is a vehicle for the promotion of the north."

Poignant Moment

Lloyd Dennis Completes Role as Education's 'Backer'

By LEROY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A tired Lloyd Dennis sang his swan song in Belleville last night on Living and Learning, the report on aims and objectives of Ontario education he co - authorized with Mr. Justice Emmett Hall.

Delivering the last of hundreds of speeches he has made across Ontario since last June was "difficult and poignant" for him, he confessed. He leaves for Brockville this week to take up the post of director of the Leeds-Grenville board of education.

Sharing the sentimental occasion with Mr. Dennis was his daughter, Gail, a student at Toronto Teachers' College, and a capacity audience of over 200 at the annual banquet of Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations at Club Cantera.

Since the release last June of the controversial report of the committee on the aims and objectives of Ontario education Mr. Dennis has travelled through the province defending and explaining its 258 recommendations.

A high school drop - out, Mr. Dennis returned after wartime service to become a teacher, principal, text book author and "the department of education's chief hatchet."

His impassioned and humorous delivery of speeches on Living and Learning has led his detractors to refer to him as "a cavalred harbie to the education subway" and "Orpheus's final Lorelei."

Last night he varied his address to speak directly to his daughter.

"This is poignant for me, because my daughter is present in the audience," he said. "I'll tell you why now, Gail.

This is the first time in 17 or 18 years I've had a chance to speak without being interrupted by you.

"It's difficult for me, too, because this is my last official critique my that's where I belong."

He also related to his daughter a facetious account of her procrastination on Living and Learning. I've reached the end of my rope. My of how he came to write Living and Learning.

"I'll start by telling my daughter something she doesn't know. My education in Muskoka was somewhat interjointed. I went to so many schools I didn't bother to take off my coat. I went to one, picked up a dolonation there, served it in a second, did my homework in a third, all in one day."

"Then I ran away, and when I came back I stayed long enough to drop out again; then when I dropped back in I found a pencil and I didn't know what to do with it so I wrote a report.

"Some people say it was written by a bunch of leftists and if you ever implement it you'll breed a race of hippies.

"Well, we already have the hippies, and guess who bred them?

"The committee investigating Ontario education was composed of 21 ordinary odds and sods who crawled back under the rock from which they came, leaving me holding the book.

"I'm close to the moment of truth in Leeds-Grenville, where I go this week," he said at the conclusion of his speech.

"I took the job because the eastern part of this province has been short-changed in education rather badly in the past. I haven't all the answers, but a lot more questions than when I started."

Mr. Dennis ended on a note of warning about county boards of education.

"Take away the hierarchy we have built up in education," he pleaded. "Don't use the county boards to build more education empires. Put more responsibility and autonomy in the schools, with the teachers, not the principals as I've seen suggested."

Then, leaning over the press table, and glancing aside to some principals in the audience, Lloyd Dennis had the last word.

"Scratch that last statement from the record," he said.

Hard Act to Follow

Miss Gail Dennis, a student at Toronto Teachers' College was on hand last night when her father, Lloyd Dennis, Ontario's best known teacher, gave his last speech on the Hall-Dennis report on Ontario education.

Challenge to Alter Society Inherent in Hall-Dennis Report

"We all have a monkey on our back called change.",

With these words, Lloyd Dennis affirmed the philosophy of education reflected in Living and Learning, the report on aims and objectives in Ontario education he co-authored.

And his plea for "the change that is necessary" is nothing less than a challenge to alter the face of society.

"No culture ever establishes an institution in order to destroy itself, but that must be my function as a teacher," he affirmed.

"Canada is a land of individualism — a vibrant, pluralistic society. We do not find equality of opportunity except in diversity. So in the report we plead for diversity. Throughout Living and Learning is the idea we want the individual to find his place, stand up and state his convictions, even if he stands alone."

"There are 258 recommendations in the report," Mr. Dennis noted.

"Guess which one it is that gets people hung up tight? It's the one that says perhaps it's time to remove violence from the learning situation.

"No man learns in an aura of fear or force. He learns only in an atmosphere of dignity and sensitivity and common respect. That's not to mollycoddle youngsters, that's not being permissive.

"It's a wonder you haven't stood up before, you acquiescent public, and demanded we find a way to individualize learning," he charged.

The members of the provincial committee on education did not invent the new methods of education the report recommends, he suggested.

"We saw schools, teachers, who dealt with youngsters with humility, sensitivity, kindness and respect. We saw teachers do it — that's where we learned," Mr. Dennis said.

"We are asking that what was once extra-ordinary in our schools, become ordinary among us."

A teacher is solidly committed to the service of the community, he told his listeners.

"If I offer myself to this kind of service, then I have the right to say get off my back, let me travel in faith, don't force me into an establishment position, don't strip me down and make me the utilitarian handmaiden of the Schools Task Forces Scrutinizing Needs

Organization of task forces to bring community educational needs to the attention of Hastings County board of education continues in the country.

The task forces will introduce recommendations by mid-May, and continue to promote involvement of all community groups in education. Eventually, they will aid in evaluating programs and study courses in the schools.

Area 4, southeast Hastings — has two task forces in operation, one in the Tyendinaga-Deseronto region, another in Thurlow township. The southeast and southwest Hastings areas have united to form a separate task force for the city of Belleville.

Heading the Tyendinaga-Deseronto group are R. K. Venn, principal of Deseronto Public School and L. D. Read, Moira Secondary School principal.

Members are Miss Olivia Long, Shannonville; Jack A. Layfield, Deseronto; Mrs. G. L. Sagar, R. R. Reid, David Saunders, Mrs. Leslie Claus, Rev. William Hendry and Carroll Sergeant, all of Deseronto and Steven Geneja, Corbyville.

John Emerson, principal of Harmony School and John Hayman, principal of Quinte Secondary School are co-chairmen of the Thurlow task force.

Prince Edward Disagreement

Ex-trustees Want School Meeting

PICTON (Staff) — Hoton Martin, Prince, Edward County Board of Education chairman, says he would support the idea of former area school trustees who want a general public meeting on county education costs.

He was commenting on a proposal presented at a meeting of former township trustees and board secretaries.

The meeting in Bloomfield Monday night was organized by Malcolm Dulmage who was interim school organization committee chairman for the county last year.

Former Prince Edward County School trustees aren't satisfied with the new board's explanation of its financial problems.

The new county board of education partly attributes its cramped money situation to debts incurred by former boards. The validity of its explanation may be argued before a general meeting before mid-May.

Monday night in Bloomfield, eight former trustees and two secretary-treasurers for four of eight 1968 school area boards in Prince Edward met to plan a public inquiry into charges by the county board.

The former school officials are led by Malcolm Dulmage of Cherry Valley, former chairman of the county EOC (Interim School Organization Committee).

Mr. Dulmage said if the county board attends a panel discussion he would like to have a moderator for the evening to shield any awkward queries and keep the program running smoothly. Two names were proposed — Picton lawyer William R. Lane and Donald Baxter, an executive official of the Baxter canning enterprises in Bloomfield.

Mr. Dulmage and the ex - trustees also agreed to prepare simplified statements which would indicate exactly the state of the area board's budgets at Dec. 31, 1968.

Besides Mr. Dulmage and Mr. McCormack, Mrs. Helen McConnell, last year's secretary for the Athol board, Jessen Whitney, chairman of the 1968 Athol Township board attended the meeting Monday night. Also present were former North Marysburgh trustee Russell Mitchell and William Wilkinson; Sophiasburgh trustees Jack Sprague, Donald Thompson and Robert Semple. Retired trustee from Athol, Harry Ostrander, also spoke.

Tranquil Now, But Soon . . . .

A traditional beauty spot, Presqu'ile park now is a tranquil scene today. However, the serenity will soon surrender to something more active. The area is a top summer tourist attraction.

History - - and Safety First

This lighthouse still warns mariners off the Presqu'ile shoals — and for good reason. The historic plaque in foreground marks the sinking with all hands of a foundered craft in the days of sail. Today, every type of modern craft slops here.

Presqu'ile Girds for Summer

By ELMER BONTER

PRESQUILE — The popular summer playground and wildlife sanctuary here will soon be wakened by the excited voices of the first of the 150,000 expected to spend holidays in this part of the Quinte area this year.

The park officially opens on Friday May 9 — a little more than a week away.

In the meantime, all of the tourist facilities are being readied by the permanent staff of the lands and forest department responsible for the year 'round operation of the 2,200-acre camping and recreation retreat for dedicated outdoorsmen.

The long sand beach making up the shoreline on the west side of the peninsula jutting out into Lake Ontario becomes a mecca for sun and water activists during the hot weather. There is also available, to the more energetic, 300 acres of islands known as the High Bluffs of the southwest corner as well as miles of wooded trails through the natural habitat of a variety of animals and birds living protected there on the park's mainland.

Many visitors establish residence in trailers and tents and then fan out through the Quinte area looking for eating places, stores and entertainment as a daily routine. Businessmen have learned to recognize their presence by the increased sales they generate.

Tourists interested in sightseeing can visit the historic museum near the lighthouse at the extreme southeast end. A dock and ramp have been provided for those who bring along a boat to camp.

Longden Finds Nerves Worse in Stable Than in Saddle

"I'll be glad when the Derby is over," Longden, trainer of favored Majestic Prince, Canada's only entry, said Tuesday.

"I'm just worried about him coming back in good shape. I have a once-in-a-lifetime colt and I don't want anything to go wrong."

Longden, who rode a record 6,032 winners during a 40-year career, including the great Count Fleet to the 1943 Triple Crown, thinks he has another Count Fleet on his hands in the big, red Kentucky-bred colt.

"Majestic Prince is as good as Count Fleet and I hope even better," Longden said after galloping the undefeated three-year-old in a workout for Saturday's classic.

Majestic Prince, who likes peppermint candy almost as much as winning races, was purchased by industrialist Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver as a yearling for a then-record price of $250,000.

All trainers and long-time Derby observers proclaim this year's 95th running as perhaps the strongest in many years. Some are predicting a timing of less than two minutes for the first time.

A factor in that prediction is Calo Hoy Stable's Ack Ack, who broke the Churchill Downs track record for a mile Tuesday in winning the Derby Trial Stakes by seven lengths.

Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, owner of the fleet bay colt, said it might be a day or two before he decides on his colt's Derby status.

The decision for Guggenheim —as well as all others—must be made by 9:30 a.m. Thursday, when $500 must be deposited to pass the entry box if a horse is to go to the post.

It costs another $1,000 to start.

If Ack Ack goes, he could force a fast early pace, resulting in a record timing for the Derby. If he doesn't go, it might force the other horses to make their own pace—with an even faster clocking as the outcome.

Majestic Prince, the Steven Wilson Kotzer's Top Knight and Paul Mellon's Arts and Letters would like to run close to the pacesetter early in the Derby, but preferably not in front.

Dike, flying the colors of Clairborne Farm, wants to come from as far off the pace as he can get and still hopes to make up the lost ground. He's likely to be passing firing horses in the long Churchill Downs stretch.

Intelligencer Sports

by Maurice Switzer
Sports Editor

A fellow with the likely name of Schoenmaker was leading the Finn Dinghy sailing championships in Bermuda . . . Nancy Greene's new ski coach-hubby is telling some wife-like nagging from a disgruntled female member of the national ski team . . . Semi-sharpe Arnold Alderdice 4-1 . . . and it says in a dispatch from Montreal that Les Habitants of that city are now two wins away from their nineteenth Stanley Cup.

Surprise, surprise.

St. Louis, appropriately the Blues, forgot themselves and actually played hockey for a while during the third period of last night's tilt. But when the boredom had cleared, Canadiens loomed up on the long end of their second straight 3-1 verdict.

Highlights included goalposts by St. Marseille and Berenson, while Ralph Backstrom provided the club excitement by missing the St. Louis net vacated by Glenn Hall.

Outside of Hall's precedent-setting 194th Stanley Cup appearance as a goalie, the game had little to offer in the way of feats. John Ferguson fulfilled his life's ambition by legging his 76th penalty minute to become the most hundred player in any single playoff year in NHL history. Congratulations, John.

To inject some excitement into things, we would like to suggest a between-periods shooting contest, object of which would be to see how many Blues could break a pane of glass from five feet.

Red Skelton and some of the other pre-empted programming never looked so good as they do now.

"Play at the moment is disorganized and scrambly," quoth the broadcasting dean, and we could have sworn we heard a voice in the Forum mechanical bonk matter: "Shut up and deal."

The comedy of errors moves to St. Louis Thursday night, where the Blues will try to make it 17 strikes games in a row against the Habs. Coach Scotty Bowman is pinning most of his hopes on Red Berenson and the St. Louis power play.

All this sedentary shinny has posed a problem for those charged with the task of selecting candidates for the Conn Smythe Trophy, awarded to the outstanding playoff performer.

We thought that Messrs. Cheevers, Sandrock, Esposito, and Westfall of the dear departed Bruins took that as much right as anyone in the silverware. But with their ejections from further competition, the odds seem set to swing to Montreal prospects, and Serge Savard in particular.

Now that the Habs are engaged in such a lackluster series, selectors may not be able to think of a Montreal name that has left a lasting impression.

Picking the three stars in this year's St. Louis-Canadiens final is a process of elimination. First, you reject all the Ecclestones and Tremblays that aren't playing worth a hoot; then you discard all the Richards and Berenson that aren't playing up to par; then you divide by the number of injuries and hope you have three names left.

Playoff hockey it is, but Stanley Cup caliber it's not.

St. Louis Fans Good, But They Can't Go on the Ice

MONTREAL (CP) — Left winger Dick Duff who scored a second-period goal Tuesday night to help Montreal Canadiens to a 3-1 win over St. Louis Blues, doesn't think the home-town fans will help the losers.

The win left Montreal with a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final, with the third and fourth games scheduled for St. Louis Thursday and Sunday.

"The fans can't go on the ice and win the game for them," Duff said when asked about the help the Blues will get from their fans. "They had some pretty good fans in New York and Boston, too, and we beat them."

Montreal knocked out New York Rangers in four games and Boston Bruins in six to reach the final against the Blues.

"I'm glad we're going to St. Louis up 2-0 instead of 1-1 or with no wins," Ruel said. "St. Louis had a much better record this season than they did last year when we beat them four straight for the cup.

"It's most respect them because every game against them this year has been tough."

The Montreal coach said he was pleased with the goaltending of Rogatien Vachon who almost didn't make it for the game. He was struck by a shot from John Ferguson in the pre-game warmup and played the game with a pressure bandage wrapped around a bruised right arm.

Vachon's first playoff shutout was spoiled by Larry Keenan who slid a shot underneath the Montreal goalie in the third period.

"If I got a piece of the first shot with the side of my pad, but I couldn't get up in time to stop the second one," Vachon said.

Ferguson, meanwhile was fiabbergasted when told he had set a pair of playoff records Tuesday night.

You got to be kidding," said Ferguson.

His first-period double minor and misconduct made him the all-time Stanley Cup penalty leader with 218 minutes in 63 games—two more than Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings—and a record 76 minutes in 12 playoff games this season.

Ferguson said of the records: And what's more it cost me money to set them."

He was assessed an automatic $25 for a spearing minor and the same amount for the misconduct.

Centre Ralph Backstrom scored Canadien's first goal in the opening period and narrowly missed an empty-net shot in the final minute as the Blues yanked goaltender Glenn Hall.

"I guess I just put too much English on the one that missed the empty net," Backstrom said.

Jean Beliveau, Monreal centre and captain, had a fine night as he assisted on goals by linemates Duff and Yvan Cournoyer.

We skated - better tonight than we did in the opener," Beliveau said. Everybody was moving, but I still think we can improve."

Scotty Bowman, St. Louis coach, asked visitors to the Blues room:

Why has everyone such a long face? It's not the end of the world."

Bowman said he felt his club had played well during the first period, but unfortunately it was Montreal that scored the goal.

We missed a couple of good chances in the third period when Canadiens were two men short," Bowman said. Keenan scored then, but it was the opportunities we missed about that time that killed us."

St. Louis defencemen Al Arbour and Barclay Plager were both nursing bruises from slapshots from the stick of Cournoyer.

Bowman Stoic About Losing Opening Pair

MONTREAL (CP) — Why the long faces?" Scotty Bowman said as he walked out of St. Louis Blues dressing room Tuesday night. It's not the end of the world."

We know we have to win a game here, but who has won here in the first two games of the playoffs in recent seasons?" said Bowman.

Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks lost the opening two games against the Canadiens here last year, and the same thing happened in New York Rangers and Boston Bruins in the last three weeks.

What Bowman didn't mention was that in falling 3-1 for the second time in as many games in this year's edition of the Stanley Cup, the Blues had extended their winless streak against Montreal to 16 regular-season and playoff games.

And with the third and fourth games scheduled for St. Louis Thursday and Sunday afternoon, the outlook for the Blues is anything but bright for the National Hockey League's top prize.

Bowman still is optimistic that the St. Louis fans will give his club an edge.

Barclay Plager, who came into the game with an injured back and came out with a large, well on his left leg, said: We have to stop worrying about winning the cup and concentrate on winning one game."

Glenn Hall, making his first appearance in goal for St. Louis since April 2 when he pulled a muscle in the opening period against Philadelphia Flyers, set a record for the most playoff appearances by a goaltender—106—to erase the mark he shared with Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings. Hall was the most valuable player in the 1968 Stanley Cup and was brilliant Tuesday night in stopping 30 shots. Dick Duff and Yvan Cournoyer were the only other Canadiens to beat him.

Hornets Hound Stampeders Into Hiding

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Galt Hornets unleashed a 45-shot assault to trounce Calgary Stampeders 8-3 in Allan Cup play Tuesday night, a defeat that sent the Western champions into hiding.

Coach Roy Kelly barred the Calgary dressing room to the press and visitors after the defeat before 2,400 fans and offered only a disgruntled "no comment" when reporters finally got to see him.

Galt now leads the Canadian senior hockey championship series 2-0. The third game of the best-of-seven round is scheduled here Thursday night.

Joe Hogan, team captain and veteran of Galt's last Allan Cup triumph in 1961, led the Hornets with three goals. Centre Vance Millar struck twice for the winners with Fern Belanger, Pete Brennan, Don Pasquinelli and Howie Dietrich scoring once.

Ted Demchuk collected two goals for the Stampeders—one a brilliant individual effort early in the second period—and Warren Hicks scored the other.

The Stampeders, who dropped the opening game 7-2 here Sunday, started aggressively Tuesday. They split four goals with the Hornets in the first period and grabbed a 3-1 lead early in the second—the only time they have been ahead in the series.

But then the Hornets built up a 5-3 lead going into the final 20 minutes.

Calgary's defence fell apart when Hogan scored his second goal of the game to tie it 3-3 at 11:17 of the second period.

Hogan scored what turned out to be the winning goal later in the period.

Demchuk's second goal was the most spectacular one of the game. He split Galt's defence, was pulled down from behind, but was still able to bat the bouncing puck past Bost Hurley while sliding along the ice.

Hurley, a veteran of several world hockey tournaments, faced 36 shots in the Galt net.

Calgary again was hampered by a shortage of players and Kelly used six different line combinations as he juggled his eight forwards.

Referee Jim MacAulley of Montreal assessed seven minor penalties, four of them against Galt. None of the penalties figured in the scoring.

Nancy's Hubby-coach in Firing Line of Skier's Pot-shots

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Joël Leitzweber, the Kimberley, B.C., ski star who two years ago was hailed as Canada's up-and-coming Nancy Greene, said Tuesday the calibre of coaching was one of the main reasons she resigned from the national ski team.

Miss Leitzweber, 18, said she thought Peter Frenzen did an excellent job last season in coaching the women's team, but she was less enthusiastic about head coach Al Raine's performance.

"Al kept pushing us all season, we were under constant pressure," Miss Leitzweber said in an interview.

"When Al came to Europe in the winter he threatened to send home anyone who didn't do well."

She said members of the women's and men's teams were living from meet to meet, not knowing if they would be shipped out and "I don't think anyone can ski well under those circumstances."

Miss Leitzweber was one of five senior team members who quit the squad. The others are Stephanie Townsend, 21, Banff, Alta.; Carrie Chapman, 19, Montreal; Bob Swan, 20, Chelsea, Que.; John Ritchie, 19, Port Arthur.

She said the resignations started two weeks ago at Lesan headquarters at Notre Dame University here.

"The office started calling in the boys one by one and telling them they were being dropped. The office called me and I wrote out my resignation."

She said there was no collusion involved in the resignations. Each of the five quit on an individual basis.

Raine, 37, said the five skiers would have been dropped from the team in any event and their action "definitely does not reflect the majority of the team."

He said the resignations were merely a face-saving device and the five who quit showed their immaturity by telling the news media they were leaving.

Sponsor Pays Bowerman's Way On Canadian Tour

SPECIAL — Belleville's Gary Bowerman, the assistant pro with the booming tee shots, will

GARY BOWERMAN

Two rounds of golf at DeSoto Lakes in Florida with United Tire executive Barry Sherbin were enough to get the Canadian tour for the blonde belter.

Bowerman took apart the tough par-73 course at DeSoto the first time they played. He fluored the course three under par despite gale winds. Two days later they went around again and this time Bowerman was five under par over the 7,191-yard course.

Last week Sherbin shook hands with Bowerman on a deal that will give him a $5,000 expense account for the 16 tournament series that comprises the Canadian tour.

"I'm going to guarantee all his expenses on the Canadian tour," Sherbin said. "I know he'll do well and he gets 50 per cent off the top of everything he wins. Then if he's good enough to get his playing card, we'll see about putting him on the U.S. tour.

Bowerman adds to Ivy Lightstone at Toronto's Maple Downs course, will continue his playing association with the Maple Downs club.

Johnny on the Spot!

Forward Don Steer is set to launch a shot on net, but goaltender Larry Orton is "Johnny on the spot" to make the save during practice session last night at the Memorial Arena. The two players were among some 20-odd who turned out for the first practice session of Belleville's juvenile-junior-age entry in the Quinte District Lacrosse League.

Track Club Off and Running Tonight at Moira

STAFF — The Belleville Track Club will officially be in the running tonight when an organizational meeting and election of officers will be held at Moira Secondary School at 8 p.m.

Entering its second year of operation, the club, which operated on out of pocket money last season, recently became a member of the Belleville Minor Sports Association.

Moira Secondary School physical education instructor Gord Smith, one of the original organizers of the Belleville Track Club said "I'm hoping for a good turnout tonight, particularly of adults who are interested in organizing and running the Track Club this season."

The local club, which had 30 competitors last year ranging from ages 11 to adult, is an AAU affiliate.

It is hoped that the number of competitors will increase this year and that the team will be able to enter 12 major meets as well as the provincial championships.

Eastern Nationals to Forsake Ottawa Base

OTTAWA (CP) —The newly-established corporation running Canada's national hockey team has apparently ruled out Ottawa as a home base for the club.

Hockey Canada has notified the local arena to make other use of ice time contracted for by the Ottawa-based eastern national team.

Hockey Canada has indicated it will honor the financial terms of the final year of a two-year contract for Civic Centre ice for the eastern nationals although the team won't be playing.

Exhibition association officials think the corporation will likely stage some exhibition matches at the Civic Centre to meet remaining obligations under the $25,000 contract.

The association announced it will offer the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings the available ice for a revived American Hockey League entry based in Ottawa.

Detroit's AHL franchise is currently disbanded. The ice-time charge under the offer would be a minimum of $1,000 a game or 15 per cent of the gate, whichever is larger.

REWARD

On Thursday, 6 March 1969 at about 5.30 a.m. a serious accident was caused on 401 Highway, 9.5 miles east of Wilton Church Road underpass 9 miles east of Brockville, when a horse left out of the back of a truck into the path of an eastbound tractor-trailer owned by Smith Transport.

A reward will be paid for information leading to the positive identification of the owner of the truck and the whereabouts of horses vanished by Smith Transport Limited.

You are asked to contact Your nearest Smith Transport Terminal Manager.

Mulvihill, Lupenette, Share Award

A centre and a defenceman shared the spotlight at a recent dinner banquet given in honor of the Belleville Kinsmen bantams, the Ontario Class "A" hockey champions.

Centre Danny Lupenette, who scored more than 50 goals this season, and defensive stalwart John Mulvihill were co-winners of the Most Valuable Player award donated by Dick Elston and John Emerson.

Team members received red jackets at the dinner banquet that closed a season in which the Kinsmen captured their second consecutive Ontario Class "AA" Bantam Championship.

Basketball? It's Elementary

The high school basketball season is over, but Centennial Secondary School's three gyms will be the scene of a flurry of hardcourt activity Saturday morning from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m.

The city's senior public schools will vie for city championships in four categories; boys' grade seven, boys' grade eight, girls' grade seven and girls' grade eight at Saturday's tournament.

Eliminations are being held this week at Centennial and Quinte Secondary School so that Saturday's tournament will be narrowed to the semi - finals and finals in each category.

Sports On All Fronts

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Churchill Downs has tightened security around the horse barns since the controversial episode a year ago involving Dancer's Image and Forward Pass. Lucien Laurin, trainer for Dim, was stopped by guards as he entered the track area before dawn Tuesday. Laurin has been working out his colt in virtual darkness before 6 a.m. A light was flashed in the trainer's eyes and he was forced to identify himself. Veterinarians are also being stopped and questioned before being admitted to the barns. It was appearance of a pain-killing drug in Dancer's Image's system that denied him the purse which was awarded to Forward Pass, a matter still in litigation.

EDMONTON (CP) — Directors of the Alberta Junior Hockey League want a conference of all Canadian junior hockey authorities at the next annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Steve Wyker of Edmonton, AJHL commissioner, said the league has written all branches of the CAHA suggesting the conference, at the CAHA meeting May 19 in Calgary, to discuss "junior hockey problems with junior hockey people."

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Penny Ann Early, who started all the commotion about lady jockeys, won't make her scheduled debut as the first of her sex to ride in Hollywood Park today. Penny Ann failed to show up Tuesday morning as usual to exercise horses for trainer W. L. Proctor, to whom she is under contract, and he decided to let someone else ride for him. She has a temporary license but must ride at least twice to the satisfaction of the stewards before she can be accredited officially.

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional football appeared to be swinging toward a 13-13 realignment Tuesday with three National League clubs joining the 10 American League teams in one of the two conferences of the single league for 1970, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday he favors small divisions, home-and-home series within a division and retention of as much of the 10-year-rivalry as is feasible.

MONTREAL (CP) — Sources close to Hockey Canada said Tuesday that Red Kelly, coach of Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, is only one of three or four men being considered for a coaching job with Canada's national team. A spokesman said Hap Emms, managing director of the newly-formed corporation handling the team, is the only person delegated to hire personnel and added that Emms has not talked to Kelly. Kelly denied talking to Emms about the national team. He still has more than a month to run on his two-year contract with the Kings.

Seeing the World on Water Skis

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — George Athans Jr., a 16-year-old high school student from this Okanagan community, is seeing the world on a pair of water skis.

"I haven't been home for the last four summers," he said in a recent interview.

This year he's aiming at the world championships in Copenhagen during the first week in August, and another crack at his American rivals.

"It's the attitude the Americans take to everything . . . is every sport," he said. "They think they dominate in everything and I'd like to change that."

And he almost did just that last summer in the Western Hemisphere championships in Colombia.

Choppy water caused an unexpected flip in the jumping event and George slashed his leg with one of his skis. Despite the mishap he placed second over-all with a first in slalom, second in trick skiing and a fourth in the jumping.

Pt. Anne Thinks Big

Minor Sports in the Point Anne area got a big boost recently when a group of interested citizens got together and formed the Point Anne and District Sports Association.

Association President Bill Bates said "The purpose of our association is to promote minor softball and minor hockey for the kids and to organize local leagues in these sports."

Bates also added that the association is considering future expansion which would bring men's and women's sports under their wing.

The association will hold Minor Softball registration for boys 16-and-under Saturday at 9.30 a.m. at the Point Anne ball park.

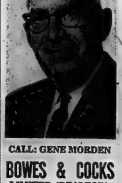
Women Wait 'Til Saturday



The new executive of the Belleville Women's Softball Association has decided to delay further organizational meetings regarding entries until registration ends Saturday.

Open registration has been going on at the Recreation Centre since Monday and the response so far has been good.

Sharon Drummond was elected president of the Women's Softball Association at a recent organizational meeting which elected a slate of officers for the coming season.

Expansion No Picnic For Houston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston Astros might have come out of the 1962 expansion draft in worse shape than this year's two new National League clubs, but it's seven years later now and the Astros still appear left out in the cold.

The Astros added another loss to their worst record in the league by dropping a 2-1 decision at Atlanta Tuesday night, their seventh consecutive defeat and 14th in the last 15 games. They are 0-13 on the road.

"I think we're better than this," was about all manager Harry Walker would say after his club fell to a 4-19 record.

Although Montreal Expos dropped a 1-0 verdict to New York Mets, and San Diego Padres lost to Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, the two newest teams in the league had records Houston could envy. The Expos might be last in the East Division, but they have a 7-12 record while the Padres are fifth in the West at 9-13.

San Francisco Giants remained tied with the Dodgers for first place in the West by beating Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 13 innings and Chicago Cubs increased their East lead with a 10-9 rout over Philadelphia Phillies.

Cold weather postponed St. Louis' game at Pittsburgh.

"We're not loafing," Walker insisted. "We just get the bases loaded and time after time the batter drills one right into someone's glove that just as easily could have been a double."

That's close to what happened against the Braves. Trailing 2-1, the Astros loaded the bases in the eighth inning with one out on singles by Jesus Alou and Jim Wynn, a sacrifice and an intentional walk, but reliever Cecil Upshaw got Denis Menke to hit into a force out at home and then Curt Blefary grounded out.

They also loaded the bases with one out against winner Milt Pappas in the fifth, but Alou and Wynn both fouled out.

After Orlando Cepeda's sacrifice fly in the first gave Atlanta a 1-0 lead, Pappas 2-2 drove in the decisive run himself in the fourth with a single off loser Denny Lemaster, 0-4.

Ed Kranepool's first two homers of the season—off Jim Grant in the second and sixth innings — gave the Mets, the other 1962 expansion club, their eighth victory in 19 games for a third-place tie in the East.

Junior Habs Mustering For Onslaught on Westerners

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Junior Canadiens will throw a well-balanced attack at Regina Pats tonight when the best junior club in the West meets the best in the East in the first game of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final.

Phil Wimmer, Canadiens general manager, said after his club Tuesday workout that all reports indicate a good series.

The Canadiens won the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship, then walloped through their series of playoff rounds.

"Our best feature is the fact we have three well-balanced lines," Wimmer said. "All three lines have equal scoring potential and when one doesn't go the others do."

Houle scored 53 goals and assisted in 55 others for 108 points in 54 regular-season games. He has added another 18 goals and 10 assists in the playoffs.

The Canadiens second line consists of Bob Lalonde at centre, Jean-Pierre Bordeleau and Marc Tardif on the wings. The third line—known as the Kid Line—has Richard Lemieux at centre, Norm Gratton at right wing and Guy Charron on the left side.

The Canadiens have two strong blue line pairs in Jocelyn Guevremont and Claude Mouleau, along with Serge Lajeunesse and Andre Dupont. Gary Connolly adds muscle as the fifth defenceman.

Goaltender is likely to be Jim Rutherford, picked up from Hamilton Red Wings for the playoffs. Rutherford appeared in the Canadiens last two games.

Ticats Plan Major Overhaul

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who finished out of the Eastern Football Conference final last season for the first time since 1960, have undertaken one of the largest rebuilding programs in Canadian football.

More than 60 players, including about 40 newcomers are expected when the Ticats open training at Civic Stadium June 23.

Most of the club's current problems have been created by the loss of standout defensive backs Bob Richardson and Ted Page, defensive tackle Billy Ray Locklin and running back Alan Smith, who played out their options last season.

Locklin and Page both were part of the trade that sent quarterback Bernie Faloney to Montreal Alouettes in 1965.

Meanwhile the club, busy with pre-season signings, has not negotiated contracts with two of their veterans—quarterback Joe Zuger and defensive tackle Angelo Mosca.

Both are under option to the club and expected to sign before the May 15 deadline.

Ticats Tuesday announced the signing of linebackers Bob Krouse, Milt Greene Roy Davis Billy James Doss and Dan Mooney along with defensive backs Barrie Hansen and Scott Tyler.

Trip to Barber Boosts Pitcher

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Since Marty Pattin went to see The Barber he's been a measure to his former teammates, California Angels.

Pattin, picked up by Seattle Pilots from California in the American League expansion draft, pitched a two-hitter Friday as the Pilots nipped the Angels 1-0 on an eighth-inning homer by catcher Larry Haney.

The victory was Pattin's second in two appearances against California. The complete game was his first in the majors.

"Give the credit to our pitching coach, Sal (The Barber) Maglie," said the right-hander who held the Angels hitless for 7 2-3 innings and finished with 11 strikeouts. "He changed my delivery and gave me a couple of other suggestions during spring training.

"Before, I had a lot of wasted effort. I was rearing back and winding up. Sal got me to take less of a windup and to stop rearing back."

Maglie, who pitched a no-hitter 13 years ago for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, watched his protege stop the Angels cold until Tom Satriano singled with two out in the eighth. Jim Fregosi singled with two out in the ninth, but Haney cut him down trying to steal second, nailing Pattin's third victory against one loss.

In other AL games, Boston Red Sox shaded New York Yankees 2-1, ending Mel Stottlemyre's winning string at five; Detroit Tigers topped Washington Senators 5-4 on Mickey Stanley's three-run double in the ninth and Minnesota Twins pounded Kansas City Royals 9-1 behind Harmon Killebrew's grand-slam homer.

The Baltimore-Cleveland game was rained out and Chicago White Sox and Oakland Athletics were idle.

Mike Nagy, making his first major league start, held the Yankees to three hits and an unearned run in 6 2-3 innings and Sparky Lyle finished up with a hitless relief job after the Red Sox scored twice in the seventh.

Tony Conigliaro doubled and scored the tying run on a single by rookie Syd O'Brien, who continued to second on the throw to the plate and took third on a wild pitch. Stottlemyre struck out George Scott and walked Rico Petrocelli intentionally before O'Brien scored as Joe Azcue bounced into a force at second.

Killebrew's eighth career grand slam sent the Twins ahead 4-1 in the third and they coasted to their fourth straight victory behind rookie right-hander Dick Woodson. John Roseboro paced Minnesota's 14-hit attack with four singles.

Celtics Even!

BOSTON (AP) — Sam Jones came through with a clutch 15-foot jump shot with one second remaining in lifting Boston Celtics to a dramatic 89-88 victory over Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night, evening their best-of-seven series for the National Basketball Association championship at 2-2.

Jones, the 36-year-old veteran retiring after the playoffs, shook off a close guard, took a pass from John Havlicek and connected from the free-throw line.

It was Boston's second straight victory over the Lakers in the Celtics' bid for their 11th NBA title in 13 years.

The Clties had failed to score from the floor for more than four minutes before Jones connected. The Lakers led 88-86 before Boston's Emmette Bryant cashed a free throw with 15 seconds remaining.

EVERGREENS

A Large Shipment of No. 1. Stock from One of Ontario's Largest Nurseries

EVERGREENS — JUNIPERS — YEWS — CEDARS — SPRUCE

PFITZER JUNIPER

3.88 EACH

Very hardy and naturally of a low wide spreading habit with light green feathery foliage. One of the most extensively planted.

Evergreens are the most popular form of planting material today. Their ability to stay green all winter in our fierce climate and the fact that they produce an immediate effect as soon as planted combine to make them the backbone of most garden plantings.

SPRUCE

The Spruce family embraces a large number of forms. Many of these trees are grown as magnificent park specimens while others are more suitable for windbreaks. The Colorado Spruce is the most popular on the lawn or for windbreaks.

COLORADO SPRUCE 3.88 each

YEW

It is not surprising that this yew has become Canada's most popular evergreen. Its dense dark green foliage and its comparative toughness in city conditions puts it in a class by itself.

UPRIGHT YEW 3.88 each

CEDAR

Medium or low growing evergreens of dense outline. They comprise many of our best evergreens for windbreaks, hedges, specimens and foundation planting.

PYRAMID CEDAR 3.88 each

PEAT MOSS

Promotes thicker, greener lawns, healthier plants, trees and shrubs. Breaks up clay and thickens sandy soil. Helps lawn through drought periods.

Omnibus Bill Still Before House

Rambling Creditistes' Attacks on Legal Abortions Cut Off

OTTAWA (CP) — The rules of relevancy were invoked in the Commons Tuesday night to rein Creditistes who are waging a tenacious debate against the proposed new law on abortion.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux took the chair for an hour and cut seven Creditiste MPs short as they spoke in rambling fashion on amendments to the abortion proposals.

Deputy Speaker Hugh Faulkner then took the chair.

The proposed law would allow abortion where a hospital committee of three or more doctors certifies that the mother's life or health would, or might be, endangered by continuation of pregnancy.

The abortion clauses are part of an omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code and have been before the House, at the report stage, since Monday. More than a dozen amendments to the proposed law have been proposed.

Creditiste MPs, speaking to their full time limits, argued that human life begins at conception and thus makes abortion murder.

The House heard an amendment by Gaston Clermont (L—Gatineau) to limit abortion to cases of direct threat to a mother's life or health.

Mr. Clermont's amendment, which was deferred, would do this by removing the phrase "or would be likely to endanger" life or health.

Tempers of government and opposition members began to wear as debate on the omnibus bill, entered, by government count, its 14th day.

Donald S. Macdonald, the government House leader, who gave the debate figure accompanied it with a statement that the rate of progress on the legislation made him wonder whether Parliament will deal with anything else before the summer recess late in June.

Later, Eldon Woolliams (PC —Calgary North) charged Mr. Macdonald with misrepresentation and fraud in implying that the Conservatives were dragging their feet in the debate.

All speakers from his party had been brief and to the point whether the house was discussing sections of the bill on homosexuality, abortion or anything else.

In the Senate, second reading was given a bill aimed at preventing a feared takeover of Nova Scotia Savings and Loan Co., but only after opposition from both sides of the House.

Opponents of the bill, presided by Senator Earl W. Urquhart (L—Nova Scotia), allowed it to go to committee today for detailed study despite their reservations.

Senator Urquhart described the company as the oldest mortgage company in Canada, dating from 1849. Its directors had become convinced that Royal Trust Co., which had bought 14.3 per cent of the shares, is trying to acquire control.

Opponents add the bill, stipulating that no one buying more than 15 per cent of the shares could vote them, might set a precedent that could be invoked by other companies fighting takeover bids.

Violence on Television

CBS President Defends Network Coverage of Chicago Riots

EDMONTON (CP) — Richard Jencks, president of CBS Broadcast Group, told the Canadian Association of Broadcasters Tuesday he is convinced his network did the best job it could have done in covering the Democratic party convention in Chicago last August.

Mr. Jencks, participating in a discussion on violence on radio and television at the C.A.B. annual meeting, said he believes widespread public criticism of the network's performance at Chicago is misplaced.

He said he wished only that some of the on-air commentary by announcers at Chicago had been "sober." Announcers on one or two occasions had become personally involved in the convention disturbances when police beat up reporters and cameramen.

Mr. Jencks said that in general, regardless of what certain segments of public opinion would like to think, there are no easy answers to the questions posed by radio and television handling of violence in entertainment and news programming. The situation at Chicago had been a particularly difficult one.

Dr. Martin J. Maloney, professor of radio and television at Northwestern University near Chicago, said he had investigated broadcast coverage of the Democratic convention and he agreed with Mr. Jencks' assessment.

There was agreement among all the participants in Tuesday's C.A.B. convention session—Dr. Maloney, Mr. Jencks, Dr. Richard Du Wors, head of the sociology and anthropology department, University of Calgary; Bert Cannings, news and public affairs director, CFCF radio-television, Montreal; and Marcel Beauregard, news director, CKVL, Verdun, Que.—on three basic points regarding news coverage of violence.

They agreed that violence is a condition in all large societies and is not in any significant way caused by radio and television.

They agreed that the public has a basic "right to know." The public good is rarely, if ever served if news media suppress information on any subject.

They also agreed that news media need to work consciously to preserve balance in reporting violence, and must avoid provoking "staged" displays of violence by their presence.

Discussing violence in broadcasting entertainment, Dr. Maloney said there is no firm evidence to suggest that it is harmful.

Dr. Maloney said the problem perhaps is not that there is too much violence on television, but that there is too much clean, sanitized, unreal violence.

NATO Commander Says There's No Justification for Troop Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — NATO's supreme commander in Europe says there is no military justification for a troop reduction in Europe now.

Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, 58-year-old four-star American general, made the statement twice at a news conference here Tuesday.

He added, however, that he was speaking in general terms and not specifically of Canada, which has announced it will start troop reductions in Europe next year.

Gen. Lemnitzer was on his farewell visit here as NATO's military chief in Europe. He will retire July 1 after 6½ years in the post.

History seemed to be repeating itself here Tuesday.

In January, 1953, Gen. Lauris Norstad, then NATO supreme commander in Europe, told a news conference here that Canada had made a commitment to accept American nuclear warheads and should carry it out.

His statement caused a political furore and the Diefenbaker government, which refused to take on nuclear arms, fell a month later. The Pearson administration accepted nuclear weapons.

Gen. Norstad's news conference, like Gen. Lemnitzer's, was held at the air force's Uplands base here. Prime Minister Trudeau declined to see Gen. Lemnitzer.

With a grin, Gen. Lemnitzer said he knows all about Gen. Norstad's farewell visit to Ottawa.

Gen. Lemnitzer said he regards Canadian military presence in Europe as "an extremely important factor."

Australia May Buy Canadian Nuclear Plant

MELBOURNE (AP) — Canada's minister for trade, industry and commerce, Jean-Luc Pepin, strongly hinted today that Australia might be on the verge of buying a nuclear power generating plant from Canada.

Pepin told a news conference soon after arriving from Sydney that Australia may be "going nuclear" sooner than later. He said Canada is interested in building a nuclear reactor in Australia "with the full participation of the Australian Atomic Energy Commission and Australian industry."

Pepin said he believes the Canadian reactor called Candu would be economical for Australia. It could produce electricity at rates comparable with thermal power generating stations, he said.

"It really is not for me to say whether it would be viable for Australia but your scientists seem to like the Canadian system and there seems to me that there are the makings of a wedding—and I would like to be at the ceremony," he said.

Indians Want to Know Government's Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates to a national Indian conference decided Tuesday they want a clear policy statement from the federal government on their aboriginal and treaty rights.

The conference, called to discuss proposed changes in the Indian Act, instead has spent the first two days of a week-long meeting talking about the alleged failure of government to recognize Indian rights.

Up for discussion today is a submission of the National Indian Brotherhood which says that the previous regional consultation talks were a failure and that the Indians themselves should be given the funds to rewrite the Indian Act themselves.

New Brunswick delegates said Tuesday they will withdraw from the conference today unless Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien assures them their aboriginal rights and treaties will be respected.

Ontario Indians said they felt much the same. Unless these rights were nailed down, there seemed little to be gained by continuing the conference.

There seemed to be unanimous approval for an Indian brotherhood brief that said the regional consultations had followed the line the government wanted them to.

But Indians were more concerned about recognition of the treaties, of aboriginal rights, action on restricted hunting and fishing rights, and establishment of a commission to deal with Indian land and other claims than with Indian Act changes.

Ban on Hate Dangerous Says Scott

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Frank R. Scott, a scholar on legal and political affairs for several decades, told a Senate committee Tuesday that proposed hate literature legislation would interfere with freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Appearing before the Senate's legal affairs committee, the former dean of McGill University law school said the legislation as drafted is dangerous, retrograde, unnecessary and "contrary to the spirit of the times."

He compared it with the defunct Quebec padlock law and said it would permit penetration of the home—although only on a judge's warrant.

"I don't want the state in the sitting rooms of the nation any more than I want it in the bedrooms of the nation," he said. "I think my right to intellectual freedom is even greater than my right to sexual freedom."

The government bill, amending the Criminal Code, would provide a penalty of up to five years imprisonment for anyone advocating genocide—racial extermination and up to two years for anyone inciting hatred or contempt of an identifiable group, if it is likely to lead to breach of the peace.

The legislation would give a false sense of security and protection against discrimination was being provided, while the causes were not being tackled.

As possible alternatives to the bill, Dr. Scott suggested creation of a Canadian human rights commission, more help for research on group relations, injunctions to prevent further actions or posting of bonds for good behavior.

Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) said both injunctions and bonds had already been tried.

Strictly Personal

'Interesting' Children Best

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What would you consider a fine compliment to you about your child? That she always looks neat and clean? That he has good manners? I wouldn't mind hearing any of this — but what really pleases me most is when some adult happens to mention that a child of mine is "interesting."

And this seems to be a trait that many parents overlook altogether. They feel responsible for giving the child wholesome food and warm clothing and setting a good moral example — but pay little, if any, attention to turning out a human being who is an interesting personality.

Thus, the world is filled with dullards who have been given wholesome food and warm clothing and sent to Sunday School and instructed to say "Please" and "Thank you" — and have been bitterly neglected and under-privileged in the area of true personality development.

This is a tremendous disservice to the child for every baby born without deficiency is a merry, curious, humorous bundle of interest, but within a half-dozen years, by the time the child begins first grade, much of the curiosity has been knocked out, the humor repressed, and thereby the learning process has been severly inhibited. (And, of course, the wrong kind of teacher, who is in the majority, compounds this growing stultification.)

Our first obligation as parents — beyond the bare subsistence needs — is to turn out children who are interesting, to themselves and to others. This means children who are interested in the world, who are confident of their abilities, who are unafraid to question, who are willing to experiment and be wrong and accept their knocks.

Instead, most parents want children who are quiet and neat and well-behaved and dutiful — and then who rebel in their teen hood, when they discover that society is a far larger, more exciting, more colorful, and more complicated structure than they had been led to believe. Indeed, it is usually the least sophisticated who get into the most trouble, at that age, not the ones who have been exposed to the world.

The only way to be interesting is to be interested: and when you are interested in external reality, then you are not bored or disaffected, and you have a focus for your activities. It is this lack of focus that makes so many teen-agers restless and ready for rebellion. If you can't raise yourself, all you can do is raise the roof.

Dull, flat, constricted and successive personalities clog this earth of ours, through no fault of their own, for God has breathed into each soul the spirit of wonder, of exploration, of humor, of charm. What parents do for their children is not nearly as important as what they fail to do in fanning that tiny spark of expressiveness.

Ottawa has largest public display of tulips in North America. More than a million tulips bloom each spring from April 28 to May 20. The annual Ottawa Tulip Festival is held the last two weeks in May. The bulbs are a gift from the Netherlands' government in recognition of the refuge granted to the Dutch Royal Family during World War II.

"Man and His World" in Montreal will open for the 1969 season on June 12, to September 7, 1969.

Entry fee at the gate is $2.50 daily.

Lack of stability in the handling of a station wagon may be due to nothing more serious than failure to observe the rule about carrying the rear tires at higher pressure than the front ones. The difference should normally be from 6 to 8 pounds, 10 or 12 if the car is loaded.

• • •

What better sign that winter is over than to see the highways teeming with clean cars in the early spring sun. That's quite a delightful thought after the harsh winter slush, salt, and gusty winds are gone. However, such a pleasant time of year can be dangerous . . . extremely so. We are into the time of year when bicycles are also coming out in greater numbers. Streets and country roads will be loaded with them, ridden by children who are happy to be alive and boating with spring fever. There is the danger. Often young exuberance on a bicycle replaces what-ever common sense the child has. As a motorist you have to be ready at all times to anticipate the completely unexpected from a child on a bike.

What about you? It's spring for you, too. The car is clean, the windshield is clearer than it has been in months, and the landscape around you is beginning to look fresh again. It's great to be alive!

Now that you are older, spring fever probably doesn't affect you as much as it did when you were a youngster. Or does it? All that it takes is a split second in which your mind wanders while you're driving. In that instant you may be admiring the trees beginning to bud or thinking how fresh the air smells. All it takes is that small instant when your attention is not on driving but on the joy of living. In the tiny moment a child who feels the thrill of spring can make the wrong move on his bike. Between the two of you, it is too late for him. He is struck. Be more alert while you are driving now. It's the adult way of enjoying spring.

Why, oh why do people let their youngsters ride bikes without either lights or reflectors, at night? Their famous last words are, "It can't happen to my kid!"

Quebec Election Near?

Budget Features New Promises, Not New Taxes

QUEBEC (CP) — The Union Nationale government Tuesday night laid the political foundation for an early general election, offering Quebecers the benefits of a budget without tax increases.

Promised was a Quebec medical care insurance program, to start July 1, 1970 on the condition that the federal government accept Quebec's request to opt out of the national program.

Liberal Leader Jean Lesage said Finance Minister Paul Dozois' budget address in the national assembly amounted to the announcement of an election later this year.

Separatist Leader Rene Levesque, who says his Parti Quebecois should reach a peak in popularity this fall, contended that the budget "does all it can to keep the door open for a fall election."

The budget provides for a deficit of $218,600,000 for the 1969-70 fiscal year, compared with a deficit of $118,600,000 in the last fiscal year.

Estimated revenues for $989-70 are $1,957,800,000, an increase of 10.4 per cent or $778,500,000 over 1968-69.

Estimated revenues for 1969-70 are $3,176,400,000.

Budget benefits included increased financial aid to both rural and urban municipalities and a measure to make most inheritances in the province free of Quebec succession duties.

The government will also help finance extension of the subway system in Montreal and help cover the cost of a metropolitan system of public transit in the Quebec City region.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, campaigning for the leadership of the Union Nationale party, smiled when questioned about the possibility of a fall election.

"It's an excellent budget," he said. "I am convinced of it."

Quebec will begin negotiations immediately with Ottawa, seeking a fiscal transfer of $135,000,000 a year to help cover the estimated $285,000,000 annual cost of medical care.

It also seeks the estimated $185,000,000 the federal government will collect here prior to July 1, 1970, under a federal tax Quebec says was imposed for federal medical care.

Mr. Levesque said the medical care program is "a disgusting fraud because it amounts to nothing more than a promise for the next election campaign, a promise made by the Union Nationale in the last election campaign."

Several opposition politicians feel that the government will call an election either for September or October, taking electoral advantage of the publicity generated by the party's leadership convention here June 19-21.

The government avoided tax increases with plans to borrow $488,000,000 on the money market to cover both its budgetary deficit and extra-budgetary expenses such as financing of the Expo 67 deficit.

Mr. Lesage, finance minister in his former Liberal government, attacked Mr. Dozois' calculations, saying the budget contained a "series of electoral tricks."

He said the government deliberately inflated estimates of revenues and deflated estimates of expenditures in an attempt to "trick" the taxpaying electorate.

"On the revenue side," he said, "the government announced financial aid for municipalities, but failed to account for this expenditure in the budget."

Mr. Dozois had no immediate comment on opposition criticism but in his budget address he said:

"On the revenue side," he said, "the government announced financial aid for municipalities, but failed to account for this expenditure in the budget."

Mr. Dozois had no immediate comment on opposition criticism but in his budget address he said:

"I rejoice in being able to present this budget without increasing taxes."

He concluded his budget address with a plea for greater flexibility in Canadian federalism, saying federal rigidity threatens to destroy Canada.

KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.,
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Heart Catheterization Safe And Can Be Most Informative

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Our son is dangerous? — Mrs. T.

Comment: I'll answer your second question first. Any surgical procedure has an element of danger, whether it is a minor or major surgery. But the experience with this process in thousands of patients indicates that complications are rare, even though it seems to be a very dangerous procedure.

Heart catheterization means just that: inserting a catheter (a long hollow tube) directly into the heart itself. A small incision is made in an arm vein; the long, soft, pliable catheter is gently pushed up the vein until it enters the heart cavity. The operator helps its guidance by fluoroscope.

By examining blood specimens and by taking pressures in the heart cavity, he can determine whether or not there is actual damage to the heart. Either to its valves or muscles or septum (the wall dividing left and right heart).

In expert hands, the heart catheterization takes about an hour and is relatively painless. In view of your son's problem, Mrs. T., he deserves to know the actual truth about his heart.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have reached that stage in my menopause when I have been having hot flashes like crazy — as many as five to six times a day, plus a couple at night. I had a "shot" for this some time ago, which didn't help. My doctor wants me to take hormone pills. Shall I? Thank you for your consideration, before I disappear into a dewdrop. —Mrs. T.

Comment: Those who can take hormones, should be thankful. Often they help very much. Why not try, rather than suffer unnecessarily?

• • •

For Mrs. U.: Another term for multiple sclerosis is disseminated sclerosis. In this chronic disease of the nervous system there may occur partial paralysis, inability to walk, changes in speech, etc. It may last for many years. But it is not, as you think, Mrs. U., invariably hopeless.

For example, Douglas McAlpine, MD, of London reports in the British Medical Journal that many patients respond satisfactorily to bed rest, moderate living habits, cortisone therapy, etc.

Of 241 patients with multiple sclerosis seen within three years of onset and observed for ten years or longer, 78 were not disabled. Five years later, 62 of the 5 patients remained unrestricted. I have seen a few similar patients in my own practice.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am worried about my 5½-year-old son. He is growing so fast and is taller than other children his age. He is 47" tall. I worry constantly that he is going to be too tall. Is there any way of slowing him down? — Mrs. L.

Comment: You are unnecessarily borrowing trouble. If he were too short, and not growing, you would have something to be concerned about. Many rapid growers slow up. The slow starters catch up with them by the time they are in their late teens. There's nothing to do but wait and see.

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

"Straight" Man Gets Oscar

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Straight men don't often get to take bows, and that's why Jack Albertson's Oscar win gave Hollywood a special glow of satisfaction.

Through vaudeville, burlesque, radio, Broadway shows and television, Albertson played straight, feeding lines to Bert Lahr, Milton Berle, Jack Benny and other comics.

That changed with The Subject Was Roses. Frank Gilroy saw Albertson in the old play Barleque and decided he was the man to play the fightwad father in Gilroy's new play. The result: A Tony on Broadway and an Oscar for best supporting actor of 1968.

Albertson seems still dazed by the events of earlier this month.

"I signed to do a television feature for Aaron Spelling at more money for a five-day job than I used to earn in a year," the actor says. "I made The Subject Was Roses for $20,000. Now my salary has doubled or tripled. Yeah, tripled, easy."

Small wonder Albertson was in tears when he thanked playwright Gilroy at the Oscar ceremony.

"Frank blew one play deal after another because he insisted on me for The Subject Was Roses," says the actor. "The backers kept telling him, 'Albertson won't bring a nickle into the box office.'

"Finally I said, 'Frank, they don't want me—give up.' But he still wouldn't quit until he got the play with me in it.

"It was the same with the picture. Frank insisted that I had to play it. He also wanted complete autonomy, and that made all the difference. My next picture deal very difficult. But when Fat Veal came in with us, everything was much easier, and the deal was signed with MGM."

Albertson has been around long enough to know that he shouldn't seize himself out of a career, as some Oscar winners have done. Nor is he insisting on starring roles. "In my next picture, Rabbit, Run, there are five bigger parts than mine," he says.

THEY COULDN'T BUILD A FENCE

So farmers like Joseph Glidden of Illinois developed barbed wire to keep them in. It was expensive fences of wood and stone that cost so much. But the use of barbed wire spread rapidly, and today it is a big range system beloved by cowboys.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For May 1st,

Your birthday today: Since all your activities come in crisis proportions this coming year; everything takes longer than planned and turns out to be of unexpected importance to you and those who depend on your support and guidance. Today's natives are anxious to please everybody and expect others to do the same in return. Some have succeeded well in politics, often combining egotism with showmanship to good advantage.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Surprise offers are par for the course now. Take full advantage of whatever comes your way; close deals promptly. Financing also should be easier now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Whatever you do today turns out later to be the beginning of a new line of action. Choices made now tend to be irrevocable.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): If you can concentrate your efforts on those things you can do alone, do so. You are apt to meet people who know less than they think they do.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Your tact comes out today as you cope with tense, anxious friends. Shelter your loved ones from the stresses.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): If you can keep your pride beneath the surface, you can achieve a great deal. Family situations straighten out with very little effort. Relax.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Anything you decide today has an interim or expedient quality, so restrain your normal tendency to confirm and make permanent all the details. Cover the highlights, protect your basic interests.

LIBRA (Sept 23 — Oct. 22): Your neglected business or financial arrangements come back to give you something of a challenge. Settle down promptly, pay up where you can, and get on with it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Fresh financial backing or new opportunity for earnings seems just around the corner. Keep looking and keep working at it. Partnership matters come to a better balance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): By staying away from speculative adventures, today can be extremely profitable, particularly where you have done your homework well, and ahead of time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your suggestions are better received for later expression. Further details will occur to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Divide time and energy evenly among what is most important to you. An old problem has a surprisingly simple solution if you will face it squarely today.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Contracts, agreements, major purchases work out easier. Find some time to enjoy music, art, the cultural side of life.

Tweed Personals

Miss Brenda Quinn, daughter of Mrs. Theresa Quinn and the late Stan Quinn, formerly of Tweed, has recently completed her post-graduate nursing studies with honours at the Allen Memorial Institute of Psychiatry, Royal Victoria Hospital, in Montreal. She has now returned to work with the Psychiatry staff at St. Michael's Hospital, in Toronto.

Members of the Tweed Kiwanis Club heard a discussion on the rising costs of education and proposed regional government when last Thursday night's meeting was addressed by a panel made up of Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed; Clerk Garrett Morton of Tweed, and Tweed councillors, Kenneth Thompson and Edwin Champagne.

Mrs. Roy Kleinsteuber and Mrs. Marion Kellar of Belleville, spent a few days recently in Peterborough attending the sessions as delegates of the Provincial Grand Lodge, LOBA of British America Ontario East.

Miss Lucas of Napanee, conducted a successful hat making course in Tweed, on the four Wednesdays in March. There was a good attendance each week.

Bruce MacDonald of Mountain Grove is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

Birthday congratulations are extended to Aaron Smith of R.R. 1, Mountain Grove, who celebrated his 80th birthday on April 27. Mr. Smith is active and spry for his age. He and his wife live with their son Fred Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be celebrating their 39th wedding anniversary in July.
